BRITONS FEEL BLITZKRIEG HAS SPENT ITS FORCE

Press Hails R. A. F. as Unbeatable.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—It is difficult to assess the effect of the blitzkrieg on the United Kingdom. It is impossible to forecast its future development.

The notion here persists that Germany has shot her wad and while attacks will continue on a large scale R. A. F. planes and pilots have proved themselves unbeatable and capable of destroying any attacking air armada, no matter how large, which the Germans may launch. It is further believed here that the British bombers are actually taking the offensive and nightly weakening the enemy by destroying vital munitions factories, airplane works, and oil depots in Germany.

Altho Britain for a week has been fighting day and night to beat back enemy bombers and fighter planes, it is not what is happening to England which is the big news here but what the R. A. F. is doing to Germany.

What the Papers Say.

The News of the World today streamers "R. A. F.'s devastating raid on Berlin." The Sunday Express, under a two column streamer, announces: "Berlin bombs drive Hitler into frenzied attacks on Britain." Reynolds' News tells readers in equally prominent headlines: "R. A. F. save London; hit Berlin."

The Sunday Express' military expert declares that Hitler has already struck the hardest blow, "which we already parried." The reason given is that the "key principle of Hitler's war strategy is to strike with all his might and take no risk of being unable to carry thru to swift victory."

There are even stories published that the United Kingdom is getting ready to take the "offensive" not only in the air but actually in land operations.

The Express, in an editorial, announces that "our airmen are unbeatable" and insists that England cannot lose the war unless "our civilian population lose their nerve."

Urges Speed Up of Production.

The newspapers of Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production, for some time have been vigorously exhorting workers to stay on their jobs during air raid warnings until their immediate area is in danger of the attackers, and to speed up war production, as already the time lost in air raid shelters seriously threatens output of plants, so essential to British victory.

Time Tide, a weekly, declares that the "first engagement in the battle for England is won" and contends that Britain quickly is progressing 'toward the offensive." John Gordon, writing in the Express, says: "We have shaken him; now to break him."

Among the few who emphasize the possibility that Hitler has not yet unloosed all of his weapons against England is David Lloyd George, prime minister in the world war.

He is among the minority seeing a definite purpose behind the German attacks, which, he says, are "gradual demolition of factories and destruction of coastal aerodromes from which our fighting planes operate quickly and effectively."

"Winter Will Help Britain."

THE TRIBUNE correspondent heard Lloyd George warn the nation in February against "not holding our own until the right time comes to make peace," and not to come to the conference table "like the German delegates did in the last war with empty barns and pinched faces." Today he renews that theme after stating that winter will help Britain to hold its own "until our preparation in men and material is more complete and American aid will have reached the proportions which will help us attain equality."

Then he says that "we shall be in a position to talk to the German Fuehrer" without fear.

A definition of Britain's exact war aims has been the subject of much discussion but Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently evaded the question on the ground that the time for such a statement was "not appropriate." But the war is expected, even by the London Times, to result in effecting radical social reforms even in this country.

REFUGEES SING AS BRITISH SHIP IS TORPEDOED

All Take to Boats and Are Saved.

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Torpedoing of a British refugee ship taking 320 children to Canada was announced tonight by the ministry of information, which said all the children were saved.

The ship remained afloat, the announcement said, but gave no indication of where it was attacked and also kept secret its identity. The attack is reported to have taken place Friday night.

The Daily Herald said the torpedoed liner had 875 persons aboard, including the crew of 275. The only casualty was the purser.

Children Behave as Heroes.

Because the ship was torpedoed at night the rescue task was complicated, ship's officers said, but elaborate precautions had been taken for the safety of the children. No child was permitted to be berthed below the waterline, a trained escort was assigned for every 15 children, and all had undergone arduous lifeboat drill.

Officers said the children behaved like heroes. They filed calmly to their lifeboat stations and then sang, "O Johnnie, O Johnnie," and "Roll Out the Barrel" as they were helped into the lifeboats.

Rescue ships were in the vicinity and reached the scene before the children had to face exposure in rough waters.

"We got our own boats lowered to the promenade deck and the children were lifted into them without mishap," said an officer of the torpedoed ship.

"The attendants did wonderfully in getting the children onto that deck without panic. Many of them were unhappy, but they did not show it."

Another officer said:

"I have never seen anything so brave in my 30 years at sea. The children took their danger with chins up and never a whimper."

All at Posts in 3½ Minutes.

The children had gone to bed at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Within three and a half minutes after the torpedo struck and the alarm bell had sounded, every child was at his lifeboat station wearing his life jacket.

Two of the ship's holds were filling and the children were ordered into the lifeboats. Four boats pulled away. Officers noticed then that the ship had stopped settling and an attempt was made to recall the boats.

The third hold began filling then and the order to take to the boats was repeated. All got off safely except the purser, who slipped as he was entering a boat.

In the darkness the boats kept together by signalling with flashlights.

None Cried, Says Chaperon.

"There was no crying or whimpering," said one of the children's chaperons. "The sea was roughish, but those who were not ill sang 'Roll Out the Barrel' as they had never sung it before."

Some of the children sang loudly, the chaperon said, to smother the sounds of other children who were ill.

"And there was an 8 year old youngster in my boat who said, 'We don't want Hitler to think he can beat us that easy,'" the chaperon added.

"Our boat was finally brought alongside a ship and with a banana basket slung from derricks we sent the children up three at a time."

When more than 70 of the children had been landed at a northern British port early today most of them were still clad only in pajamas.

Geoffrey Shakespeare, dominions undersecretary, welcomed the children and described their safe return as a miracle.

74 from Scotland.

The ministry said that 74 of the children were from Scotland.

The group of 320 was one of a number selected for transfer overseas by the Children's Overseas Reception board, and the children were "almost entirely" from state aid schools.

They were mostly from the industrial areas of London, Manchester, Birmingham, Yorkshire, Northumberland, Cardiff, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Newark, Enfield, Bristol, Southampton, Glasgow, and Aberdeen.

Willkie Pledges Freedom for Labor

PROMISES END OF GOVERNMENT YOKE ON UNIONS

Roosevelt Meddling in Congress Bared.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 1.—Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, today made three aggressive moves in his campaign against the third term.

1. Mr. Willkie sent a Labor day message to the workers of America promising them that if elected he will stop the trend toward placing labor unions under government control. He quoted the warning of the late Samuel Gompers, founder and first president of the American Federation of Labor, who said: "What the government gives the government can take away."

[Text of Labor day statement will be found on page 2.]

2. The G. O. P. standard bearer cited 17 instances this year in which President Roosevelt commented on pending legislation. The nominee issued his statement to refute the position the President assumed in refusing to state his views on the Overton-Russell economic dictatorship amendment to the military conscription bill.

3. The nominee decided to enlarge the political conference he will hold here Thursday. Yesterday Mr. Willkie announced that Republican national committee members and state chairmen from 11 middle western and southern border states would attend this meeting. It now has been expanded to include representatives of 21 states north of the Mason-Dixon line. This meeting will be a prelude to the opening of his fall campaign. Willkie starts his western tour on Sept. 14 and will make his initial formal address in Coffeyville, Kas., on Sept. 16.

Sees Hand of Administration.

After the senate roll call on the Overton-Russell amendment the Republican nominee took the position that it must have been an administration measure, since it received the support of so many New Deal senators, led by Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the majority floor leader. He put the question to Mr. Roosevelt but in reply was told that the President had made it a rule not to state his position while measures still were before congress.

Willkie instantly charged that on two occasions there had been widely printed expressions from the White House while measures were under consideration—those in support of the Supreme court packing bill and the Guffey coal act.

List of 17 Comments.

Today he released a list of 17 comments made by the President on pending legislation since Jan. 1. He gave them as follows:

"Jan. 13—The President authorized Representative Dunn [D., Pa.] to make public a letter approving the Vandenberg reapportionment bill then pending in the house census committee.

"Jan. 19—The President objected to the elimination by the house of funds for the National Resources board and the office of government reports.

"Feb. 2—The President expressed opposition to the action of the house appropriations committee in cutting farm relief estimates.

"March 2—The President criticized congress for delaying improvements to the Panama canal.

Quoted on Tobey Resolution.

"March 5—The President permitted himself to be quoted directly in opposition to the Tobey resolution, which would have eliminated from the census schedule inquiries on individual income. He said:

"'The whole thing is obviously a political move and nothing else. Everybody accredited to congress knows the motive for the opposition is political.'

"At this same conference the President also urged passage of the Hatch act extensions bill, then pending before the senate.

"March 8—The President indorsed the Wheeler-Lea transportation bill then in conference and opposed the views of Secretary Woodring and Sec-

A MESSAGE FROM EUROPE

Nazi Balloon Busters Hide in Ersatz Clouds

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DOVER, England, Sept. 1 [by Telephone to London].—German balloon busters returned today. They treated Doverites to more fireworks, shooting down three balloons this morning and two this afternoon.

The Nazis found the sky cloudless, so they painted ersatz [artificial] clouds which hung in the still air for more than 50 minutes. Three planes were downed in air battles as the British attacked waves of German fighters and bombers. One pilot was seen to escape by parachute.

The morning was clear and still and the Germans failed to appear by 10:30 o'clock. It seemed they were holding off for lack of clouds. A few minutes later, four German planes came flying abreast and began drawing smoke-lines across the sky. Sometimes they flew at an even keel, then they would zoom and dive and soon the sky for about 10 miles each way was lined with smoke which slowly grew in volume as the chemical expanded.

Air Virtually Still.

The air was virtually still, so these ersatz clouds were overhead 50 minutes later. This seemed to disprove the theory that the smoke streaks sometimes seen coming from German planes were caused by condensation of motor exhaust gases. Were it condensation it would disappear within a few minutes, but this smoke was clearly a chemical composition which has much greater density and multiplication than that used by advertising sky writers.

The ersatz clouds soon drew the attention of British planes, which came on the scene and a battle royal began, fading away southward.

Five minutes later two Germans dived out of the sun and launched an attack on the barrage balloons, setting fire to three on the first run. The planes raced across the town at no more than a thousand feet and escaped, despite intense fire by anti-aircraft guns.

German fighter and bomber formations then roared over, the first consisting of seven fighter planes flying as protection for 10 bombers, then 14 fighters heading 21 Dornier bombers. The first wave of combat planes was attacked by five Britishers. One plane fell flaming on land five minutes later. Another dropped into the sea far off shore.

An Acrobatic Display.

A remarkable acrobatic display was given as another five planes tumbled all over the sky until after three minutes the pilot of one plane was seen to take to his parachute while the pilotless plane, streaming smoke, continued flying on an even keel for two or three miles before it began diving toward the earth.

At dusk British planes were heard passing overhead toward France and soon German searchlights began scanning the skies south of Calais. Shell bursts from antiaircraft guns and fire streaks from tracer bullets were seen racing into the sky. The British apparently were making a long bombing raid on German positions there.

Rome Scans First Year of War; Talks of Second Year

ROME, Sept. 1.—The first anniversary of the war is being observed here today rather as the beginning of the second year of war. The idea that this will be a long conflict has been steadily gaining ground. Few Italians dreamed last June that when they entered the hostilities and France crumpled that September would find the Germans deadlocked with England, but today Virginio Gayda, leading Fascist editor, wrote of the possibility of two years more of war.

SALE OF RICE HALTED IN FRANCE TO STORE UP WINTER SUPPLY

VICHY, France, Sept. 1.—As a step toward storing up food for winter the Petain government today placed a temporary prohibition on the sale of rice for human consumption and banned its use as feed for animals.

A strict new regulation affects the textile industry, which is forbidden to manufacture "fancy articles" such as carpets and lace, while artificial fibers must be introduced in all fabrics.

Not only are women going bare-legged because they cannot buy silk stockings, but their hair is resuming its natural color because of the scarcity of dyes. The day of the platinum blonde is past in France. On the other hand, fancy soap boxes are finding a place in all handbags as soap is fast disappearing from washrooms. Some stores offer cakes of soap for sale on condition a fancy container is also purchased.

26 Guard Units Called Up for Year's Service

Facts about the National Guard units called for a year's active service—where they are located and where they will train—will be found on page 13. Details of the Illinois regiment named in the call, as well as the text of the President's order, will be found on the same page.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard President Roosevelt's Special Train En Route to Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 1.—An executive order calling up 60,500 National Guardsmen for one year of active service with the United States army was issued today by President Roosevelt.

The officers and men affected by the order are to begin active military service on Sept. 16. They will serve for a full 12 months thereafter unless sooner relieved. The present strength of the 26 units involved is to be raised by voluntary enlistment to 76,689 officers and men as soon as possible, it was announced.

203d Coast Artillery Called.

Of Illinois' National Guard units, only one was ordered out—the 202d coast artillery regiment, antiaircraft, which will be sent first to Camp Logan, near Zion, Ill., and later to March field, near Riverside, Cal.

The 203d coast artillery, antiaircraft, of Missouri was the only other middle western unit to be summoned. It will be dispatched to Fort Barrancas, near Pensacola, Fla., for training.

Subsequent orders eventually will put more than 250,000 officers and men of the National Guard into intensive training. Middle western units are expected to be among the last to be called.

Also Can Call Reserves.

The President acted under authority of an act passed by congress Aug. 27 permitting him to call out the Guard for service with the regular army in the continental United States and possessions.

Announcement of the order came shortly after the President's special train left Highland Falls, N. Y., near his Hudson river home, en route to Tennessee, where the President will make two Labor day speeches. He will dedicate the Chickamauga dam of the Tennessee Valley authority and open the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

Congress Row Brews in Wake of Plane Crash

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—The death of Senator Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.] and 24 others yesterday in the greatest disaster in the history of American aviation is expected to produce a storm of protest in congress like that which followed the death of Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico in May, 1935.

Senator McCarran.

Senator Cutting's death in the crash of an air liner resulted in a senate investigation of political corruption in the regulation of civil aviation by the department of commerce and the subsequent creation of the independent Civil Aeronautics authority.

Last May, President Roosevelt in one of his much criticized reorganization orders transferred the Civil Aeronautics authority back to the politically managed department of commerce.

At that time Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] led the fight against ratification of the transfer order, but President Roosevelt's power over congress was such that McCarran and his supporters were beaten.

Senator Clark May Act.

Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], chairman of a special subcommittee on air safety, told reporters today he might ask an appropriation to investigate yesterday's crash. Such an investigation might lead to reëstablishing the CAA as an independent body, many capital veterans believe.

Already Senator McCarran has blamed yesterday's air line disaster—the first in 17 months—on "chaos, confusion, and inefficiency" in the present regulation of civil aviation.

Commenting upon the crash of the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines plane as it flew from Washington for Pittsburgh, Senator McCarran blamed Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization order.

"There will be other and more disastrous wrecks unless the board is put back in its independent status so that efficiency may prevail," Senator McCarran added.

Tragedy Foretold in May.

Other senators who fought the President's reorganization order withheld comment pending further information respecting the cause of the air line tragedy, but recalled their predictions in senate debate that the result of the reorganization order would be calamitous.

Opponents of the Roosevelt move said it would return the control of commercial aviation to the politics-ridden department of commerce and that the responsibility for the tragedies which might follow would rest squarely upon those seeking a return to the old system.

Senator Clark, speaking in the senate on May 14, said:

"If we go back to the old, vicious, burocratic system we once had, and if we again have a series of accidents such as we had when civil aviation was last in the department of commerce, and which continued up to the time it was taken out of the department of commerce, those accidents will come back to haunt every member of this body who votes for the transfer. I prefer to sleep at night."

Voices Regret Over Vote.

Senator Clark told the senate that the chief regret of his career was his support, in February, 1934, of President Roosevelt's "tragically unfortunate" order canceling the air mail contracts and placing in the hands of an unprepared army air corps the task of carrying the air mail.

"We sent more than a dozen brave, gallant lads—good flyers but in every way unequipped—to their deaths in the dead of winter," the Missouri senator declared. "They died because of a mistake which somebody else had made."

When the President's reorganization order was under consideration in the senate, the CAA had a safety record of 13½ months without an air line fatality. The CAA had been in existence 20 months. Senator Clark placed in the record official figures comparing the record of the CAA for retary Wallace on suggested revisions.

"March 15—The President again denounced the Tobey census resolution.

"March 26—The President authorized Senator Harrison to say that he opposed any amendments to the trade treaty extension bill.

"April 2—The President opposed senate committee action in adding new authorizations to the rivers and harbors bill.

"April 2—The President authorized Representative Cole to make public a letter from him suggesting modification of a bill pending in a house committee which would establish partial federal control of oil production.

"April 5—The President urged that funds to bring back the Byrd expedition be added to a bill then pending before a senate committee.

Opposed Logan-Walter Bill.

"April 5—The President opposed the Logan-Walter bill, which had passed the senate and was before the house committee.

"May 6—The President again indorsed the Hatch act extensions when the bill was still before the house committee.

"June 4—The President indorsed a congressional move to increase defense taxes and put the program on a pay-as-you-go basis. The bill was then before the ways and means committee.

"June 14—The President approved the Cummings resolution, extending the sugar control bill for one year, and expressed the hope that it would be passed in the form approved by the house committee on agriculture.

"July 27—The President discussed the problems involved in a bill, approved that day by the house foreign affairs committee, to permit the use of American ships in the evacuation of the British children."

Leaders from 21 States.

Thursday's conference will bring the national committee members and state chairmen from the following states to Willkie's luncheon table: Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri and Iowa.

Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the national committee, will attend, if his duties as Republican floor leader permit.

Willkie said that he had talked over the telephone with his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary. McNary still is at his home in Salem, Ore., following his speech last week accepting the Republican Vice Presidential nomination and will not be able to attend the conference.

Willkie expressed appreciation today of the work ex-service men are doing in his behalf, following a visit from two former national commanders of the American Legion—Harry W. Colmery, Topeka, Kas., and Edward A. Hayes, Decatur, Ill. They are officers of the Willkie war veterans national committee and were accompanied by Edward F. McGinnis of Chicago, national director of the organization.

Grateful for Offer.

"I am deeply grateful for the offer and wholeheartedly welcome and accept the proffer of assistance from my comrades, the war veterans of the United States," Willkie said. "Their services have been tendered in the campaign thru the existing Republican service men's organizations, and thru the Willkie war veterans' national committee.

"I have been conscious of the ties which bind men together in the common undertaking thru comradeship in arms, in defense of one's country and in the preservation of its ideals. Veterans of all wars of the United States having achieved the goal of battle, came home, took their places in the life of the country and continued to devote their efforts to a peacetime perpetuation of those ideals for which they fought."

The old brick house on Harrison street, where Willkie is living, was the mecca of hundreds of persons today. At intervals of about an hour, they grew to such a crowd that Willkie would come out on the porch, thank them for coming, wave, and then go inside again.

CHICAGO LABOR GROUP RESLATES ALL ITS OFFICERS

All officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor were renominated yesterday at the annual meeting in Musicians' hall, 175 West Washington street. They are John Fitzpatrick, president; Anton Johannsen, vice president; Joseph D. Keenan, secretary; Maurice Lynch, financial secretary; Christian M. Madsen, treasurer; L. P. Straube, reading clerk, and Charles Hayman, sergeant-at-arms. The election will be Sept. 15. The only contest will be for executive board or committee posts.

Text of Willkie's Statement Pledging Freedom to Labor

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 1 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, issued the following Labor day statement today:

"For more than 40 years now, the first Monday in September has been set aside by congressional act to honor American labor. The wage earners in no other land enjoy the recognition given by Labor day to the true status of labor and the dignity of work.

"I had decided not to make a speech today dealing with labor, in the belief that it would be more appropriate to leave this day for the utterances of labor leaders themselves. I do wish, however, to take this occasion to pay tribute to Labor day and the American wage earner, who has played such a great part in building up the American economic and political system.

"In turn, American workers may well rejoice that in this land, four great freedoms—the right to speak, to print, to assemble, and to worship God—are written into the bill of rights in response to the judgment of artisans and farmers a century and a half ago, and that in America these freedoms still prevail.

Reviews Status in Europe.

"Labor day should also cause every friend of American labor to remember that in the totalitarian dictatorships of Europe, they have liquidated free trade unions, and have imprisoned or in some cases murdered union leaders. Outside of America, Britain is the only great country where trade unions still exist, true to their tradition. The British workers today are performing a service of greatest value as a vital partner in the defense of their country.

"Leon Jouhaux, the French labor leader, said in his last message to American workers: 'Hitlerism and free organized labor cannot exist in the same world.' American labor, realizing this fact, is determined to do everything to prevent the spread of dictatorship in this country.

"On February 14, 1939, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor issued an important statement, as follows:

"'The absorption of the unemployed and the creation of work opportunities for all who are able and willing to work in private industry have ever been a part of the economic philosophy of the American Federation of Labor—we are firmly convinced that various forms of governmental spending, either in the distribution of relief or in the development of maintenance and work projects designed to supply relief wages to unemployed, can only serve as temporary measures and cannot and do not provide a permanent solution for unemployment.'

Barriers Should Be Removed.

"The A. F. of L. council goes further and frankly states:

"'A political and economic state of mind should be created which will enable all financiers and the owners and managers of industry to face the future with confidence, willing to risk the expenditure of funds for the development of industrial enterprises and in the manufacture and sale of manufactured products.

"'Whatever stands in the way, whatever barrier may have been created, ought to be broken down so that our industrial processes may function in a proper way, and unemployment may thus be overcome.

"'We believe that private initiative, private investment and private endeavor and private industry should be encouraged and supported. We assert that those who invest in private industry should earn a fair return upon such investment, and that labor should be paid a wage which would accord to all workers and their families an opportunity to live in all decency and comfort.'

Reflects Own Views.

"No better statement of my own views could possibly be made. On this Labor day I pledge, if elected President, to enlist the wholehearted coöperation of labor, industry, agriculture, and every other group in the task of overcoming our present economic stagnation, and wiping out unemployment. The enlightened view that many of our modern labor leaders are taking toward our economic problem as a whole will be of great assistance to me in fulfilling this pledge. As Philip Murray and Morris L. Cooke said in 'organized labor and production'—

"'We need labor organizations that will not merely advance the immediate interests of particular groups of labor, but will regard the interests of industry as a whole, including the workers, and of the economic system.'

"I also promise to arrest the present trend toward placing labor unions under government control. The statement of that great labor leader, Samuel Gompers, 'what the government gives, the government can take away,' is particularly pertinent at the present time. We must rely upon the compulsion of the law only as a last extremity. I shall lend every influence to establish forthright collective bargaining between management and men upon a basis of good will, conciliations, and economic voluntarism and free from interference."

NEGRO FAIR ENDS TODAY; WALLACE WILL BE HEARD

The American Negro exposition, which has been in progress in the Coliseum since July 4, will end today. A special program this afternoon will bring Henry A. Wallace, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, the J. Wesley Jones chorus of 1,000 voices, and Paul Robeson, world famous Negro baritone, as special attractions.

Wallace will give what has been advertised as a nonpolitical speech. The J. Wesley Jones chorus will sing such numbers as "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Tramping," "Trying to Make Heaven My Home," "Steal Away to Jesus," and "I Got a Robe." Robeson is to appear with the chorus in "Water Boy," "Ol' Man River," and other numbers. The program will last from 3 to 6 p. m.

WILLKIE REPLIES TO ROOSEVELT BY QUOTING HIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 1.—Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, tonight threw back one of President Roosevelt's own statements in answering White House criticism.

Stephen Early, the President's press secretary, en route with Mr. Roosevelt to Chattanooga, Tenn., criticized Willkie for releasing excerpts from the suppressed report of the war resources board. "Mr. Willkie still is a private citizen," said Early, "and he has released excerpts from a confidential government document."

Willkie retorted: "The President, just the other day, said the report was as obsolete and as historical as a report on the civil war. Surely the government is not keeping the civil war reports confidential."

The excerpts disclosed that the President had been urged by leading business men, under the chairmanship of Edward R. Stettinius, to coöperate, rather than use force, in gearing American industry to the task of arming the nation.

ADMITS RAILWAY STATION THEFT.

A man who identified himself as Fred Kuchta, 20 years old, 3102 East 83d street, was arrested in the Illinois Central railroad station at 79th street and Exchange avenue yesterday. Police said he confessed taking $64 from the station cash drawer.

THREE CARAVANS TO TOUR STATE IN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

Eight Week Drive Planned Before Election.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Final plans for the Republican state campaign in Illinois are to be completed this week. In general they will provide for three groups of candidates, frequently called caravans, working in as many sections of the state during the last eight weeks before the Nov. 5 election.

Dwight H. Green will head one caravan, Wayland Brooks another, and the third will be led by Hugh W. Cross, nominee for lieutenant-governor. Each of the three will be accompanied by two other candidates, the three groups including all of the nine candidates on the state ticket.

According to present plans, there will be two caravans downstate and one in Cook county and the adjoining area for the first five weeks and for the last three weeks the situation will be reversed—two in the metropolitan area and one downstate.

Old Program Revised.

The intention is to avoid the mistake of former campaigns, that of completely deserting downstate for the final fortnight and transferring all the main activities to Cook county for that period.

The early thought was that highly organized campaigning would open up next Monday, Sept. 9, and that all the remaining eight weeks would be covered at full blast. Further consideration led to a conclusion that such a period might be too long for both the candidates and the voters, particularly when it became known that the Democrats might limit their supreme state-wide activity to seven weeks.

In addition, it was believed advisable for Green, the nominee for governor, to spend next week in Chicago and give his attention almost exclusively to organization matters. Some of the April primary breaches, both in Cook county and downstate, have not been entirely closed and it is hoped that Green, who has accepted the leadership of both organizations, will be able to establish the unity that is sought. Brooks, the nominee for senator, also will be off the platform during that week, which he plans to spend in the east.

Caravan Plans Incomplete.

Because of these shifts it is probable that only one or two caravans will be organized for next week, but these plans have not been completed.

Coördinated with the travel of the caravans, a definite radio program for Green and Brooks has been completed. Starting with Sept. 9 Green will go on the air from Chicago every Monday night and Brooks will take his turn every Friday night. That means they will not be with downstate caravans those nights.

The present grouping puts Justus L. Johnson, candidate for secretary of state, and Warren Wright, candidate for state treasurer, with Green; Arthur C. Lueder, running for state auditor, and William G. Stratton, for congressman at large, with Brooks; and George F. Barrett, nominee for attorney general, and Stephen A. Day, nominee for congressman at large, with Cross.

If the weather is clear, a real Republican crowd is expected to gather at the annual Labor day picnic in Riverview park today. The special drawing card for Willkie enthusiasts is Congressman Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, Willkie nominator in Philadelphia.

BROOKS BLASTS NEW DEAL

By George Tagge.

Wayland Brooks, nominee for United States senator, was the main speaker at Republican day at the St. Charles fall festival yesterday after a thrilling airplane trip from East St. Louis. He led other state candidates in assailing what he described as the Roosevelt war program.

Brooks had substituted for Dwight H. Green, G. O. P. candidate for governor, Saturday night in an appearance near East St. Louis. Brooks had to charter a plane after the talk to keep up with his speaking schedule.

Pilot Loses Way.

"The pilot lost his way," he said. "The motor cut out at an altitude of 4,200 feet. The pilot got busy with the radio. It was our luck that soon we saw the lights of the Terre Haute, Ind., airport flash on near us and we landed there at 2:45 a. m."

Brooks went the rest of the way to Chicago by train, in time to appear at the St. Charles festival. With him were Werner W. Schroeder, national committeeman, and Harry Bettinghaus, Brooks' assistant.

"Roosevelt has forfeited the confidence of at least half of the American people," Brooks said at the festival. "Unity is the first essential in national defense. He has consistently created class hatreds. Wendell L. Willkie is the answer to this situation. The people have lost faith in Roosevelt because he had access to expert information regarding the building up of a huge military machine in Europe and he failed while spending billions to provide even a semblance of an adequate, modern, mechanized, motorized defense for his own country.

G. O. P. Termed Only Route.

"It would be unsafe for America to go into a period of uncertainty with such lack of unity and faith. The Republican party under new leadership, both national and state, offers the only instrument for building unity, national defense, and prosperity necessary to continue our form of government."

Both G. O. P. candidates for congressmen-at-large—William G. Stratton and Stephen A. Day—told the crowd they opposed sending American boys into Europe's wars.

Other candidates appearing in St. Charles included Warren Wright, for state treasurer; Justus L. Johnson, for secretary of state; State Senator Arnold Benson, G.O.P. floor leader, and two members of the Illinois house of representatives who are running for re-election—John C. Friedland and Mrs. Maude Peffers.

CHURCH LEAGUE WARNS PASTORS OF POLLS CRISIS

Religious Liberty Periled, Clergy Told.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Frank J. Loesch, chairman of the Church League of America, and the committees of clergy and laity of the league, announced yesterday that 100,000 pastors on the league's lists will be challenged this week by mail to view the November election as possibly decisive in the greatest crisis for religious and civil liberties in the nation's history.

The league, which has headquarters at 53 West Jackson street, was organized in 1937 to muster opposition to President Roosevelt's court program.

In a foreword to the brochure which contained the challenge, Loesch declared: "All signs point to the ominous fact that religious liberty is in serious danger in this country because civil liberty is being hedged in by many administration actions regardless of the constitution and the laws protecting it.

"Civil liberties go hand in hand with religious liberties. Without the former, the latter cannot be safe.

Calls for Wisdom and Courage.

"Are you ready to stand firm as our ancestors have done, to maintain our constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, of the press, and of religion? Now is the time to do it, and I beseech every person who reads these words to use his or her influence to continue to protect those rights by their votes on Nov. 5 next, against the insidious, subversive elements which are evidenced all about us. Wisdom, courage, faithfulness are needed. Do not fail in this great crisis!"

The league's appeal outlines a history of New Deal action on which the predicted crisis is based. It cites changes which it said have shocked the American system, including what it described as one sided legislation, the burdening of business, decreasing financial support for church, charitable and educational institutions, and the third term for President Roosevelt.

Bosses Linked to Third Term.

"The third term is demanded by Mr. Roosevelt and the Kelly-Nash machine of Chicago, the Crump machine of Tennessee, the Hague machine of New Jersey, Tammany of New York, and all other well oiled machines of the country on the pretext of emergency," the appeal said. "Can any one believe that at the end of another four years these same men will not again cry 'emergency' and demand a fourth term?"

The Rev. Dr. Almer M. Pennewell, pastor of St. John's Methodist church, 74th street and Jeffery avenue, and chairman of the committee of clergy of the league, outlined in the league's brochure the league's appeal against what it described as federal invasion of personal liberty.

"Let us not deceive ourselves by the purported altruistic nature of many phases of regimentation of business and private life by the New Deal government," Dr. Pennewell said. "What chance for freedom of thought and action have the directors of a bank or business dependent upon the financial support of the federal government? What chance of freedom of thought and action has a farmer who is receiving an annual handout from the federal government?

Urges Churches to Be Alert.

"What chance would our schools have for independent thought and action when a large part of their support is doled out by federal politicians?"

Dr. Pennewell urged churches to be alert to dangers to free worship inherent in the large number of socialistic isms which he said clamor for sympathies both of the people and the government.

The league's appeal also asked that replies to the challenge be mailed to the league's headquarters.

George W. Robnett, executive secretary of the league, said the replies will be studied for suggestions for future activities.

INJURED IN FALL DOWN STEPS.

A man identified as Joseph Kasper, 46 years old, a machinist of 1735 W. 18th place, suffered a head injury yesterday when he fell down the basement steps of a dance hall at 1801 17th street. He was taken to County hospital.

COL. M'CORMICK DEPICTS ROMAN PANIC OF 33 A. D.

Depressions Are as Old as Civilization, He Says.

Panics and depressions are not new, and the recurrence of seasons of prosperity and depression seem inevitable. This thesis was put forward last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in a speech on the Tribune Symphonic Hour, broadcast over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system.

Col. McCormick described a business panic brought on by embezzlement, collapse of commodity prices, and a subsequent run on banks. This was followed by falling prices, labor trouble, and the collapse of the real estate market. It took place in 33 A. D. in Rome.

Such depressions have been happening since civilization began, he said, and it is necessary to remember that during periods of adversity nothing should be done to prevent the recurrence of good times.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

Following is the text of Col. McCormick's address:

"It is 14 weeks since I had planned to use this hour to say a word on economics, but the excitement, in some places bordering on hysteria, that followed the German victories in Belgium and France made a discussion of military affairs seem more appropriate and more desirable.

"Looking back over my lectures, I am overjoyed to find that my estimate of the difficulties of invading England have so far been proven correct.

Armored Column Organized.

"Since I have been speaking to you, an armored column has been organized in our army from which studies can be made for further mechanization.

"The air corps is now coöperating with the rest of the army.

"That the paramount need for our defense is equipment of a heavier type than we have left over from the last war is now generally accepted, and will soon be acted upon.

"The proposal that Canada and the United States should arrange for a joint defense of North America has been accepted. Military flying fields are being built in New England from which any invading fleet can be bombed. In a week or so, I intend to visit and study these possible fronts on the New England coast.

"In the meantime, I will turn from my military lectures to the one I had planned to give 14 weeks ago.

A Bank Run Starts.

"One autumn a disclosure was made that a highly placed executive of a large and important commercial house had run off with a considerable amount of the firm's money. About the same time, the prices of two speculative commodities collapsed—forcing a great importing firm to close its doors. The banks which had financed the two firms came under suspicion. Depositors formed lines demanding their money.

"The runs on the banks directly affected led to runs on other banks. Before long every one was suspicious of the financial soundness of everybody else.

"Bankers were obliged to call demand loans and to refuse to renew the loans. Collateral had to be sold. And, with prices falling, there was a rush to convert every possible asset into cash. Real estate couldn't be sold at any price. A strike added to the confusion.

When? In 33 A. D.

"The year I am speaking of was 33 A. D., and the place was Rome, where times had been exceedingly good and people had been told that soon there would be a wild pig in every pot, and a chariot in every garage.

"The firm whose funds had been embezzled was Malchus & Co. of Tyre, with branch offices at Antioch and Ephesus. The principal bankers affected was the chain banking system controled by two Romans, Quintus Maximus and Lucius Vibo. The commodities on which speculators had burnt their fingers were not wheat and cotton, but ivory and ostrich feathers.

"So paralyzing was this panic on the Via Sacra, or Wall street, that even Publius Spinther, the John D. Rockefeller of his day, couldn't get a check cashed, altho he had always maintained a high, eight figure balance at the bank of Balbus Ollius.

A Depression Follows.

"The panic was brought to an end by the Emperor Tiberius, who proclaimed a brief moratorium, and then had the solvent banks reopened with the aid of 100 million sesterces advanced by the reconstruction finance corporation of that time.

"A depression followed. But at length there was revival. With the reopening of the banks the fear of panic was no longer present. But depression ensued. The price of commodities, real estate, and securities adjusted themselves to a lower price level. Wages and the cost of living came down. There was suffering, but after a time there was revival.

"This came when business men gathered courage enough to take the risks involved in new business ventures and when those who had money left were ready to loan it in confidence in the ability and the intention of borrowers to pay back money when it was due.

Since Dawn of Civilization.

"Panics and depressions are thus nothing new. They have been happening since the dawn of civilization. It would be too much to say that these periods of unequal activity are not calamities, but nature herself yields her treasures in unequal portions from year to year, and in an industrial organization, in which human motive plays so large a part, where competition is sharp and absolute coöperation is impossible, these recurring seasons of prosperity and depression seem inevitable.

"A wise Frenchman, M. Clement Juglar, writing more than a half century ago, characterized these periodic lapses from good times as follows:

"'The regular development of the riches of nations does not take place without suffering or without resistance. During crises everything is arrested for a time; the social organization seems to be paralyzed; but it is only a passing torpor, a prelude to grander destinies.'

Adversity Common Experience.

"What we need to remember is that adversity is for most of us one of the commonest of experiences and that during adversity we must be patient lest we do anything that would prevent the return again of good times.

"The other day John McCutcheon showed me a chart a friend had sent to him showing the course of business in this country since the American revolution. The chart showed that there had been 16 depressions prior to the present one and that they came at fairly regular intervals.

"But after each depression better times returned, characterized by larger supplies of things which are useful and augmented opportunities for human enjoyment.

"Depressions seen in retrospect are just brief resting periods in the upward spiral of civilization."

Here for Concert

Grace Moore in her suite at the Blackstone hotel yesterday.

Grace Moore, soprano of opera, concert, motion pictures, and radio, arrived yesterday on the New York Central's Century for her appearance tonight in Grant park with the Chicago Opera company orchestra. The same train brought Maurice Abravanel, who is to conduct the concert. Miss Moore will be co-starred with the Polish baritone, George Czaplicki.

An ardent worker for the advancement of opera in America, Miss Moore spoke enthusiastically of her plan for a touring company made up of outstanding young singers from her own vocal school in Connecticut and elsewhere. The troupe, to be called the American Opera Comique, will be launched in the spring.

"With Europe in its present plight, it is unlikely that our young singers, for some time to come," Miss Moore said, "will be able to obtain the invaluable experience offered by the many small but excellent traveling companies there. So we must start up such companies here. The American Opera Comique is a move in that direction.

TWO ARTISTS OF OPERA

The musical portion of the program featured Wilfred Pelletier, Metropolitan opera conductor, and his wife, Rose Bampton, brilliant Metropolitan soprano.

Miss Bampton was received heartily in a vibrant rendition of Schubert's immortal "Ave Maria." The W-G-N chorus provided effective background accompaniment. Miss Bampton also displayed the vocal versatility for which she is famed in two operatic selections—"He is Good, He is Kind," from Massenet's "Herodiade" and the colorful "Na Qui all Affano" from Rossini's "Cinderella."

Mr. Pelletier led the W-G-N symphony orchestra thru a varied group of selections, ranging from the simply melodic "Sleeping Beauty Waltz" of Tschaikowsky to the lively "Slavonic Dances" of Dvorak and the gay, forceful overture, "Russian and Ludmilla," by Glinka.

Miss Bampton and Mr. Pelletier appeared in place of the regularly featured artists, Henry Weber, conductor, and Marion Claire, soloist, who are on vacation. They will return next week. The Symphonic hour is produced by William A. Bacher, W-G-N production director.

BRIDGES CHARGES ROOSEVELT WITH PUBLICITY STUNT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Senator Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] accused President Roosevelt today of engaging in a "cheap publicity stunt to make political capital out of national defense."

In a prepared statement, Bridges said the President was inspecting various defense establishments for two political reasons:

1. To divert attention from "the collapse of his domestic program due to his own incompetent leadership."

2. To give him an alibi for "running away from a free and fair discussion of the issues of this campaign with his opponent, Wendell Willkie."

Germany and Russia Sign Pact to Regulate Border

BERLIN, Sept. 1 (AP).—Signing of an agreement by Germany and soviet Russia to regulate legal affairs on their common border was disclosed tonight.

FLOODS KILL 4 IN NEW JERSEY; MANY HOMELESS

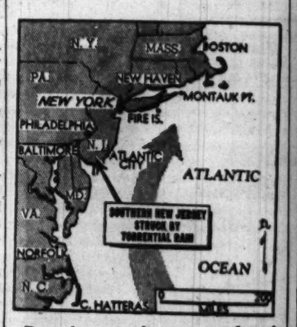
Camden, N. J., Sept. 1 (AP).—Torrential rains struck southern New Jersey before dawn today, causing at least four deaths and inflicting property damage unofficially estimated at more than a million dollars.

Reports indicated that possibly 10,000 persons had been driven from their homes. The entire village of Lumberton was inundated by swollen Rancocas creek, which made 2,000 homeless.



Dotted arrow shows general path of the hurricane which was moving north last night, and which might strike the coast between Fire Island and Montauk point on Long Island.

Mrs. Zore Crispin, 25, and her 18 months old daughter, Hazel Emma, were swept away when they tried to cross a swollen creek from their home at Daretown, Salem county. Horace Simpkins, 55, Milford, disappeared in surging Rancocas creek after a rescue boat upset. The body of an unidentified Negro was taken from a lake at Woodstown.

Lake Dam Goes Out.

A dam in a small lake at Grenloch, near Camden, burst, sending 300 persons from their homes. At Mantua, 40 homes were submerged.

Thruout most of the south Jersey communities the story was the same—a sudden hurried flight to high ground for those who lived along the banks of streams.

Hurricane Veers Away.

Manteo, N. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Residents of the North Carolina and Virginia coasts breathed sighs of relief today as a tropic-born hurricane which was bearing down last night on Cape Hatteras, "graveyard of the Atlantic," changed its direction northeast out to sea, leaving only roughened waters and brisk winds in its wake.

ITALIANS CLAIM STRATEGIC TOWN IN KENYA SEIZED

Admit Losses in British Raids in Libya.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 1 (AP).—Italian troops striking south from Ethiopia have occupied Buna, important caravan trail junction some 60 miles from the frontier in Kenya colony, the Italian high command announced today.

Buna, south of the border fortress of Moyale which the Italians wrested from the British in mid-July, is the branching point for trails running into the heart of Kenya from the Indian ocean thru Italian Somaliland on the east.

Elsewhere in the battle of Africa, the daily communique said, British air raiders killed 10 persons in attacks on Cirenaica, in Libya, and other east African outposts. Damage to military objectives was described as "unimportant."

Report Raid on Sardinia.

A British raid on the island of Sardinia, in the Mediterranean, damaged a headquarters building at Cagliari and destroyed two Italian planes on the ground, but the high command said there were no casualties.

A British convoy escorted by warships was reported attacked by Italian planes in the eastern Mediterranean with one ship badly damaged by direct hits.

[A dispatch from London says authoritative quarters, in commenting on the official Italian announcement of an attack on a British convoy in the eastern Mediterranean, said that the claim is "a direct exposure of their recent trumpetings that Britain is unable to use the Mediterranean and Suez canal."]

Biggest Raids on Libya.

CAIRO, Egypt., Sept. 1 (AP).—The most extensive British raids on Italian strongholds in Libya since the start of the war were reported today in a communique. It was pointed out here that eastern Libya airdromes attacked naturally would be important bases for any Italian offensive against Egypt.

The R. A. F. said heavy damage was inflicted, including at least six Italian warplanes destroyed.

Report Haile Selassie Hiding.

American quarters advanced the theory today that Italian bombers might have been after former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia in the Aug. 23 attack on the border mission post at Doro, in the Anglo-Egyptian sudan, where two American missionaries were reported killed. These quarters said the Italians apparently believed the negus, who flew to Africa recently to rally his fighters when the British extended recognition, was hiding at the mission awaiting a chance to slip across the frontier of his former kingdom.

BOMBS DROPPED IN SWITZERLAND DRAW GUN FIRE

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—An unidentified bomber, one of a number of night-raiding warplanes which kept Switzerland awake with air raid alarms during the night, dropped bombs on Swiss soil near the former Austrian frontier and drew Swiss antiaircraft fire. The bombs fell in fields and did little damage.

A Swiss high command communique did not identify the invaders. But the government several times had protested to London over violation of Swiss territory by planes raiding Italy and Germany. Berne had a 30 minute alarm at 1 a. m. [7 p. m. Sunday, Chicago time] and Geneva had the second of two alarms 20 minutes later.

LAST OF FRENCH CONGO AREA GOES OVER TO BRITAIN

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The governor of Gabon, a district of French Equatorial Africa, cabled Gen. Charles de Gaulle today that the colony had placed itself "under the flag of free France." Britain, after the French collapse, recognized Gen. de Gaulle as the leader of "free Frenchmen."

Gabon's decision to ignore the Vichy government's armistice with Germany and Italy brings the whole of French Equatorial Africa to a unanimous decision to continue the war on Britain's side, Gen. de Gaulle's headquarters said.

The Vichy government has announced a "rebellion" in the Chad territory, another part of Equatorial Africa which also is known as the French Congo. Gabon is an area of 93,218 square miles, inhabited by more than 1,000 Europeans and nearly a half million natives.

Nazi Bombs Rip Off Masts and Decks of Irish Ship

LONDON, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—The 200 ton Irish sail ship Loch Ryan reached port today with her masts and decks blasted away. Three German bombers attacked her last week. The cargo of China clay was credited with saving the hull from the explosions.

HITLER PICTURES TORN, TRAMPLED BY RUMANIAN MOB

Italian Consul Beaten; Nazi Flags Lowered.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—A mob broke into the German consulate at Brasov [Kronstadt], in Transylvania, early today, ripped down pictures of Adolf Hitler and ground them to bits underfoot as bloody demonstrations swept all Rumania and pitchfork brandishing peasants lined the border of old Transylvania, determined not to yield to Hungary under axis compulsion.

At Cluj, ancient capital of Transylvania, the Italian consul was dragged out and beaten.

A famous statesman was jailed in Bucharest, thousands of reserve gendarmes were called out and warnings were broadcast over the radio in the Rumanian government's unavailing effort to end the rioting against ceding half of Transylvania, as Germany and Italy have decreed.

Damage was widespread and there were countless injuries.

Attack Nazi Sportsman.

At Brasov, home of a large German group, Nazi flags in the German consulate were torn down and reviled and a Nazi sportsman named Hehnline, who had gone there for an automobile race, was attacked. The swastika was snatched from his car and replaced by the Rumanian standard.

Tens of thousands at Brasov cheered for Crown Prince Michael of Rumania after speakers had denounced the persons "who sold out Transylvania."

The royal palace of King Carol in Bucharest was surrounded by large squads of troops and gendarmes with fixed bayonets. They used tear gas to hold the crowds back and on at least one occasion broke up demonstrations by spraying the mob with water sprinklers.

Defenses Are Increased.

Armored cars patrolled around the palace, and the capital streets rumbled with their passing, machine guns bristling from every turret.

The former minister of popular culture, M. Ghita, was arrested for delivering an inflammatory speech.

The disorders began Sunday and spread thruout the day and night.

In the affected northern section of the province, peasants with pitchforks, shotguns, and long knives were reported taking up trench positions abandoned by some Rumanian military forces.

The commander of one Rumanian army division announced that his soldiers would die to the last man rather than abandon the old frontier.

Ion Lugosianu, member of parliament, former minister to Rome and editor of "Universal," leading Bucharest daily, and his wife were arrested as ringleaders in the demonstration.

Mrs. Robert St. John, wife of the Associated Press correspondent, was taken into custody. She said she was manhandled and injured before being released.

The Bucharest press, under strict government control, was unanimous in denouncing the German decision of Vienna. Currentul, one of the most strongly pro-German papers, declared:

"The policy that German followed from 1918 to 1940 was inspired by the Versailles treaty. We have now suffered at her hands the same indignities and humiliations she received at Versailles.

"Clemenceau told her, 'sign here; there is nothing for you to discuss.' We were told the same thing at Vienna."

Angry Rumanians Protest Grab

Captions explain the popular reaction in Rumania to surrender of Transylvania to Hungary.

Hungary's Troops Ready.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 1 (AP).—Widespread disorder in Transylvania moved the Hungarian government tonight to prepare 80,000 men for a sudden march into the newly acquired territory if needed.

No ruler could have given away voluntarily any of Transylvania and kept his crown. Since the deal was dictated by a force which they could not resist, however, the Rumanians may not blame their king.

Disorders now, the Rumanians fear, probably would lead to further partition of their country between Germany and Russia. The Rumanians have no desire for that.

FEAR THEY ARE BEATEN

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 1 [Passed by Censor].—An astonishing spirit of hopelessness was apparent today among the citizens of Bucharest during the demonstrations against the return of northern Transylvania to Hungary. The people feel deep indignation, but they feel also that they are licked before they start, because there is no real organization behind the demonstrations.

Grief rather than anger is the keynote.

In Bucharest, a thousand odd students tried to demonstrate in front of the university buildings but were kept circulating by lines of gendarmes.

Agitators Herded Away.

Groups would start shouting, "We won't give up Transylvania," but as soon as they gathered enough voices to begin to attract attention they were broken up. Lines of gendarmes with rifles cut out the more active agitators and herded them along until they were out of earshot of the crowd. They refrained from violence.

No ruler could have given away voluntarily any of Transylvania and kept his crown. Since the deal was dictated by a force which they could not resist, however, the Rumanians may not blame their king.

Disorders now, the Rumanians fear, probably would lead to further partition of their country between Germany and Russia. The Rumanians have no desire for that.

WORLD PASSES BY MARSEILLES, FORGOTTEN CITY

[This is the third of a series of articles by a Tribune correspondent who is making a tour of unoccupied regions of France.]

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 1.—In Marseilles, the biggest Mediterranean port and France's colonial capital, the absence of shipping is immediately striking. Before the war, craft of all types put out to the four corners of the world. Now the harbor is empty. One goes down to the docks and finds the odor of travel gone, the great cranes silent, and grass growing in the paths to the great reservoirs. But the maritime companies keep their offices open in the streets along the docks and one still sees signs advertising voyages to North Africa and elsewhere.

Arrow points to Marseilles.

Marseilles' skies too are empty. The great airport at Marignane and Berre lake no longer sees planes dropping down, 50 or 60 daily, from Paris, Brindisi, Algiers, Tunis, Barcelona, China, and India. Air traffic has stopped.

Traffic Trickles Back.

Still the people were comforted last week by faint signs of returning sea traffic. Between three passenger steamers and two old Norwegian oil tankers tied up at the docks, 49 vessels of sorts, mostly from north Africa, arrived and were made fast. They presumably ran the British blockade. These vessels brought 22,000 tons of merchandise, including wheat, oil, meat, and wine from Africa, and about 7,000 passengers, mostly demobilized soldiers from Algiers and Tunis.

Marseilles has not changed much otherwise. Its famous promenade of La Canebiere and the flowery Belsunce square still swarms with buzzing, colorful, sweating and slackly dressed crowds. The people lounge on the shady café terraces in the lazy atmosphere, buy newspapers or flowers at the gaudy kiosks, and go in and out of the café and bar doors hung with strings of beads to keep out the flies.

Few Traces of Bombings.

The city was bombed three times by the Italians. It is reported 800 persons were victims, but few traces of damage may now be seen.

Restaurant food is less abundant than in Lyons but there is no lack of anything except butter and sugar, and prices are cheap.

Paper is scarce, and the newspapers are printed on a small format hardly bigger than one's two hands.

The hotels are mostly full and along the Rue de Rome and Rue St. Ferreol and in the American consulate one sees hundreds of refugees. The American consulate examines scores of Jews seeking visas to America and, under an agreement with the British government, pays out $5,000 weekly to British citizens who cannot get money from England. Refugees never came here in enormous number, however, because of fear of an Italian attack coming from the east.

Germans Attract Attention.

A commission of German officers has been installed in a hotel in the Rue La Canebiere and the field gray garbed officials attract much attention. Occasionally, Italian officers, superb in their long capes, also pass along the streets.

Repatriation of refugees and restoration of traffic are the main jobs of M. Surleau, to whom Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain gave the job of administering Marseilles and the whole department surrounding it.

The city is jammed with soldiers going to or coming from Africa or awaiting demobilization. The plight of some is desperate, many having received no news of their families and others being without funds. One sees them pacing up and down the streets. Among the soldiers are colonials chattering in barbaric accents—black Senegalese with scarred faces, and Annamites with teeth blackened from the chewing of betel and areca nuts.

Marseilles is a city one is glad to leave. Toulon, which is an hour away down the coast, is equally as dead, but it presents a different sight with its arsenal and its naval base filled with warships that escaped from Mers el-Kebir, Algeria, when Britain took over much of the French navy.

GERMAN AIRMEN REACH CROYDON IN NEW ATTACKS

25 Raiders Shot Down, British Claim.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—Royal air force bombers made their second successive pre-dawn attack on German long-range gun emplacements along the French coast early today. Correspondents on England's south coast reported seeing the flashes of exploding bombs from Cap Gris Nez to Boulogne.

LONDON, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—German warplanes swarming up the Thames estuary penetrated as far as Croydon, London's great airport, in a series of savage Sunday assaults, the British air ministry and ministry of home security acknowledged today.

The object of raids on the southeast of England "may have been to attack our airdromes in this area, but only very slight damage was done," said the communique.

Results of the Sabbath air fighting were tallied by the ministries with the statement that 25 German aircraft were destroyed, with 15 British planes lost, tho the pilots of nine of the British planes were saved.

Some Persons Killed.

"The first raid was in two waves and altho our fighters intercepted and broke up the enemy formations, a few of his bombers penetrated as far as Croydon," the communique said.

"The second wave was turned back by our fighters and antiaircraft defenses and did not penetrate beyond the coast. During this raid bombs were dropped in Kent and Surrey, causing some damage and a number of casualties, including some persons killed.

"Two small formations of enemy bombers followed this raid and entered the Thames estuary. These formations were quickly dispersed, without, so far as is known at present, causing any damage or casualties."

The British statement noted, too, that "late in the afternoon large formations of enemy aircraft again crossed the coast of Kent, but were prevented from reaching far inland and after circling the coast were driven out to sea. Little damage was caused by this raid and the number of casualties was very small."

The British official version of the day's sharp air fighting was a story of repeated attacks on the United Kingdom beaten off by vigilant defenders in R. A. F. fighting craft and by antiaircraft gunners blasting at the invaders from the ground.

London had three raid alarms Sunday, making nine in two days.

Dwellings Damaged.

Scattered districts of the London area were hit. Houses, a railroad station, and dwellings were damaged, with small casualties, in one northeast Kent town.

Nazi planes also droned over Wales and the midlands during the night.

Puffs of smoke dotted the afternoon sky over London when antiaircraft defenses went into action during the third alarm. The roar of a diving plane echoed across the sky.

Bombs fell near a housing development in a section of greater London, but all the residents were safe in their back yard shelters.

About the time of the third alarm, from 1:59 to 2:44 p. m., the London and North Eastern railway announced that service had been interrupted on one section of a line running from Liverpool street. The cause was not given.

First Line of Defense.

The southeastern coast again was Britain's first line of antiaircraft defense—the high chalk cliffs with barrage balloons dotting the sky a score of miles across the English channel from German occupied France.

Several Messerschmitt escort fighters were reported shot down at the coast in connection with a frustrated midmorning bomber thrust toward the British capital.

While Messerschmitts attacked a southeast coast town, just as church services were starting, a formation of bombers passed inland and was engaged by R. A. F. fighters.

As the stained glass windows of the town's churches rattled to machine gun and antiaircraft fire, the bomber formation headed westward toward London. But within less than a half hour they returned, with four planes missing.

At another southeast town four bombers out of a formation swooped down and dropped bombs on an old, densely populated quarter.

Near a northeast area town, a delayed action bomb exploded and caused a number of casualties, some fatal, among searchers who were checking on craters of bombs dropped by the Germans. An 11 year old boy was among those fatally injured.

Smoke Ring Over Airdrome.

The air ministry news service gave this account of one of Sunday's many actions:

"A Spitfire squadron observed German planes marking a target in advance for bombers by laying a smoke ring over an Essex airdrome. When bombers escorted by Messerschmitt fighters arrived Spitfires were ready and three Messerschmitts were brought down, four more falling to a Hurricane squadron when they fled across the Thames estuary. One Messerschmitt was shot into the sea 10 miles from the French coast."

The news service also disclosed the Germans were using Messerschmitt fighters as dive bombers. These speedy planes previously had been used in bomb attacks, but not of the dive variety.

The ministry of information in a tabulation for the week ended Saturday night said the Germans had lost 293 planes and about 700 men while the British lost 128 planes and 110 men.

On Saturday alone the Germans lost 85 planes, the British said. They put their own losses for that day at 37 planes, but declared all but 12 of the pilots saved themselves.

The Hour Is Near: Goebbels; We Are Gaining: Churchill

BERLIN, Sept. 1 (AP).—The "decisive hour is inexorably near" for Britain, German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared today.

Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Speaking at Katowice, in German occupied Poland, on the first anniversary of the German-Polish conflict, the minister told Silesians that "developments of the past year must have convinced even Englishmen that the Fuehrer acts when the right hour arrives.

"Recently many Britons left the impression that they are impatient for a showdown. These impatient gentlemen will not want for an answer from the German armed forces.

"The Fuehrer sets a decisive hour and that means he can depend on his people."

Goebbels recalled Adolf Hitler's "outstretched hand" offer of peace on Oct. 6, 1939, and his reiterated offer of peace or destruction after the collapse of France.

"Churchill [British prime minister] and the plutocrats won't and can't understand the new world," he said, and asserted that British hopes for aid from "General hunger" had been blasted by German trade on the continent.

Touching on the Polish campaign, he said that German forces crossed the Polish borders after provocations which he asserted were fanned by the British, "but in the 18 day campaign the blaze was stamped out and in less than three weeks Poland fell."

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared today in a statement to the bomber command that air supremacy is being "gradually and painfully" wrested from Germany.

Winston Churchill.

His message said in part:

"The war cabinet have asked me to congratulate the bomber squadrons who have been engaged in recent long distance attacks on military objectives in Germany and Italy.

"The fact that on the occasion of the first operations in the Berlin area last Sunday week a great majority of the pilots brought their bombs home rather than loose them under weather conditions which made it difficult to hit the precise military objectives prescribed in their orders shows the high standard of poise and self-restraint preserved by the royal air force in performance of their dangerous duties.

"This is in marked contrast with wanton cruelty exhibited by the German flyers who, for example, have vented their spite upon the defenseless watering place and town of Ramsgate, in which nearly a thousand dwellings and shops, mostly of modest character, were wrecked."

The premier praised the British flyers for their precision and said:

"All this is another sign and proof that command of the air is being gradually and painfully, but none the less remorselessly, wrested from the Nazi criminals."

1,000 Houses Wrecked in Raid on British Town

(Pictures on back page.)

RAMSGATE, England, Sept. 1 (AP).—Nearly 1,000 workers' homes and seaside boarding houses were wrecked in the German air raid on Ramsgate near the Thames Estuary on Aug. 24, it was disclosed today. The Germans dropped about 500 bombs on the town but casualties were reported few.

BRITISH BOMBERS STRIKE AT BERLIN IN 2 MORE RAIDS

Germans Minimize Effect of Night Assaults.

BERLIN, Sept. 2, Monday (AP).—British bombers struck at Berlin in predawn raids Sunday and today. German authorities minimized the effects of the first raid and said that on the second the enemy was driven off before reaching this capital.

The Sunday morning alarm lasted an hour and 36 minutes; this morning it was 47 minutes. Sunday's raiders dropped three bombs in open fields near the city and a number of incendiary bombs which fizzled out in a western suburb, police declared.

New Blows at Britain.

The German high command on the other hand claimed new blows in the war against Britain—destruction of 133 British planes Saturday, 100,000 tons of shipping by submarines in three days, and damage to British airfields in Kent and Sussex counties and dock facilities at the mouth of the Thames.

The Germans acknowledged the loss of 32 planes in Saturday's fighting.

Among the vessels listed as sunk by U-boats was the 15,000-ton "modern British auxiliary cruiser" Dunvegan Castle. The loss has been acknowledged by the British.

Numerous Fires Set.

The high command's communique said "air and armaments factories in middle England were bombed" Saturday and that numerous fires were seen by Nazi pilots.

The German radio reported three British bombers were shot down in attacks Saturday night on the towns of Velp and Bortichem, in the Netherlands.

Several residential buildings were said to have been damaged without casualties at Velp, where two of the bombers were downed. The crew of one craft was killed and that of the other taken prisoner.

British Tell of Berlin Attack.

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The R. A. F. bombed an airplane engine factory, an airdrome, and "lighting installations" at Berlin last night, the air ministry announced.

British night raiders of the coastal command also attacked oil tanks, industrial targets, and various military objectives, including airdromes in the Netherlands as well as Germany, the announcement said. The communique:

"Yesterday evening aircraft of the coastal command carried out successful attacks on the oil tanks at Vlaardingen, near Rotterdam.

"Saturday night our bombers continued their attacks on selected military objectives in Germany and Holland. Among these were lighting installations, an aero engine factory, and an airdrome at Berlin.

"Oil plants at Cologne and Magdeburg, freight yards at Hamm, Soest, Osnabruck and Hanover, shipping at Emden, various industrial targets, and several airdromes also were attacked.

"Aircraft of the fleet air arm operating with the coastal command attacked the oil storage tanks at Rotterdam last night.

"Two of our aircraft have not returned."

Berliners Prepare for Life in a City Under Aerial Siege

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Berlin residents are getting organized for a siege of air raids. Depending on their tastes and their relations with their neighbors, they either equip themselves with a book or some kind of game when the alarm sends them to an air raid shelter.

Then the next afternoon, they try to go for a walk toward the part of the city or outskirts where they have heard damage has been done. Today, many walked toward the Tiergarten, the park where they usually take their Sunday afternoon stroll.

Part of Road Roped Off.

One section of the main road going thru the Tiergarten was closed off by police. The population concluded that duds still were lying there. Some of the holes seen in one of the broad avenues of the park and on the lawn were about two feet deep and about five inches in diameter.

When I arrived from Vienna early this morning, I asked a porter at the station if there had been any excitement. He did not reply, but scowled. When I reached my flat I knew there had been a night alarm. It smelled slightly of gas, which was coming from the ice box. When the alarm is given, the janitor turns off the gas. If the flat is unoccupied when an all clear signal is given, the gas under the ice box seeps out.

Plenty of Excitement.

One of the big department stores in Berlin—the only one housed in a building tall enough almost to rate the title of skyscraper—had plenty of excitement in the most recent raid. An incendiary bomb fell on its roof garden.

The fire was promptly extinguished by the air wardens of the building. They then rushed down to the ground floor in the speediest lift, because a fire had started in the street quite close to the subway station. That fire also was promptly extinguished.

Canadians Shoot Down 15 Nazi Planes in 8 Days

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—A royal Canadian air force fighter squadron, operating as a unit, was unofficially credited today with shooting down 15 German planes in the past eight days.

Why are prescriptions often written in Latin?

● Perhaps you have noticed that the prescriptions which your physician writes are usually written in Latin. No doubt you have wondered why. Prescriptions are written in Latin because Latin is a dead and never-changing language, universally employed in medical practice. A Latin prescription written in America or England can be filled in Germany, Russia, or France, even though the pharmacist may not know a word of English. On the other hand, no matter where your prescriptions may be written, we can fill them promptly and accurately. That is Sargent's specialty.

PENNER, THE OLD ZANY, TO STAR IN W-G-N SHOW

Comic Cast in Program Thursday Night.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

It wasn't long ago that Joe Penner, the bouncing zany with the big cigar and the bashed-in hat, had the country chortling as he warbled, "You, Too, Can Be the Life of the Party."

Penner is a comedian who specializes in the unusual, and anything but an orthodox performance may be expected of him Thursday night in the program In Chicago Tonight over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The broadcast is at 7:30 p. m.

In addition to Penner, the broadcast will present Duke Ellington, famous orchestra leader; Mary Jane Walsh, star of "Too Many Girls," the musical comedy now playing in the Grand Opera House, and Eddy Howard, Chicago singer.

Penner is appearing this week in the stage show in the Chicago theater. And, as was to be expected when he breezed in, the town has a new tag line.

Joe Penner caught in a characteristic pose at loop theater where he is appearing. He will take part in W-G-N program Thursday night.

"Muss my hair and call me Willkie!" Joe cracks in his act. The audiences raise the roof!

What would Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for President, think of it?

"Him? Why, he'd get a laugh out of it, same as the rest of the folks," said Penner. "And he'd probably top it with a crack of his own. You hear that 'Information, Please' broadcast of his? He's no slouch at gags himself, that fella."

It's a champion gag man speaking. So popular are Joe Penner's gag lines that even the postman, ever inclined to austerity if a man's name isn't plainly written on the envelope, relaxes in the case of the Hollywood comic. Penner's letters come simply inscribed "Wanna Buy a Duck?" or any other of a dozen catch phrases.

Penner expects to continue his tour five or six weeks before returning to Hollywood. This is his first appearance on the stage in five years.

But Googoo, the duck, is not in his entourage this trip. Googoo has retired. She's growing lazy and fat, Penner said, on an estate on Long Island.

Only 3 Pupils in School; All Are in Same Family

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 1 [Special].—When school opens Tuesday at the Grandview school near El Paso it will be a family affair. There are only three pupils, who are brothers. They are Bill Fouts, sixth grade, and Lloyd and Floyd, twins, who are in the fifth grade.

LAST OF ANNENBERG DEFENDANTS WILL GO ON TRIAL WEDNESDAY

The biggest income tax evasion case in the history of the federal courts will enter its final stages Wednesday when five associates of M. L. Annenberg and the Consensus Publishing company of St. Louis, accused of conspiring to defraud the government of $137,720 in income taxes from 1933 thru 1936, will be placed on trial.

Facing trial are Arnold W. Kruse, head of the Cecelia company, the Annenberg holding corporation; his son, Lester A. Kruse; James M. Ragen, general manager of the extinct Nationwide News service; his son, James M. Ragen Jr., and William Molasky, head of the Consensus company, which is also a defendant.

Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville will preside.

DRAFT ASSAILED AT GATHERING OF WORLD WAR VETS

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 1 [Special].—Members of the Red Arrow [32d] division, at the memorial services this morning in Legion park here heard District Attorney Cletus G. Chadek accuse the New Deal of an improper attitude toward subversive influences and charge it with wastefulness in the defense program.

Chadek decried attempts to change the constitution, and opposed conscription, which he said would be unnecessary if the government would spend its money training youths rather than wasting it on "foolish" projects.

Before the services the veterans marched in a parade in which the surviving members of the 120th field artillery band headed the procession. The American Legion firing squad fired the salute and the Rev. William Kiernan pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Urges Fight for Freedom.

Chadek declared that those who died in the world war left a heritage to those remaining—"to fight for the principles of a free America and the ideals of our republican form of government."

"We, as Americans have a right to expect all peoples to obey established authority," Chadek declared. "All, I say all, subversive organizations that tend to disrupt and obstruct the orderly functions of government are a menace and should be curtailed. And I believe that we as citizens have the right to expect our government to curtail them instead of giving some of them a pat on the back, and a clean bill of health, and that goes for Harry Bridges [Pacific coast radical whose deportation is an issue on congress], and all the rest of the 'isms. If they don't want our kind of government, let them go home."

Hits at Innovations.

He declared it is the nation's duty "to preserve our kind of government and we cannot countenance irregular opposition to its principles by untried innovations."

"We, with wealth and man power properly organized," he said, "do not have to look for help from any one. Instead of government spending money for duck ponds and other forms of foolishness, I say use that money in training young men as mechanics, aviators, and soldiers. Train young men now unable to get jobs — pay them a reasonable salary and you won't need conscription."

Chadek concluded by quoting from George Washington's farewell address in which the first President advised avoiding entanglements with foreign nations.

The balance of the day's program was given over to recreation and various regimental gatherings. The three day reunion will be concluded tomorrow.

CATHOLICS BAN GAMBLING AT COSTA RICA FAIRS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 1.—Use of roulette wheels or any other form of gambling at charity festivals has been ordered banned in a memorandum sent to all dioceses in Costa Rica by high prelates of the Roman Catholic church.

Roulette wheels were being used in increasing numbers at these functions and many poverty stricken rural workers, carried away by their enthusiasm for gambling, often were deprived of their wages, the prelates said.

THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

REPUBLICAN

We Voted for Roosevelt

(Provided by the National Committee of Democrats-for-Willkie.)

We Democrats for Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Mr. Roosevelt was a Democrat then himself. Most of us Democrats-for-Willkie also voted for Roosevelt in 1936. We had misgivings, but we went along. We admired his leadership in the dark days of '33. We thought he had pulled us out of the worst of the depression, tackled the farm problem, mobilized relief for millions of us without jobs. We gave him full credit for his outstanding humanitarian efforts. We still do.

But we also thought then that Mr. Roosevelt was a Democrat and would remain one. We thing now we were dead wrong. If the history, the traditions, the faith of the Democratic party mean anything, we can't for the life of us see by what right Mr. Roosevelt now calls himself a Democrat.

Admit They Are Great Democrats.

The democracy of such great party figures as our own Gov. Lehman, Senators Walsh of Massachusetts, Wheeler of Montana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Glass and Byrd of Virginia is admitted by everybody.

The democracy of such curious little figures as Secretary Ickes and the rest of the President's "inner circle" is admitted by nobody.

Yet when Mr. Roosevelt, in violation of Democratic tradition, sought to pack the Supreme court, he brushed aside completely the solemn warnings of the great party leaders and heeded only the advice of this little group of ambitious men.

And when Mr. Roosevelt tore up the precedent against a third term which has stood since Washington's time, and which Jefferson made an article of faith of the Democratic party he founded, it seemed to us that all the Roosevelt claims to genuine democracy went out the White House window.

Not that we believe Mr. Roosevelt sees himself as a dictator. We do believe that he considers himself indispensable as head of the nation, and when any man thinks he is indispensable in that office, he is certainly—if unconsciously—aiming a knockout blow at democracy.

Thomas Jefferson Thought So Too.

"The example of four Presidents voluntarily retiring at the end of their eighth year," said Jefferson, "and the progress of public opinion that the principle is salutary, has given it in practice the force of precedent and usage; insomuch that should a President consent to be a candidate for a third election, I trust he would be rejected on this demonstration of ambitious views."

Jefferson naturally did not seek a third term.
Andrew Jackson did not seek a third term.
Grover Cleveland did not seek a third term.
Woodrow Wilson did not seek a third term.

And in full accord with this great Democratic tradition, Mr. Roosevelt himself has said:

"A great man [Woodrow Wilson] left a watchword that we can well repeat: 'There is no indispensable man.'"

Now Pleads He Is Indispensable.

Now Mr. Roosevelt seeks a third term on the plea that he is indispensable. He has the right to his opinion. Our guess is that Jim Farley and Jack Garner and Cordell Hull and many other genuine Democrats have their opinions too, but some of them have thus far kept their own counsel.

As for us avowed Democrats-for-Willkie, we are going to express our opinion Nov. 5, by voting for the Democratic state and local tickets, in the main, and for Willkie for President. We think that Roosevelt has left the Democratic party. We think that a vote for Willkie is a vote for the fundamental principles of democracy, while a vote for Roosevelt is a vote against those principles.

We're still Democrats. That's why Willkie is our man.

DEMOCRATIC

Champion of Labor's Cause

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

Those of us who are supporting President Roosevelt for reëlection sincerely believe that he has rekindled the flame of genuine Americanism by his untiring efforts to lighten the lot of toiling men and women.

Patriotism comes easy to those of us who are blessed with a steady income and the continued assurance of good clothes, good food, attractive living quarters, and adequate medical attention. Patriotism comes a bit harder to those who are compelled to spend a lifetime toiling and sweating to spell out the bare necessities of everyday existence.

The paradox of the Hoover boomtime prosperities was the dreadful contrast of hunger and want in sweat shop wages in the midst of national plenty. It was hard to reconcile the creation of new millionaires by the hundreds while millions of decent citizens were forced to struggle along at mere subsistence wages. The Hoover administration, of course, did not will this to be so, but the only logical outcome was a crash of breath-taking proportions, and that crash inevitably happened.

Imperiled by Inequalities.

When he took over the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt decided to use the powers of government to prevent a repetition of that disaster. He sensed the fact that national unity and respect for government were being imperiled by inequalities in the standards of American living. He took steps to correct it.

In pursuing this policy the President threw a needed lifeline to the preservation of American democracy. Far ahead of his contemporaries he recognized the evil conditions which had eaten away the fabric of popular government in other lands. It was economic distress which brought Stalin, and later Hitler, to power. It was smouldering discontent against the government which brought France to ruin.

Gains for the Laboring Man.

In championing the cause of the laboring man, the President has brought down upon his head the curses and maledictions of those who look with fear upon changes in the established order. They take the short-sighted viewpoint that because he extends the hand of government to the distressed and the lowly their own economic position is bound to suffer. Of course, there is no conflict between the two. Every man benefits when the boundaries of popular loyalty are extended.

There is no gainsaying the fact that because of his humanitarian policies, President Roosevelt is today the most popular chief executive of modern time. The people have faith in him and, because they look on him as the symbol of government, they have a new faith in America and its democratic forms.

On Labor day, it is fitting to review some of the reforms brought about by the present administration in the interests of the working man. President Roosevelt himself supplied the best résumé in a letter to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, which was printed in the magazine the American Federationist. He listed the following:

The distribution of $3,000,000,000 in benefits to the unemployed, the old, the orphans, the widows and the blind.

The insurance of workers against unemployment with the payment of $1,000,000,000 in insurance benefits.

The coverage of 50,000,000 Americans by old age insurance.

The protection of 2,400,000 workers who were receiving less than 30 cents an hour and who were working more than 42 hours a week before the wages and hour act became law.

A troubled period lies ahead for America. No one disputes the need for toil and sacrifice to bring the country safely thru. But there is no occasion for uprooting the social gains which have been so dearly won by labor. For their own protection, the working men and women should vote for the reëlection of President Roosevelt.

RENEW HEARINGS ON 1 TERM LIMIT FOR PRESIDENCY

Burke Measure Calls for Six Year Tenure.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] today was preparing for renewed public hearings on his measure to amend the constitution to limit the President's tenure of office to one term of six years.

The one term proposal dates back to the founding of the government. History records that Thomas Jefferson first favored that provision for a single term of seven years for the chief executive be written into the constitution by the founding fathers. Later, however, he changed his mind.

Debated Many Times.

By retiring from office at the end of his second term, however, Senator Burke pointed out, Jefferson helped build up the tradition against a third term established by President Washington.

Congress has debated the issue many times in the past, records show. Resolutions similar to the present one were introduced as early as 1828 and repeated in the house or senate in 1829, 1830, 1832, and 1835. As late as 1913, on the eve of the inauguration of President Wilson, the six year term proposal passed the senate but the house later refused to act when Mr. Wilson intervened. The matter then was allowed to die.

It was revived again several years ago when members of congress first began to fear President Roosevelt would seek a third term and has been pending since. Senator Burke, who led in the successful fight against the New Deal court packing bill, said he opposes a third term for "any one."

Free of Campaign Worries.

He bases his plea for a constitutional amendment limiting the President's term to six years on the ground the greatly increased powers vested in the chief executive in recent years make it necessary to leave the President free from the problems of reëlection.

"No man can safely predict the fate of our form of government if the third term tradition is broken," he declared.

EVEN IN DEATH, LUNDEEN JIBES AT WAR MONGERS

Records Editorial to Refute Wallace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Senator Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.] had a sly sense of humor, an illustration of which is contained in today's issue of the Congressional Record.

Addressing the senate for the last time shortly after noon yesterday, about three hours before his death in the crash of an air liner, Senator Lundeen placed in the Record several short editorials on foreign policy.

The senator was an advocate of strict neutrality and nonintervention in what he called "the real estate quarrels" of Europe. He did not agree with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Democratic nominee for Vice President, who intimated in his speech of acceptance last Thursday night that a vote against Roosevelt will be a vote for Hitler and that Hitler will attack the United States before the new administration comes in if President Roosevelt is defeated.

Clipped from Farm Paper.

The editorials with which Senator Lundeen answered Wallace came from Wallace's Farmer, of which Secretary Wallace is editor on leave. An editorial dated May 18, said:

"Nervous Americans, picturing foreign navies landing hostile troops on our shores, may be comforted by what happened in Norway. It took the Nazis four weeks, even with the advantage of a surprise attack and little defense against them, to put 60,000 men across from 100 to 200 miles of air-protected sea.

"And it took the British, with a navy in control of the North sea, over two weeks to put 20,000 men across 800 miles. Both estimates may be high.

"The American navy, in its own waters, is strong enough to defeat the British and Nazi navies put together. Our coast defenses are in fair shape, and the army probably could mobilize 100,000 men on the coast in a week; 200,000 men in two weeks.

"What chance would an invasion, coming over 3,000 miles or more, have against us?

"So long as we stick to defending ourselves, we can get along very well. Of course, if the British and French and Dutch want us to protect their Asiatic possessions against Japan, we aren't strong enough. But how many Americans really want to fight to help Europe run Asia?"

Another editorial, dated June 15, said:

"Remember the radio broadcast of the war of the worlds, when a lot of folks thought the Martians had landed in New Jersey?

"The same folks—and a few more—are now convinced that the Nazis will land next week in Mexico.

"Let's remember that altho it has shrunk a bit, the Atlantic still is quite an ocean. And that the Nazis, even if they should win completely, have a long job ahead in consolidating their gains in Europe, if they can consolidate those gains at all.

"Hysteria about fifth columns and Nazi spies is especially to be deplored.

"Because your neighbor doesn't agree with you, it doesn't prove he's a fifth columnist. He may merely be an American exercising his right of free speech under the constitution.

"The army and state police forces can look after the spies. We had better keep the weeds out of the corn."

GATHER UP TORN BODIES OF PLANE CRASH VICTIMS

Clothing, Money, Baggage Scattered Over Field.

Lovettsville, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—A Pennsylvania Central Airline official today said the airplane that crashed yesterday, killing 25 persons in the nation's worst commercial aviation disaster, apparently struck the ground with the throttles of both engines wide open.

But as haggard ambulance crews assembled the torn bodies, among them that of Senator Ernest Lundeen [F. L., Minn.], no clue had been found as to what sent the giant airliner plummeting to the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains during a cloudburst.

C. Bedell Monro, president of Pennsylvania Central Airlines, declared the transport was "out of control" when it crashed.

Bounce Destroys Ship.

"It is apparent," he said in a statement issued in Pittsburgh, "that the airplane made contact with the ground at a sharp angle and at an excessive rate of speed.

"During a high bounce that followed, eye witnesses report that the ship was destroyed, and a wide area over which the wreckage fell substantiates that.

"What caused the airplane to be descending at an unorthodox angle and at such great speed has not been determined.

"One conclusion which can be reached is that the airplane was out of control when it made contact with the ground, inasmuch as the character of the terrain is such that it would have been possible to make an emergency landing with only minor damage."

Public Hearings Planned.

In Washington, Harllee Branch, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics board, said that public hearings will be held in Washington beginning Thursday in an attempt to determine the cause of the accident.

Today a bright sun beating down on the crash-scarred clover field disclosed a picture of horror. Virtually all of the bodies appeared to have been severed. Unofficial observers said the passengers apparently were buckled in their seats and literally were cut in two by the impact.

J. H. Carmichael, vice president of Pennsylvania Central Airlines and a former pilot on the same route, said both throttles were wide open, but he would not estimate the speed of the plane when it crashed a few minutes after leaving Washington en route to Pittsburgh.

There was no indication of an explosion before the plane hit, he said, and the distance some portions of the bodies and debris were thrown might have been due to impact velocity alone. The mangled bodies were scattered over a 25 acre area.

Silent on Lightning Possibility.

Col. Donald Connolly, administrator of the Civil Aeronautics board, who took charge of that agency's investigation, and other officials inspecting the wreckage agreed there was nothing definite on which to hang the cause of the disaster. None would make official comment on speculation that lightning struck the big ship.

County officials reversed their previous stand at about 3 a. m. and granted permission for removal of the bodies to nearby Leesburg, Va.

During the three hours before dawn, in the glare of powerful floodlights generated by an emergency unit set up in the field, undertakers and their assistants assembled the mangled bodies in three hearses. They labored thru ankle deep mud, hacked down corn stalks in adjoining fields which caught portions of the bodies catapulted, and sorted thru a mass of twisted metal and machinery.

Clothing Litters Field.

Among the scattered remains of victims lay clothing, shoes, hats, handbags, money, personal effects, and hundreds of bits of metal from the plane's fuselage and wings, spread about like confetti.

Almost in the center of the field stood the plane's tail assembly, bent and twisted and up-ended as if it had rolled over and over after breaking loose from the ship's main section.

To the right and left were the shattered wing portions, and all about lay other pieces of the de luxe $129,000 Douglas air liner. At the base of the slight hill over which Pilot Lowell Scroggins vainly fought to lift the big ship was a huge crater, the spot it was believed the ship struck first.

By midafternoon relatives had identified from personal effects about half the victims. Lundeen's body was identified by Martin W. Hysong of Washington, a personal friend. FBI fingerprint experts were enlisted to aid in identifying others.

Wreckage to Be Burned.

Ground crews of the air line began piling up wreckage and planned to saturate it with gasoline and set it ablaze. Carmichael said there was no salvage.

Air line officials discredited reports that a note had been dropped by Stewardess Margaret Carson of Pittsburgh, just before the plane struck. Persons first on the scene who reported the note said it asked that the line's Pittsburgh office be notified.

It was the air line's first fatal accident in 13 years' operations, and the nation's first fatal crash of a commercial transport plane since March 26, 1939, when eight were killed at Oklahoma City.

EXPECT AIR LINE TRAGEDY TO STIR ROW IN CONGRESS

Recalls Fight on Safety Setup Changes.

20 months with the last 20 months of the old bureau of air commerce in the department of commerce.

12 Deaths Against 62.

For the department of commerce, the miles flown were 109,793,440, the passengers carried were 1,852,902, and the number of fatalities was 62. For the CAA the miles flown were 134,553,519, the passengers carried were 2,472,979, and the number of fatalities was 12.

To prove his charge of political corruption in the old bureau of air commerce, Senator Clark quoted an official report by John Dickinson in 1935, then assistant secretary of commerce and later assistant attorney general. Referring to the removal of three of the six district safety managers in the United States, Dickinson's report stated:

"Irrespective of the reasons which may have actuated the officials of the bureau of air commerce in originally recommending the removals, Assistant Secretary Ewing Mitchell, who sat as a member of the committee while the three managers of safety were being examined, asked each and every one of them whether they did not think that the approval of the New Deal by the people of the United States, as expressed in the election of President Roosevelt, required a clean sweep of government employés connected with the old deal, and whether they did not think that having held their jobs for a number of years it was time for them to get out and let others have a chance at these attractive and lucrative jobs."

Conditions Called "Ghastly."

The death of Senator Cutting resulted in a senate investigation by an air safety committee headed by the late Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York. Evidence was taken by Senator Clark's subcommittee at the scene of the crash near Kirksville, in Clark's home state of Missouri.

The committee received evidence that one week before Senator Cutting's death the personnel board of the bureau of air commerce was told by the superintendent of maintenance that conditions on the air lines were ghastly. The superintendent of maintenance expressed the hope that it would not require another accident involving the life of some prominent citizen, such as the one in which Knute Rockne had been killed, to arouse public opinion and force improvement of conditions.

Instead of correcting conditions, Senator Clark told the senate, "the executives of the department of commerce devoted their attention to trying to get the scalp of the superintendent of maintenance, even to the extent of borrowing a postoffice inspector from the postoffice department to try to frame this man in a scandal at Atlantic City."

Tomorrow Is Final Day for 2d Tax Instalment

The county treasurer's office will remain open until 8 p. m. tomorrow to receive payments from last minute taxpayers on their 1939 bills. Tomorrow is the final day for payment without penalty of the second instalment.

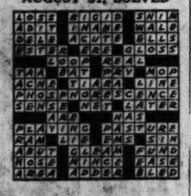
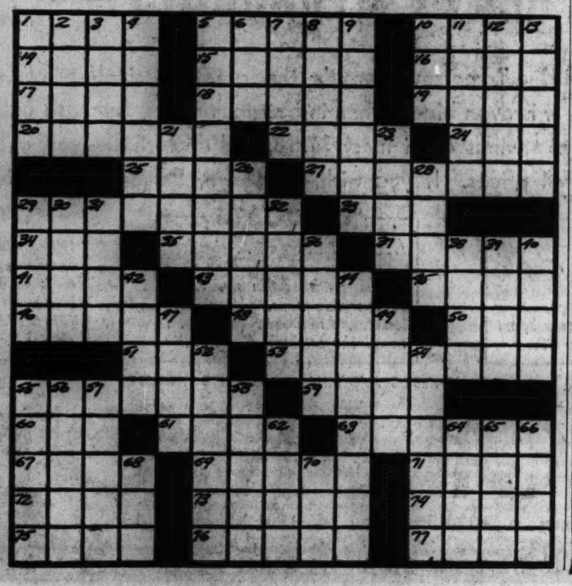
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, SOLVED





NAME OFFICIALS TO ATTEND RITES FOR SEN. LUNDEEN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Arrangements were made today for senate and house committees to escort the body of Senator Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.] to a state funeral at the Minnesota capitol on Wednesday.

They will leave here tomorrow afternoon and will arrive in St. Paul Tuesday. The senator's body will lie in state at the capitol Tuesday night and Wednesday. Military services and burial are planned at Fort Snelling National cemetery, near Minneapolis, at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Chesley W. Jurney, senate sergeant at arms, asked Senator Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.] to head the senate committee. Vice President John N. Garner appointed Senators Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.]; Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.], and James E. Murray [D., Mont.] to serve with Shipstead.

Representative August H. Andresen [R., Minn.] was named to the house committee by Speaker William B. Bankhead [D., Ala.] Three other house members will be named tomorrow.

HUNT 3 AFTER $239 HOLDUP.

Police were hunting yesterday for three robbers who fled up the Royal Furniture Mart, 2300 Roosevelt road, Saturday night, and escaped with $239.

AVIATOR LANDS SHIP IN FIELD ON SOUTHWEST SIDE

Residents in the neighborhood of Archer and Ashland avenues had a good time yesterday afternoon when a small bi-plane made a forced landing smack in the middle of a field of waist high sunflowers.

They all ran out to give the plane the once over. But the pilot, George Havlena, wasn't so pleased. He couldn't figure out any way to get the ship back to Stinson airport, La Grange, except by truck.

George Havlena.

Havlena was over 27th street and Ashland avenue, towing an advertising banner, when his motor failed at an altitude of 1,000 feet. Havlena spotted the field and brought his plane down after cutting the banner loose. Havlena lives at 2103 Scoville avenue, Berwyn.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Mendota, Ill., Sept. 1 (Special).—An overflowing mail box led to the discovery yesterday of the body of Miss Caroline Kopp, 68 years old, on the floor in the basement of her home. Officials said she had been dead three weeks. She had lived in this community all her life. Four brothers survive.

GLIDER EXPERTS CLASH IN FINALS OF MEET TODAY

3 Leading in Battle for Tribune's Award.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

Three pilots soared their motorless sailplanes deep into Indiana yesterday on cross country flights of from 138 to 186 air miles. At times they were forced to fly blindly thru heavy cloud formations, depending for guidance on the aeronautical instruments with which their gliders were equipped.

The three pilots are leaders in the third annual American Open Soaring contest being held at the Lewis School of Aeronautics, near Lockport. They are Stanley Corcoran of Joliet, John Robinson of San Diego, Cal., and J. S. Charles of Atlanta, Ga.

Vie for Tribune Award.

Corcoran and Robinson are close competitors in the race for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S trophy and grand prize of $400, which will go to the winner of the meet. Charles, however, became a possible competitor yesterday with a spectacular 138 mile flight to Lebanon, Ind.

The three leaders are expected to take off from Lewis airport early today on new cross country attempts to clinch THE TRIBUNE'S award. Today is the last day of the 10 day meet.

Corcoran, who is 24 years old and a designer as well as a pilot of sailplanes, made the longest flight yesterday. Taking off shortly before 11 a. m., he brought his single seated Frankfort Cinema plane down more than six hours later at Dolan, Ind., northeast of Bloomington and 186 air miles from his starting point.

Reports on His Flight.

In his telephoned report to contest officials, Corcoran said he encountered clouds almost as soon as he left Lewis airport. He tried to stay below them, but at times was forced to rise into them and fly by his instruments in order to find the air currents needed to keep his motorless ship aloft. His highest altitude, 5,600 feet, was reached about one hour out of Dolan, he said.

Robinson, who on Saturday made a thrilling blind flight to Kingsbury, Ind., during which he ran into hail and rainstorms and encountered temperatures as low as 20 degrees above zero, made a longer but not so spectacular flight yesterday. He left Lewis airport at noon, flying alone in his two seated Schweizer sailplane, and landed six hours later at Rockville, Ind., 140 air miles from his takeoff point.

Altho Robinson flew by his instruments part of the way, he reported that the trip was not nearly so hazardous as that of Saturday. His maximum altitude yesterday was 7,200 feet, compared with the 13,600 feet he achieved on Saturday.

Also Flies by Instruments.

Charles reported that he also had to fly by instruments during part of his trip yesterday. At times, he said, his German built Minimoa sailplane soared into heavy cloud masses 7,000 feet above the ground. Charles is an Eastern Air Lines pilot who recently became a glider enthusiast.

Contest officials estimated that Corcoran's flight would bring his total of points in the meet to about 730. Robinson is close behind with an estimated 673 and Charles trails the two leaders with an estimated 555 points. Until the barographs carried in the sailplanes are returned to meet headquarters, the exact totals for each cannot be figured.

In other cross country attempts yesterday, Randy Chapman of Detroit, Mich., soared his high speed sailplane 58 air miles to Watseka, Ill., and William Putnam, also of Detroit, sailed 44 air miles in his Midwest plane to a landing near Kankakee. Ted Bellak of Chelsea, Mich., who made the first glider crossing of Lake Michigan last year, yesterday flew 26 air miles to Deselm, Ill.

The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, is expected to attend the closing session of the meet today and officiate at the formal dedication of Lewis airport. He will be assisted by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, honorary chairman of the meet. A banquet for glider pilots and their crews in the Woodruff hotel in Joliet tonight will conclude the meet.

DEATH TAKES NO HOLIDAY; HITCHES WEEK-END RIDES

Mother and 2 Young Sons Killed in Crash.

Death rode the highways yesterday as thousands of motorists took Labor day week-end outings.

Illinois last night led all states in week-end traffic fatalities, with a score reported. Over the nation there were 178 such deaths, according to an Associated Press tabulation.

Mrs. Anna Blum, 28 years old, and her two sons, Vincent, 5, and Steven, 3, were killed yesterday in an auto accident near Towanda, eight miles north of Bloomington. She was riding with her husband, Alfons, who was critically hurt. Another son, Joseph, 2, was bruised. The Blum home is at 3722 North Hoyne avenue.

Chicagoan and Son Killed.

A Chicago railroad solicitor and his small son were killed and a daughter was injured critically in a collision at Wilson and Rollins roads in Fox Lake township, Lake county. The father was Euzeb Brault, 45, of 1232 North Mayfield avenue. The son killed with him was Robert, 10. It was feared that Robert's sister, Barbara, 7, would die. She was taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan.

The Brault car collided with one driven by Patrick McDermott, 28, a salesman living at 1820 North Drake avenue.

Mrs. Teresa Matusek, 41, of 2147 Superior street, was killed in an accident on U. S. highway 41, two miles northwest of Waukegan. A blowout was blamed for the crash. Four others in the car were taken to St. Therese hospital, all seriously injured. They are: Charles D. Smith, 50, of 2094 Milwauke avenue, the driver; his wife, Mary; Teresa Variny, 37, of 1321 North Rockwell street; and Julia Bernsdord, 35, of 1321 North Rockwell street.

Daniel Martin, 47, of 855 Windsor avenue, a mechanic, was killed in front of 947 Wilson avenue by an automobile driven by Martin T. Connor, 38, a carnival operator from Miami, Fla. Connor had been staying at the St. Clair hotel.

Killed in Headon Crash.

A Downers Grove widow was killed and four other persons were injured severely when two cars met head-on with terrific force on highway 6, near Valparaiso, Ind.

The woman killed was Mrs. Corrine Siebert, 44, of 817 Rogers street, Downers Grove. Her son, William, 19, was taken in a critical condition to the Porter Memorial hospital in Valparaiso, as were a youthful neighbor, William Olson, and William Burchett and Mrs. Eleanor Dawson of Akron, O. Burchett and Mrs. Dawson were in a car that collided with the Siebert automobile.

Herman Korlin, 51, of 905 State street, Hammond, was killed in a head-on collision with a hit and run driver on U. S. highway 41, near Schneider, Ind. Indiana state highway police said the other driver abandoned his car and fled on foot after the collision.

Winnetka Woman Killed.

Mrs. Augusta Lehman, 37, of 1035 Elm street, Winnetka, was killed near Youngstown, O., when a car driven by her husband Edward J., struck another car which skidded into his path. Lehman, 39, a chemist, and his son, Edward Jr., 6, were hurt, the father seriously.

Charles Gauger, 64 years old, was killed and his brother, Chris, 62, was injured in an automobile collision last night at Roosevelt road and Blanchard street in Wheaton. The brothers lived at 1020 College avenue, Wheaton. Chris was taken to the Elmhurst hospital. The driver of the other car was Raymond Wheaton, 424 West Jefferson street, Wheaton.

An unidentified colored man about 35 years old died in the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, early today shortly after he was struck by an automobile at Dixie highway and Ashland avenue, near Homewood. The driver was Peter Strickler, 22, 183d street and LeClaire avenue, Tinley Park.

Bert Vanderwarf, manager of the Chicago Motor club's touring bureau, warned that traffic jams may be expected this afternoon and evening as vacationists return from their trips.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 557 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 411 were killed in Chicago, where 15,453 were injured in the same period.

SEEKS ADEQUATE AUTO BARRICADE ON LOWER LEVEL

Coroner A. L. Brodie said yesterday he would recommend that the city erect adequate barricades at the edge of the lower level of Wacker drive along the river to prevent automobiles from being driven or pushed into the river from the lower level parking space.

On Saturday Andrew Zocher, 27 years old, 908 North Fairfield avenue, was drowned when he accidentally backed his car over the 6¼ inch high curb into the river. Brodie said the low, slanting curb is a definite hazard to motorists.

An inquest into Zocher's death will be held tomorrow.

AN EDITORIAL ON PEACE.

"The congress of the United States has given me certain authority to provide safeguards of American neutrality in case of war. The President of the United States, who, under our constitution, is vested with primary authority to conduct our international relations, thus has been given new weapons with which to maintain our neutrality.

"Nevertheless—and I speak from a long experience—the effective maintenance of American neutrality depends today, as in the past, on the wisdom and determination of whoever at the moment occupy the offices of President and secretary of state. . . .

"Nevertheless, if war should break out again in another continent, let us not blink the fact that we would find in this country thousands of Americans who, seeking immediate riches—fools' gold—would attempt to break down or evade our neutrality.

"They would tell you—and, unfortunately, their views would get wide publicity—that if they could produce and ship this and that and the other article to belligerent nations, the unemployed of America would all find work. They would tell you that if they could extend credit to warring nations that credit would be used in the United States to build homes and factories and pay our debts. They would tell you that America once more would capture the trade of the world.

"It would be hard to resist that clamor; it would be hard for many Americans, I fear, to look beyond—to realize the inevitable penalties, the inevitable day of reckoning that comes from a false prosperity. To resist the clamor of that greed, if war should come, would require the unswerving support of all Americans who love peace.

"If we face the choice of profits or peace, the nation will answer—must answer—'We choose peace.' It is the duty of all of us to encourage such a body of public opinion in this country that the answer will be clear and for all practical purposes unanimous. . . .

"No matter how well we are supported by neutrality legislation, we must remember that no laws can be provided to cover every contingency, for it is impossible to imagine how every future event may shape itself. In spite of every possible forethought, international relations involve of necessity a vast uncharted area. In that area safe sailing will depend on the knowledge and the experience and the wisdom of those who direct our foreign policy. Peace will depend upon their day to day decisions.

"At this late date, with the wisdom which is so easy after the event and so difficult before the event, we find it possible to trace the tragic series of small decisions which led Europe into the great war in 1914 and eventually engulfed us and many other nations.

"We can keep out of war if those who watch and decide have a sufficiently detailed understanding of international affairs to make certain that the small decisions of each day do not lead toward war and if, at the same time, they possess the courage to say 'No!' to those who selfishly or unwisely would let us go to war."

* * *

All of the above is quoted from a speech delivered by Franklin D. Roosevelt at Chautauqua, N. Y., on Aug. 14, 1936, during his campaign for a second term. In the following year Mr. Roosevelt stood on the bridge in Chicago and began to make those "small decisions of each day." He made a small decision to call for a quarantine of bellicose nations the world over. He began the "tragic series of small decisions" which eventually promise to engulf us. He had praised the neutrality bill which had given him "new weapons with which to maintain our neutrality" but he had begun to encourage not "such a body of public opinion in this country that the answer will be clear and for all practical purposes unanimous" in the choosing of peace. He was headed for the entanglements which he had said could be avoided only "by the wisdom and determination of whoever at the moment occupied the offices of President and secretary of state."

In 1939, having become a Perennial Candidate, he put the capsheaf on his series of small decisions by asking for the repeal of the neutrality act, which gave him new weapons to preserve a peace he no longer wanted. And he asked congress and the people to tell him why we should deny ourselves the profits of turning raw materials into implements of war here and selling them, when by doing so we could give employment to thousands.

If the Perennial Candidate had guided himself by the words he uttered four years ago, and if he had provided national defense instead of international provocations, the American people would not be facing the prospect of being in a war before winter.

The campaign for the second term couldn't use a war. The third term can't do without one.

PASS THE WALTER BILL.

Amid the false issues and hysteria that have been created to fasten a war dictatorship on this nation, congress should not overlook the fact that the country already is suffering from a peacetime dictatorship by malicious New Deal administrative agencies.

The Walter bill provides a defense against this administrative tyranny. Its provisions are simple. It restores to citizens the right of appeal to the courts, which is the basis of Anglo-Saxon justice. It will prevent the New Deal agencies from exploiting and extending their Nazi system of government under which executive appointees, without responsibility to congress or the courts, have been making laws and acting as judge, jury, and prosecutor in trying and punishing any one who offends them.

The New Dealers are bawling that our civilization is in danger. They are right, but the greatest danger is not where they are pointing. The greatest danger is their own attempts to destroy the equal protection of the laws under a system of free and independent courts. The present congress can render no greater service in protecting the American way of life than by passing the Walter bill.

MR. WALLACE TOOK THE AIR.

W-G-N has explained to its listeners that the break in the broadcast of the All-Star-Green Bay football game was unavoidable. The collegians had just made their second touchdown and were about to try for the extra point to tie the score when Mr. Wallace took the air. He took the play away from his fellow Iowans, Dr. Anderson and Nile Kinnick. For 30 minutes the listeners-in of W-G-N and Mutual heard of Hitler and not of touchdowns. Many of them did not like it.

W-G-N and Mutual were not responsible. It may be that the people should be more interested in affairs of state just now than in football, but in this case the objection is not good. The All-Star game is a special and particular event outside the ordinary run of sports. It is a once a year occasion, scheduled long in advance. Mr. Wallace chose to make his acceptance speech on that night and at a time when he knew he would break up the broadcast.

If Mr. Wallace chose to break it up, W-G-N and Mutual could do nothing about it. Equal treatment must be given to the candidates. And government officials are inclined to think that it is not in public interest to deny them any of the communication facilities at any time they want to use them. A California station was told that the fireside chat was a must for the air. Something of the sort was said to a Pittsburgh station about a Browder speech. That was when the communists were more than poor relations.

Mr. Wallace wanted a monopoly of the air for his speech and he got it. Now he can square himself. The Republicans might have objected to any interference with his speech for any purpose. It was a good speech for the Republicans. Mr. Wallace, with Mr. Roosevelt's approval—excellent speech, said Mr. Roosevelt—made it clear that the New Deal party is the war party. It bawls to arms and hunts a battlefield.

THE CAPTAIN DIDN'T KNOW WHY.

The army transport American Legion landed its 870 refugee passengers safely at New York on Wednesday after a dangerous journey thru the German mine fields and blockade area north of Scotland.

The ship took that route on its trip from Petsamo, the Finnish port on the Arctic, on the orders of the American state department. Its captain, Bror E. Torning, said he didn't know why this was done. He said that the route farther north, passing Iceland, was not only safer but was shorter as well. The state department, he said, "must have had some reason for ordering the course we took, but I don't know what it was."

The country will certainly want to know what that reason was. All it knows now is that after ordering the American Legion to take the longer and more dangerous course the Roosevelt administration carried on an intemperate exchange with the Nazi government, assuring Hitler's foreign office that Germany would be held responsible for any mishap to the boat.

Are the war mongers in Washington so anxious for a cause of war that they will gamble with the lives of nearly a thousand American refugees and sailors in order to provoke one?

Editorial of the Day

TEACHING TICKET TAKERS.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Supporters of the administration make much of the fact that Wendell L. Willkie accuses the New Deal of financial extravagance and yet indorses many New Deal measures which cannot be carried on without sizable expenditures. The Republican candidate, they contend, thus places himself in a contradictory position.

For those who have been able to observe New Deal operations, unblinded by partisanship, no such criticism of the Willkie position is tenable. Such observers see wherein many New Deal projects have been operated in a wasteful manner, without closing their eyes to the beneficial results of the projects. One may protest that one paid too much for a meal while admitting that it was well prepared and worth eating.

Consider, for instance, the WPA program. It would require time and space to list the public improvements the program has given Cleveland, which this community could not otherwise have afforded, especially in a time of financial difficulty. Among the outstanding items are the lake front road, the expansion of the airport, the extension of our sewage system and the numerous school stadiums and municipal playgrounds.

Yet there is plenty of evidence that the WPA program has cost more than it should.

There is the fact, for instance, that in the summer and fall of 1936, when there was an actual shortage of some types of labor in private industry, the WPA not only failed to reduce its activities in keeping with the times, but actually continued adding to its pay roll right up to the November election. Then, a few days after the election, the ax fell, and in rather a brutal manner, as many a Clevelander can recall.

There was, under Harry L. Hopkins, the growth of a huge burocracy at WPA headquarters where hundreds of starry-eyed young men and women spent their time making almost daily changes in WPA administrative and fiscal operating routine. At one time new rules were being received at local WPA offices almost before those they rescinded were in effect. The Cuyahoga county director found it necessary for a while to disregard such orders from Washington in order to get anything done.

There were such items as the 90 page pamphlet sent from Washington, describing the method by which ticket takers in the federal theater project should take tickets, an occupation which even a child could learn in 10 minutes of instruction.

The items on this side of the record could be extended on and on. They have constituted wasteful spending and they are some of the reasons one can with good logic indorse the fundamental program and still promise savings.

UNANSWERABLE RETORT.

A young woman secretary was late returning from luncheon on a recent day, and when her employer asked her why she explained apologetically that she had had her hair cut. The explanation made him angry.

"The idea, having your hair cut on company time," he fumed.

"Well, it grows on company time," retorted the girl.

REFUGEE.

O, yes, it's real fun to sail off on the sea,
As a plump little wartime refugee,
And it's fun to pose, with satchel in hand,
For pictures in papers on every newsstand.

It's the greatest excitement to be a young guest
In a house where the folk and the food are the best.
The whole thing's a lark for a small refugee:
Each day brings new treats and surprises to see;
But each night brings, at dusk, no mother to place
A soft goodnight kiss on a wet little face.

The Hard Way.

A fine example of what used to be called boondoggling is offered by Carolyn B. Lee: Watch the man clearing the sidewalk of paper scraps. He carries a tridentlike instrument—a staff with one long sharp pike at the end—as do the groundskeepers in the parks. With this he spears the papers and lifts them into his bag. Even a scrap as small as a postage stamp is picked up with the spear, tho it means poking and scraping for minutes. But he never bends his back.

Discussion.

The walls of one of Chicago's handsomest office buildings listened and shrank, says a bulletineer, when they heard two well-groomed, sartorially correct executives describing a problem.

"We put a million in that outfit," said one, and the other woefully agreed, "It hadn't oughta been."

PRAYER IN AN ATTIC.

Memory is a roughworn trunk
Of dreams within the attic of the mind.

There on a rainy day,
When in the windless dripping gloom
Old leaves fall from the tired branches
Of old trees,
I go in retreat to musty warmth
And hear the dreary drumming on the sodden, shingled roof.
In reverent quiet
I untie packets of thought blue ribbon bound,
Leaf thru loved images . . .
Dim when I placed them there with tears,
They dimmer grow with time.

How often since we met have I hid away
Some careless word you spoke,
Caressed your picture and kept it
In this storeroom of the heart.

Pray never a day may come
When I shall find you there . . . another lost dream, Held only in the Rough worn trunk of memory.

Nearest British Possessions.

The presence in Chicago of two persons who own islands in the British Virgin Islands calls to attention how close British territory is to American in the Caribbean. The largest of the British Virgins, Tortola, lies a mere half mile from St. John of the American Virgin Islands and only 80 miles from Puerto Rico. Last August a year ago the Graf Spee spent a week nosing about in British Virgin Islands and taking soundings, and German cruisers and submarines were frequently thereabouts, according to Robb White, author and magazine writer now visiting in Chicago at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry Field.

* * *

Mr. White owns Marina Cay of the British Virgin Island group, where he has built a house and lives most of the year. The other British Virgin Island owner now in Chicago is Richard Sanger, who recently came from Washington to head the Young Republican club in Chicago during the Willkie campaign. His island, Guana, he owns jointly with Louis Bigelow of Boston and has been turned into an island club, with deep sea fishing available and wonderful white sand beaches.

The British occupied Tortola in 1666 and have held it ever since. The United States bought the islands of St. Croix, St. Thomas, and St. John from Denmark in 1917. There is an interesting piece on the American Virgins in the current National Geographic magazine.

TEACHING CALVES TO DRINK.

[Topeka Daily Capital.]

The smart inventor who devised an electrical calf weaner is working backward. He should have invented something to teach a weanling to drink out of a bucket. That would have made a weaner unnecessary.

Every farm lad who is custodian of the juvenile live stock has longed for a simple, effective way of breaking calves from the natural habit of drawing nourishment from the mamma cow's source of supply. There are many discouraging chores about the farm, but teaching a calf to drink tops the list.

You divide the lacteal fluid after pailing the cow, taking half to the kitchen, and putting the other half in the calf bucket. Approach the bawling quadruped, and with one arm seize it about the neck. With vigorous effort insert two or more fingers in its mouth. Then by main strength bend the neck downward until the nose is covered with milk.

Then the fun begins, or is it fun? The calf snorts and blows milk all over the teacher. Or rams its head this way or that and turns over the bucket. A kick in the ribs doesn't tame the hungry bovine. It only makes bad matters worse. In retaliation the outraged animal either shoves its master thru the barbwire fence or into the stock tank.

Any farm boy knows that a calf can be weaned by shutting it in the barn, but teaching it table manners is something else. Many a lad has lost his temper and fingernails substituting for the udder which nature placed just far enough from the ground for a calf to reach. If the inventor chap will follow thru with a feeder gadget he will have something more worth while than an electrical weaner.

About the only thing the official bulletins make clear is that Germany and England are having a war. —Indianapolis News.

SCHOOLS AND THE HEALTH OF CHILDREN.

ONE may assume that the responsibility of our school system begins and ends with the teaching of the three R's. But this is far from desirable, as health is more important than "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic." In fact, the child with a puny body and a brilliant mind may present a tragic situation. Nowadays teachers are well aware that everything possible must be done to conserve the well-being of their pupils and boards of education consider with great care the construction of buildings, lighting, heating, ventilation, facilities for exercise, etc.

But the oversight must go even further. Are glasses needed to correct defective vision? What about those with poor hearing? Are badly diseased teeth or tonsils depressing the vital forces? It is safe to say that thousands of cases of serious after effects are prevented annually because minor difficulties are detected in time by instructors, nurses, and physicians. In most instances all that is needed is to report inherent weaknesses to the parents. The family doctor will then be consulted and remedial measures applied.

Then come lessons which father and mother probably never had. Modern textbooks are so well illustrated, the examples are so pointed and clear, that the value of a course in hygiene is incalculable.

But physical vigor is not the only point at issue. In every group of 30 or 40 youngsters one or two will be highly sensitive, overwrought nervously—perhaps borderline as far as mental stability is concerned. Thus the leader in the classroom must be more than a teacher in a given subject. If she is alert to her full possibilities she may uncover signs of emotional disturbances. Then it is that a little more consideration—with a modicum of sympathy and encouragement—may change a shrinking introspective lad into a normal student. Educators, as a whole, require far more training in this particular field if they are to use their opportunities to the full.

Equally important is a program of healthful play—the inculcation of the rules of give and take, of cleanliness, and the rôle of rest. After all, youngsters are great imitators. It is far more essential from their point of view that Miss A shall be neat in dress, with a pleasing personality, than that she is able to name all the bones of the human body. If she can explain the necessity of fresh air, sunshine, exercise, and good food, it will mean more in the lives of those who come under her tutelage than all the memorizing in so-called physiology that may be demanded by the curriculum.

Of course, every growing family should have a medical counselor who is a friend, a confidant; one who possesses some wisdom in addition to technical lore. We have no right to expect that the grades or the high school can perform miracles, and the busy mentor has her hands more than occupied with her quota of boys and girls. The amount of individual attention which she can give to each is relatively small, but if she is a good observer she will spot easily the one who is failing to get the most out of his work because he is handicapped by illness.

When suggestions come from the school nurse let us receive them in the spirit in which they are made. Then it is that the personal physician can decide what is best to do. We must recall that reports are made for the benefit of our progeny even tho the information seems to be erroneous. More often than not the suggestions will be timely.

LAZY, OR WHAT?

Mrs. M. F. writes: For the last year I haven't enjoyed doing my housework or exertion of any kind. If I sit down I don't want to get up. I am 41 years old and gained 17 pounds in a year. Am I just lazy, or is there something wrong with me?

REPLY.

Probably nothing wrong other than overweight. Your muscles rebel against toting so great a load. If excessive fatigue persists after you have reduced, you should consult your physician. Your thyroid may be lazy.

NOT INDICATED.

C. K. writes: If a child has enlarged tonsils and adenoids, should they be removed? There is no sign of infection.

REPLY.

There is no reason to juggle with normal tonsils. Only when they become infected — and hence oversized — should surgery be resorted to. If the adenoid tissue is healthy and does not obstruct breathing the rule is to let it alone.

DRY COUGH.

Mrs. R. writes: My husband has a dry cough, which he insists is from smoking. Is there any danger of tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Why not have a thorough examination, including an X-ray film of the chest? You will then be sure.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 30 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

1. Robert Gordon Menzies is prime minister of what British dominion? [a] Australia, [b] Canada, [c] Union of South Africa.
2. How is red squill chiefly used? [a] As a fertilizer, [b] as a rat poison, [c] to make red ink.
3. Speleology is the scientific study of which of the following? [a] Languages, [b] snakes, [c] caves.
4. Where is the Dogger Bank? [a] Off New Jersey, [b] in the North sea, [c] in the West Indies.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 2, 1870

The entire French army and Emperor Napoleon III., defeated in the battle of Sedan the previous day, passed into German captivity. Paris was left unprotected, but the people refused to accept defeat. The emperor was blamed for the capitulation and France was once more declared a republic. Every remaining source of man power was mobilized for a finish fight. The following January the Germans began bombarding Paris, and within a month the capital was starved into surrender.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

WHAT WAS THE SCORE?

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Wow—Wasn't that second quarter of the All-Star game exciting [for the radio listeners]. First Roosevelt throws Hitler for a loss—then Wallace throws Hitler for a loss—then Roosevelt and Wallace break up a long pass, Hitler to Mussolini. I vote that the radio fans give Corn-Wallace a special award for his outstanding [?] performance during the game. RADIO FAN.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Your W-G-N broadcast of the All-Star game was interrupted by a political speech. Your listeners are more interested in the football game than in any political speech regardless of party. You advertise that your station only transmits this game. Probably hundreds of thousands of people listening. H. B. E.

Chicago, Aug. 29. — Again we good American sport fans are forced to listen to a lot of political bunk while a national sporting event was forced off the air.

I wonder if the New Dealers realize that thousands who voted for the All-Star team will vote against the Democrats because of this injustice. A. L. J.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Please tell me why you cut off the widely publicized football game for a pipsqueak political speech. I have been advertising in your paper for years and years. E. A. SMITH.

MORE ABOUT LIGHT BILLS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The letter from "Resident of Chicago" appearing in your column requires an answer.

I also have been paying electric light bills for many years for two people in a 4 room apartment, use all the light necessary, have an iron, 2 radios in frequent use, and I must say I feel just a little ashamed when I pay my bills, because they are so small! I am not an employé or in any way connected with the Edison company.

MRS. MARGARET M. WALTER.

AN EXPENSIVE "DEAL."

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Every New Deal speaker I have heard, including "Hizzoner," has made the point that Willkie indorses the accomplishments of the New Deal.

I would like to ask these speakers to specify what Mr. Willkie indorsed. [I have them before me now.] Then I would like to ask them how come these few simple reforms, that we Bull Moosers believed in 30 years ago, cost the New Deal 60 billion dollars to put over. A. J. A.

FOUR MILES IN THE MUD.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 29.—Where is the Humane society in Illinois to permit such a horse race as was run yesterday, four miles in the mud? Flatlance fell thru exhaustion after three miles of that grind and the last horse couldn't even trot in home.

I love all animals and it burns me up to see such inhuman treatment given those gallant horses.

MRS. EVELYN JACOMB.

A PULL WITH LICENSE CLERK?

Chicago, Aug. 30.—I'd like to know how some friends of mine succeeded, thru a pull at the license clerk's office [county clerk], in having their marriage licenses suppressed. So why can't we all do the same when we have a real good excuse for not wanting publicity? Why favor a few if it is supposed to be a law for all? Some laws we have in Chicago.

A CURIOUS READER.

JOB HOLDERS EXEMPT AGAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—The way the conscription bill now reads, the New Deal can draft or seize men, industry, newspapers, and radio, but all pay rollers, federal, state, and local, are exempt. In other words, the New Deal is preparing for war to be waged by everything and everybody except the New Deal.

J. G. R.

GETTING ON RELIEF.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—In your paper paragraphs have appeared contrasting the Chicago relief situation with relief in other districts.

As conducted by an army of interviewers and case workers—the major part of whom are brought into Chicago from elsewhere—an applicant is given a blank application form to be filled in and sworn to.

Having complied with the instructions, the applicant is handed another form to be filled in, with names of employers to whom he or she has applied for work in the last month. Then the applicant is ordered to bring in proof of what was done with the last money earned, etc. This procedure is continued for 8 or 10 times—sometimes 20. If the paper is stamped "Application Refused," the applicant is told to apply again. This planned procedure increases the waiting day after day.

In the state employment offices the same conditions prevail. A TAXPAYER.

FOUND HER LITTLE BOY.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—May I express my gratitude for the prompt and courteous service of the Shakespeare Avenue police?

When, after a frantic search of the vicinity, we failed to find our little boy who wandered away, I telephoned to the Shakespeare Avenue station for help.

I was told that they had just picked up a little boy at a dangerous street crossing. Within 12 minutes they brought my 2½ year old son safely to me.

And may I also thank the car men of the Chicago Surface lines for their kind assistance when I am boarding or leaving street cars with my two small children.

MRS. G. MYERS.

LABOR DAY IN THE SPRING?

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Summer lasts until Sept. 21 even on the calendar.

But because of Labor day resorts shut up for the year and the summer seems over.

Why not Labor day in the spring? Say in April?

We need a holiday in the spring. Except for bankers, there is no holiday between New Year's day and Memorial day. H. B. Y.

AN OVERWORKED CHAUFFEUR.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—I have worked as a private chauffeur for seven years and had to resign my last position because of poor health, this being because of the long hours and abuse we private chauffeurs receive.

Why don't Chicago's humanitarians do something about the hours we have to work; after all, we're human, are we not?

A CHAUFFEUR.

A CROQUET SET WANTED.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—We, the patients of Cottage 16 East, Municipal Tuberculosis sanatarium, enjoy playing the game of croquet, one of the few forms of exercise we are allowed. At present, however, we have no set with which to play.

We are without funds to buy a set and the thought has come up that perhaps one of your readers may have a set no longer in use.

LESSON FROM NATHAN HALE.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—We, of St. Paul's Lutheran school, greatly appreciate the fine picture of the Nathan Hale statue that you presented to us thru the Rev. Louis Schwartzkopf. The picture will help to instill loyalty to our dear U. S. A. in the hearts of our young citizens.

WALTER F. HANN,

"DECREE" GOVERNMENT NOW?

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 25.—There is plenty of concern for the trend of the times. I am concerned for the swing in my own thinking. Our processes on defense seem too slow. We may need to swing to a decree government, to give up deliberation for speed to match efficiency with efficiency. And all in the name of protecting liberty. I see little point in arguing politics in this connection. The effect of disaster to Britain will far transcend a political campaign in its immediate results here. Can American enterprise under free institutions match the dictators in striking power or do we need the decree now?

THE TRIBUNE has always made the effort, it seems, to engage in this thing called government to the end that America might be guided correctly and preserved. Your responsibility is particularly great at this time. You have got to think hard and straight and fast. What do you say when it is pointed out that in the length of time debate has been raging on conscription a great nation, France, was brought to her knees?

S. W. CLARK.

HE CAN'T UNDERSTAND.

Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 29.—It is difficult for me to understand any reason for the position THE TRIBUNE takes relative to our government and to the preparedness of our country during present world conditions.

Your paper gives strength to all the elements that would destroy our country and its form of government. It is unbelievable that you do not know what is going on in the world or in this country.

It is about time that the World's Greatest [?] did an about face and became the World's Greatest Newspaper.

L. B. M'C.

TROJAN HORSE ADMITTED.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—It was, I think, a grave mistake to permit the New Dealers to enter THE TRIBUNE in your double column; a good deal like the Trojan horse of Homer.

I particularly object to the anonymity of the Democratic column and would if possible insist on its author being named, as in the Republican side.

I should, if possible, get this feature out of my paper, as it is uninformative, at least. L. F. GULDNER, M. D.

EVIDENCE OF DEBT.

Elmwood Park, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise as to what standard legal form can be used to record personal loans which will be honored in court before or after the death of the debtor.

2. Also payable after outstanding real estate first mortgages and before other claims. If this is not possible please advise as to [3] what means are available to achieve the above objectives.

If the printed form is not obtainable can you give me instructions on the drafting of one? J. M.

1. In general, any promissory note or other evidence of debt would be a claim against the estate after death of debtor.

2. To make it payable ahead of other claims it would be necessary for you to take mortgage security or reduce the debt to judgment.

HERE'S THE TEXT OF ROOSEVELT'S 1ST GUARD ORDER

Released by President on Way to Tennessee.

Aboard Roosevelt Train En Route to Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order calling the first units of National Guardsmen into service. The text of the order follows:

"By virtue of the authority conferred upon me by public resolution No. 96, 76th congress, approved Aug. 27, 1940, and the national defense act of June 3, 1916, as amended [39 stat. 166], and as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, I hereby order into the active military service of the United States, effective Sept. 16, 1940, the following units and members of the National Guard of the United States to serve in the active military service of the United States for a period of 12 consecutive months, unless sooner relieved:

"Units: All active elements of: [Here were listed the units affected by the call. The list gave no data as to home stations of the units or where they will train. That information will be found in the story below.]

"Members: All members, both active and inactive, of the units listed above.

Officers Ordered to Duty.

"All persons so ordered into the active military service of the United States are, from the effective date of this order, relieved from duty in the National Guard of their respective states so long as they shall remain in the active military service of the United States, and during such time shall be subject to such laws and regulations for the government of the army of the United States as may be applicable to members of the army whose permanent retention in the active military service is not contemplated by law.

"Commissioned officers and warrant officers appointed in the National Guard of the United States and commissioned or holding warrants in the army of the United States, and affected by this order, are hereby ordered to active duty under such appointments and commissions or warrants.

Appointments Are Tendered.

"All officers and warrant officers of the National Guard appointed in the National Guard, federally recognized or examined and found qualified for federal recognition, and assigned to units ordered to active duty under this order prior to the effective date hereof, who do not hold appointments in the National Guard of the United States and commissions or warrants in the army of the United States, are hereby tendered such appointments in the same grade and arm or service which they respectively hold in the National Guard.

"Warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard who hold appointments as officers in the National Guard of the United States and commissions in the army of the United States, and are assigned to units ordered to active duty under this order prior to the effective date hereof, are hereby ordered to active military service as commissioned officers of the army of the United States under those appointments and commissions.

[Signed] Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Aug. 31, 1940."

FACTS ABOUT GUARD UNITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Twenty-four units, in addition to the 202d coast artillery regiment, antiaircraft, of Illinois and the 203d coast artillery, antiaircraft, of Missouri, were named today by President Roosevelt to begin a year's active service on Sept. 16. The 202d will go to Camp Logan, near Zion, Ill., and then to California. The 203d will be sent to Fort Barrancas, near Pensacola, Fla., for training.

The other 24 units named in this first guard call, and the posts to which they are assigned, follow:

44th division, less tank company [New York and New Jersey], to Camp Dix, N. J.

30th division, less tank company [North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia], to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

45th Goes to Fort Sill.

45th division, less tank company [Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado], to Fort Sill, Okla.

41st division, less tank company [Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming], to Camp Lewis, Wash.

[The tank companies will no longer be connected with the infantry divisions but are to be formed into four tank battalions of four companies each.]

197th coast artillery regiment, antiaircraft [New Hampshire], to Cape Cod cantonment, Massachusetts.

198th coast artillery, antiaircraft [Delaware], to Camp Upton, N. Y., later to Savannah, Ga.

211th coast artillery, antiaircraft, [Massachusetts] to Cape Cod cantonment, Mass.

213th coast artillery, antiaircraft, [Pennsylvania] to Virginia Beach, Va., later to Savannah, Ga.

Four Air Squadrons Called.

244th coast artillery, 155 mm. gun, [New York] to Virginia Beach, Va.

250th coast artillery, 155 mm. gun, [California] to Camp McQuade.

252d coast artillery, 155 mm. gun, [North Carolina] to Charleston, S. C.

240th coast artillery, harbor defense, [Maine] to Portland, Me.

241st coast artillery, harbor defense, [Massachusetts] to Boston.

242d coast artillery, harbor defense, [Connecticut] to Long Island, N. Y.

243d coast artillery, harbor defense, [Connecticut] to Narragansett, R. I.

245th coast artillery, harbor defense, [New York] to Sandy Hook, N. J.

246th coast artillery, harbor defense, [Virginia] to Chesapeake bay.

248th coast artillery, harbor defense, [Washington] to Puget Sound, Wash.

249th coast artillery, harbor defense, [Oregon] to Columbia City, Ore.

105th observation squadron, [Tennessee] to Columbia, S. C.

119th observation squadron, [New Jersey] to Camp Dix, N. J.

154th observation squadron, [Arkansas] to Fort Sill, Okla.

116th observation squadron, [Washington] to Camp Lewis, Wash.

Law of 1917 May Ban Payment of Private Wage to Conscripts

New York, Sept. 1 [Special]—A federal statute has been uncovered here that may upset the plans of many large corporations to continue paying full wages to any employé called into military service under the selective service draft, it was learned today.

This law prohibits the payment of wages or the making of financial contributions by a private agency to any person employed by the government. Enacted in 1917, it was intended to prevent "dollar a year men" from getting salaries from companies supplying the government.

Failure to comply with the statute constitutes a misdemeanor. It is punishable by a fine of not less than $1000 or imprisonment of not less than six months or both.

Reluctant to Continue.

As a result many corporation officials are reluctant to continue with their programs of making up the difference between the army pay and the normal salaries of their employés who are drafted for military service. They also are under the impression that the 1917 law prohibits any pension privileges or group benefits that might be carried on in the employé's behalf during his tour of duty.

The Standard Oil company [New Jersey] will hold its original plan to pay the difference between army salaries and the conscript's regular corporation wage during the first three months of service, it was announced.

Admitting a possible "violation" of the world war legislation, known officially as title 5, section 66, officials of Standard Oil explained that in their notices to all employés apprising them of the company plan the corporation had specifically stipulated that the whole program was subject to the requirements of law.

Payment to Reserves Suspended.

On the other hand, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company has suspended payments of wages of employés called up in the organized reserves. Company spokesmen said it would be forced to cancel the plans to pay conscripts called for training unless the war department makes known that no prosecution will result.

While many of the concerns were holding in abeyance their payment plans for conscripts, no changes were being planned in the benefits for National Guard members. An amendment to the 1917 statute specifically exempts all members of the National Guard from its promises.

MEN OF GUARD'S 202D REGIMENT READY FOR CALL

Anti-Aircraftsmen Slated to Mobilize Sept. 16.

(Picture on page 8.)

News of the mobilization call for Sept. 16 of the 202d coast artillery [antiaircraft]—the only unit of the Illinois National Guard called for a year's service by President Roosevelt—came as no surprise last night to members of the regiment.

Col. Charles C. Dawes.

The regiment will mobilize at Camp Logan, near Zion, Ill., preparatory to moving to March field, near Riverside, Cal., where it is assigned.

Lieut. Col. Edward A. McTamamey, the 202d's executive officer, said the regiment is ready. He said the men had known unofficially for several weeks that they would be among the first guardsmen mobilized. As a result the majority have been making arrangements at home and at work to go into service.

Quota to Be Raised.

The 202d regiment is under the command of Col. Charles C. Dawes and consists at present of 1,187 men and 49 officers. Under the mobilization call the quota will be increased to 1,450 men and 60 officers. Col. McTamamey said plans have been made for an active recruiting campaign to fill the quota and to replace those who resign because of dependents.

Col. McTamamey said that in an unofficial canvass of the regiment, all the officers, with the exception of a young medical officer who is married and completing his schooling, had announced their intention of serving.

Col. McTamamey said official notification of the call of the 202d is expected to be received by tomorrow night, when the regiment holds drill in the armory at 5917 Broadway. At that time the men will be asked to announce their intentions of serving.

Equipment in Good Shape.

Lieut. Frank X. Meyers, intelligence officer of the regiment, said the equipment is in good shape. He said the unit has its full complement of 12 3-inch antiaircraft guns and the full quota of 36 50-caliber machine guns. Twenty-four 37 millimeter guns are on order, he said.

The 202d has six giant 60 inch searchlights, with the delivery of nine more expected in several weeks. There is enough clothing and other equipment on hand for present needs, he said.

The 202d, one of the oldest antiaircraft units, was organized in 1920.

Under the mobilization act Guardsmen who have dependents or hold essential jobs in industry may be excluded from enforced service and have the right to resign. Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois National Guard, said the policy here has been liberal in not forcing men to serve who did not want to stay in the Guard.

Finds Most Want to Stay.

Gen. Lawton said Illinois Guardsmen have been hesitant in making up their minds on whether to continue in the service or ask to be dropped. Most of the men, he said, want to stay if they can do so without neglecting their families. He estimated that only 12 to 15 per cent of the 13,500 Illinois Guardsmen would seek to resign and that their places would be filled easily with waiting recruits.

Gen. Lawton said he was preparing an order to be issued this week directing regiment commanders to inform their men of the provisions of exemption under the mobilization act and to ask them to state their intentions of serving or resigning. Under the act the men have 20 days after mobilization to make up their minds.

"Our difficulty has been in shoving the men out," he said. "They don't want to go. Most of them have served a long time with the Guard, and they want to stay if they can manage it."

MARRIED HALF CENTURY.

Harvard, Ill., Sept. 1 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. John Deaner, long time residents here, will celebrate their golden anniversary tomorrow by holding open house at their home afternoon and evening.

BRITAIN CLAIMS 3 MILLION MEN ARE UNDER ARMS

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The war office news department in a review of the first year of the war said today there are 3,000,000 men under arms in the United Kingdom, including 1,500,000 home guards.

"It must not be forgotten in considering these figures that within the last year Britain has sent a great army to the middle east," it added.

MILLION HOLIDAY MOTORISTS FILL MIDWEST ROADS

Starved Rock Park Lures Nature Lovers from City.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Starved Rock State Park, Ill., Sept. 1.—The Tribune road car is among those of the million holiday motorists on the highways of Chicagoland this week-end. Sunshine with a cool breeze has brought a multitude onto the country roads. This Labor day week-end is following a precedent of being the peak, as well as the close, of the summer travel season.

This year it's the peak of a record motor travel season, as indicated by gasoline tax collections and by gate tallies at state and national parks where tolls are charged. Expenditures for American touring during the 12 months ending today are estimated at 6 billion dollars, approximately 225 millions more than during the previous 12 months.

Roads Hum with Traffic.

The Tribune road car was in the throng that poured from Chicago's automobile exits yesterday afternoon. The highways leading toward the Wisconsin woods and toward northern Illinois lakes hummed with outgoing traffic. Indiana troopers reported similar activity on the routes to Michigan and northern Indiana resorts.

We spent the night at this most popular of Illinois' state parks, paying $7 for a cabin and three meals for two persons. These bargain accommodations, in a tax exempt lodge built with federal money, are of limited capacity, but we got our room with a private bath without any advance reservation.

Shortly after daylight a hundred or more motorists were sleeping in their cars or in blankets on grass under large elms on the banks of the Illinois river here. By 10 o'clock this morning a steady stream of automobiles poured into this 1,465 acre public playground.

100,000 Visitors Expected.

Ralph Baker, custodian, calculated that with good weather tomorrow the three day attendance would approach 100,000, about 80 per cent of them from Chicago and its suburbs. It is 99 miles from here to the loop, and Starved Rock is no longer a natural preserve over much of its area. On holidays it is used almost as intensely as is a Chicago park. Picnickers are scattered along much of the river front within hearing distance of each other's conversation.

Almost as crowded as a downtown sidewalk is the trail to the promontory where, legend relates, a band of Indians starved to death rather than surrender during a siege. La Salle built a fort there in the 17th century.

Other acres, the majority of them in this rugged, wooded country, still are a delight to those who like to get out of the city for a holiday. The 37 miles of foot trails lead into cool canyons. Only a minority of the crowd wanders far from the parking lots.

Migratory Birds Pay Visit.

This minority today heard the songs of the first of the southbound migratory birds. Dr. Donald Ries, state naturalist, pointed to the white throated sparrows that have just arrived from the Hudson bay region en route to Central America. He also called attention to white crowned sparrows, ruby crowned and golden crowned kinglets, and to several varieties of warblers.

The carpet of the woods reflects the advance of the season—golden rod, asters, yellow and pink false fox gloves, blazing stars, and wild sunflowers are abloom.

It isn't typical of this recreational army of a million motorists to become intimate with the countryside. Most of them are traveling long distances, seeing as many meadows, woods, lakes, and rivers as they can crowd into their holidays. All, however, are alike in that they are participating in America's most popular sport, riding in the roads.

Tomorrow afternoon the week-enders, one day excursionists, Labor day picnickers, and vacationists will share the roads homeward. There will be such congestion that drivers will be required to exercise more than ordinary care.

Barkeep in Bund Meeting Place Freed on $100 Bond

Ewer Thoroe, bartender of the Haus Vaterland club at 3857 N. Western avenue, a meeting place for the German-American bund, was released yesterday in bond of $100 and will appear in Town Hall court tomorrow to face a charge of keeping open after hours. Thoroe was arrested by Policeman Frank Goudie and Abner Bender of the Warren avenue station. No patrons were detained. The tavern was bombed July 18 after threats had been received from foes of the bund.

SECRETARY KNOX TO FLY IN NAVAL PLANE TO HAWAII

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox disclosed tonight that he will fly to Hawaii and back, a distance of approximately 10,000 miles, to join the fleet in maneuvers at sea and inspect west coast and Hawaiian bases. He will start Tuesday from Manchester, N. H., his summer home. His schedule calls for travel in naval planes all the way. The flight from the west coast to Hawaii and return will be made in the flagship of Rear Admiral A. B. Cooke, commander of the aircraft scouting force. Admiral Cooke will accompany Knox.

Kiepura Stirs Audience with Dramatic Songs

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Polish tenor, Ladis Kiepura, who was rained out when he made his first Grant park appearance on Aug. 10, returned bravely to the lake front last night for another engagement. He sang with the Walter H. Steindel orchestra under weather conditions which, tho far from ideal, represented a considerable improvement over those of Aug. 10.

It was interesting to see two such radically differing men as Mr. Kiepura and Mr. Steindel trying to work together. The former lets his voice fairly throb with emotion. He often sacrifices phrase contours, dynamic patterns, color schemes, arrangements, and sometimes even accuracy of pitch to his insistent desire for drama. Mr. Steindel, on the contrary, never steps outside of music.

Curious to relate, their coöperative efforts went rather well, on the whole, altho it looked for a moment in the "Flower Song" from "Carmen" as if the curtain might have to be rung down.

Mr. Kiepura was at his best in a rollicking Polish song to which he brought all of his gifts for humor and apt gesture. And he was successful in such things as the "Vesti la giubba" from "Pagliacci"—where a very explicit delivery and an intense manner do no particular harm. However, his performance of the "M'Appari" from "Martha" and "La donna è mobile" from "Rigoletto" lacked line and finish.

Mr. Kiepura was received cordially by the audience. Had time permitted, he would have been justified in adding several encores after the "Rigoletto" air.

Col. Armin F. Hand and his American Legion band, with Henry Thompson, tenor, as soloist, will give the Grant park concert at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The program:

March, "Jack Tar".....Sousa
Waltz, "Gold and Silver".....Lehar
Overture to "Zampa".....Herold
Selections from "Apple Blossoms"—Kreisler
Vocal solo, "The Trumpeter".....Dix
Henry Thompson.
Finale from Symphony No. 4, F minor, Opus 36.....Tschaikowsky
March, "El Capitan".....Sousa
Polonaise Militaire.....Chopin
Prelude, G minor.....Rachmaninoff
Grand Fantasy, "Andrea Chénier".....Giordano
The Lost Chord.....Sullivan
Henry Thompson.
Medley of Rudolph Friml Melodies.....Grofe
Potpourri, "When You're Away".....Herbert

Grace Moore, soprano, and George Czaplicki, baritone, with the Chicago Opera orchestra, will give the concert at 8 o'clock this evening. Maurice Abravanel will be the conductor. The program:

Overture to "Le Roi d'Ys".....Lalo
[a] Vision fugitive, from "Hérodiade".....Massanet
[b] Cortigiani, vil razza dannata, from "Rigoletto".....Verdi
George Czaplicki.
Tone Poem, "Don Juan".....Strauss
[a] Depuis le jour, from "Louise".....Charpentier
[b] Jewel Song, from "Faust"...Gounod
Grace Moore.
Rhapsody, "España".....Chabrier
[a] Aria from "The Haunted Castle".....Montuszko
[a] Serenade, from "The Jewels of the Madonna".....Wolf-Ferrari
George Czaplicki.
[a] Mi chiamano Mimi, from "La Bohème".....Puccini
[b] Addio, from "La Bohème"....Puccini
Grace Moore.
Duet from "Pagliacci".....Leoncavallo
Grace Moore and George Czaplicki.

Both concerts will be given at the band shell opposite 11th street. All seats will be free.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 1.—Sunday: To breakfast at Edgar Bergen's, and Clarence Stroud and his pretty wife there. Sunday breakfast in the Connecticut commuting zone means whisky sours and a big meal an hour after noon, but at Charley Mc Carthy's old man's it means fruit, cereal, eggs, and bacon at 9:30 a. m. The Bergen home is on a hilltop above Beverly Hills.

Laraine Day—"the guys start coming around." [See Thursday.]

I remember the tongs in New York's Chinatown—once was privileged to attend the annual banquet of the Hip Sings—and they always have the top floor of a tenement because nothing can be higher than a tong. Same way with movie folk. They hate to have anybody above them.

Besides, the view is better. On a clear day you can see Catalina Island. Have now been in Hollywood 67 days and the only time Catalina was visible was when I went there.

Next place to Bergen's is the one John Barrymore had when he was married to Dolores Costello, which is now held in trust or something for the children. Its two landmarks are an Alaskan totem pole whose paint has weathered off and a tall tree with only a couple of branches. Bergen says legend is that Barrymore used to shoot branches off that tree with an elephant gun.

To the Bob Sisks for Sunday supper, and Bob turns up some luscious steaks on a new charcoal grill. Grills out here are called barbecues, which technically they aren't.

Monday: Lunch with Jim Denton, who tells of the seven simultaneous premières of "Brigham Young" in Salt Lake City, and apparently some of the luck of the Mormons, as depicted in the film, held for the movie opening. It hadn't rained for weeks in Salt Lake, had been unbearably hot. Day of the premières dawned slightly cloudy and cool, stayed that way. The moment the showings were over and all of the personally appearing actors bundled off to their hotel, it began to rain plenty.

To the airport to meet the Reuben Maurys, who winged in from San Francisco, and to begin a quick visiting fireman routine. Chasen's for dinner, where Spencer Tracy ought to be on the menu, he's there so much; then to the Mexican quarter on Olvera street, way down town, to buy a nickel's worth of pinon nuts.

Tuesday: To Metro for a gander at what's shooting, and spend most of the time gabbing with Groucho Marx. The Marx Brothers' set is a western honkytonk, bar on one side, lamp lighted stage on the other, sugared water on the tables in whisky glasses. I know it was sugared water because, thinking somebody had abandoned a good drink, I took some when nobody was looking. Phooey! They can have their movie acting. Groucho, in western garb, twirls a pair of wooden six-guns as he chats—says he thinks the reason there are so few comedians on the screen is that a comedian has to have audience tested stage material, and most of the comics have been in films so long they've run out of stuff. . . . Hedy La Marr noted at the commissary at lunch. She and Gable have begun another picture.

In the afternoon to the "Foreign Correspondent" preview, and plenty good. . . . Dinner at Lawry's with a large group, including Bob Taplinger and Ruth Foran, and then to Wrigley Field to watch Frank Capra make night shots in a rain storm for "Meet John Doe." Gary Cooper comes over for a chat between takes, talks Montana stuff with Tommy Maury. He knew Myrna Loy when they both were school kids but paid no attention to her, because she was younger. "Small fry," Cooper says.

Wednesday: To the Disney studio for another prowl around, and our small daughter is enchanted at meeting and seeing some new Mickey Mice. Walt Disney has been so busy whipping "Fantasia" into shape he's forgotten to get his hair cut. Staff says he may not get it cut for another month. Struck again, as I always will be, by the happy atmosphere of the place. Everybody calls everybody else by first name, and first names are all you see on most office doors.

In the theater they are blending five sound tracks for "Fantasia," and the control board is five positions wide, with many gadgets. In the key position a tiny beam of light can be made to shine on a musical score—and other beams automatically travel over the scores at the other positions. Menus at the studio restaurant are amusing. The big lunch card has a cover of Mickey whanging a dinner triangle, offers Stromboli's favorite sandwich [hot roast beef], ducky fruit plate, the little pigs' salad bowl. The cover of the breakfast menu says "Good Morning," has a clock showing 8:35, and pictures Donald Duck blearyeyed over a cup of coffee and muttering, "What's good about it?"

Thursday: Time out at noon to have lunch with Laraine Day. It starts out like a good meeting, with Miss Day cheerfully answering all her interviewer's queries, but then the guys start coming around. Walter Pidgeon decides he'll have lunch with us, too, and asks if he's intruding. I lie. Clark Gable comes over—to see Miss Day, of course. Her director, Harold Bucquet, sits down and holds her hand in a fatherly way and says what a good kid she is. Miss Day, heroine of "Foreign Correspondent," tells of making the picture. . . . And so back home to write another piece, and in the evening to "The Great McGinty," which we'd missed at the preview. All the good things that were said about it are true, and Preston Sturges has wit both as writer and director. Funniest scene is where Ex-Bum Brian Donlevy turns up in a checkered nightmare and says, "new suit."

Friday: A game of golf with James Kevin McGuinness, Duke Wellington and R. Carroll. McGuinness is writing the sequel to "Boys' Town." "What's it called?" I ask. "I dunno. Probably 'Boys' Town Strikes Back,'" says McGuinness. . . . To a cocktail reception for Signe Hasso, RKO's newly imported Swedish star, who is a fetching redhead. She says she isn't lonesome because Anna Q. Nilsson, one of her closest friends, is here.

Saturday: Somehow it's just Saturday, with everybody else gone away for the Labor day week-end. Funny how people always want to get away from wherever they are.

Good Morning!

I didn't think it could happen, but it has! I saw too much of Spencer Tracy. AND——

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert and, to be exact, ALL of the very good players composing the cast of "Boom Town," which is just a too doggone long and complicated movie.

True, this yarn about oil prospectors in the day when Burkbennett was a rarin' tearin' oil camp has what it takes. Trouble is it has too much of what it takes. One thing—two things, rather—you'll see a fight that has the one in "The Spoilers" licked and an oil field fire that looks for awhile as if it could successfully defy a couple of oceans.

"Square" John Sand and "Big" John McMasters—a dance hall lady dubs them thus—meet fighting, acquire a wholesome respect and honest liking for each other and go into partnership, with "Big" John as the staker of sorts and "Square" John as stakee. Tho fate wills it that McMasters shall wed Sand's girl, she also decrees that the friendship shall be big enough to weather this onslaught, and such a mess of ups and downs as pals are seldom called upon to go thru together. What finally makes Sand's loyalty sag is McMasters' light-hearted and bibulous attentions to a dance hall siren. . . . Sand gets out.

Later and in more prosperous days comes reunion. . . . Later, much, much later, Hedy Lamarr strolls into the life of susceptible "Big" John and causes him to bring tears to the eyes of the little woman who has stood by him thru thick and thin. . . . But if you think "Square" John isn't equal to THIS situation—shucks, you're wrong.

The multitudinous adventures of the boys are depicted in colorful fashion against lusty western backgrounds. Tracy and Gable are pretty evenly matched as to charm and brawn. . . . Claudette Colbert as the beloved woman has, heaven knows why! gone in painfully for overacting. She knows better. . . . Frank Morgan performs in characteristic fashion. Miss Lamarr succeeds again in—just making you think of what a beautiful model she made for Joan Bennett. Other rôles are brightly handled.

Dialog—oases of cleverness in a desert of banality.

See you tomorrow.

Make Week-End Jaunts by Air

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Edna Headley and her fiance, Wrigley Offield, make the most of brief week-end holidays by flying to and from their destinations. Miss Headley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Headley of Cincinnati, O., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield are in Harbor Point, Mich., this week-end with his parents. They took off from Sky Harbor on Saturday morning in Mr. Offield's plane, the Red Rover.

Respect Child; Love and Faith Will Be Reward

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Give and take.

Between adults whose relationship is close, or between friends, give and take should be about 50-50.

Let's use, as an example, the matter of two persons understanding each other. To be on a warm and workable footing, each should make an attempt to understand the other. And it can be done.

But between parents and children we have something different. From the beginning it's natural for mother to give and the baby to take or to receive. Thru the years this does change, to be sure. Our children learn more and more to give. But even so, parents expect to go on giving.

Part of this need of our giving is due to the physical dependence of our children, and their inexperience. But psychologically, we can scarcely expect a young child to understand us, so we must try to understand him.

There's a great gap between mother and daughter, father and son, so we need to do everything in our power to understand our sons and daughters to make them realize that we mean well, that we aren't trying to be tyrants.

One big reason why we need to understand them is because they can't possibly understand us. They've never been adults, so they have nothing to go on, but we have all been children, even tho we recall so little of our feelings and experiences. And so we must be the ones who make the efforts to understand.

They cannot understand why we act as we do, talk as we do, require of them the things we require. It is impossible for a child to understand us. So we must try to understand them. This we can only partly do. But that partial understanding will make us:

Respect them as persons.
Respect their play.
Respect their possessions.
Respect their reserve.
Respect their right to make mistakes, to adventure, to investigate, instead of directing and guarding their every move.

Respect their right gradually to achieve their independence.

Respect their taste, if it's different from ours; and Respect their talent, if it leads them to a business or profession other than the one we've planned for them.

These are only a few of the things that we'll do if we try to understand our children. Our reward will be their love and faith; and as they near maturity, their understanding of us.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Goldstein of 5049 Drexel boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Carol, to Leroy Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fisher of 210 Hazel avenue, Glencoe. Miss Goldstein and her fiancé both attended Northwestern university. Mr. Fisher also attended the University of New Mexico. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Miss Brothers Is Betrothed to E. H. Kellogg

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a tea at their summer home in Northport Point, Mich., yesterday afternoon Judge and Mrs. William V. Brothers of Evanston announced the engagement of their daughter, Katharine, to Edward H. Kellogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Kellogg of Peoria, formerly of Evanston.

The announcement did not come as a surprise to the summertime neighbors of the Brothers' family, for Miss Brothers and her fiancé have spent the last 20 summers in Northport Point. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg also have a country home there. The Charles W. Rundalls of Evanston went to Northport Point for the party and to spend the week-end with Judge and Mrs. Brothers. Also present were Howard Kellogg Jr., of New York, and Charles Kellogg of St. Louis.

Miss Brothers, who is publicity chairman of the Evanston Junior league, is active also in the Chicago Vassar club and the Evanston Infant Welfare Service league. She was educated at the Roycemore school and Vassar.

Mr. Kellogg is a graduate of Andover academy and of Northwestern university. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

William Hanway Engaged to Wed Boston Girl.

At a dinner at their summer home in Oyster Harbors, Mass., last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. A. Oram Fulton of Boston announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to William Hanway of Chicago, son of Mrs. William C. Hanway and the late Mr. Hanway of Detroit. Mr. Hanway went to Oyster Harbors for the party. He and Miss Fulton plan to be married in the early winter and make their home in Evanston.

Miss Fulton is a graduate of the Brimmer school in Boston and of Sarah Lawrence college. Mr. Hanway is a graduate of the Tome school and of the University of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. McCourtie gave a cocktail party at home in Evanston on Saturday to announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Estelle, to Arnold H. Reetz of Evansville, Ind. The wedding will take place on Nov. 2.

Miss McCourtie attended Northwestern university. Mr. Reetz was Murder Is Not Mute

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Doyle of New York is vacationing in a small town when, while walking in the woods of the estate of Adolph Wunsch, wealthy ex-brewer, he stumbles upon a skeleton. Reporting to Truman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, he rejects Briault's bribe to keep quiet and goes to the police. He is asked to help solve the mystery after the coroner pronounces the skeleton that of a girl between 18 and 25 who was murdered about a year ago. Suspicion as to the murderer and victim narrows to Wunsch's household, which consists of his pretty young second wife, Paula, her brother and mother, his aged father and his 18 year old daughter, Texie, young Miss Doty, a trained nurse in charge of the elder Wunsch, Helen Voss, Texie's companion, Follins the chauffeur, and the housekeeper and her staff of servants. It is a strained and unhappy home, Wunsch dominating all. Three members of the household have been absent for a little over a year, Helen, who went to New York to take a business course, at the same time Wunsch sent his headstrong daughter to Europe, chaperoned by Paula's mother, when he learned that Texie and Truman were having an affair. Each member of the household gives Doyle reason to suspect them except the housekeeper and her staff which definitely are not involved. Doyle finds a watch clasp near where he discovered the skeleton and when he finds that it is identical with the clasp on the watch Paula wears, he questions her about it, she goes into a nervous collapse. When she awakes early in the morning she telephones Doyle and just as she gets him a dark figure appears on her balcony and shoots at her. At 3 a. m. Doyle begins an intensive investigation. Grandfather Wunsch is upset and mutters something about his cane. No one seems to have an alibi except Miss Doty, who wears a white uniform. Learning that Wunsch has been making nightly trips to New York with Follins, and that Paula has hired detectives to trail him, Doyle waylays the detectives and accompanies them on their pursuit. He learns that Wunsch first visits Helen Voss, later having Follins drive him alone to various night clubs. Doyle visits Helen and while she is in another room a woman hastily opens a door and whispers she is being held a prisoner there. Doyle encounters Wunsch and confronts him with what he has learned. Wunsch admits the woman is Paula's mother and that Texie disappeared the day she boarded the boat for Europe, but that he has heard from her many times since asking for money. Doyle convinces him that the letters are forgeries and that Texie was the murdered girl. Doyle hears gossip about a romance between Texie and Follins. Helen tells him Texie and Truman had their first quarrel shortly before she disappeared and that they were both angry with her because they thought she told Wunsch about them. Doyle decides to question Paula's mother.

OLD BREWERY.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

Maman sprang from the chaise lounge with remarkable agility. Her hands darted, claw-like, toward Doyle. "Don't you dare say that."

"It's true."

"It is not. You leave my son out of this." She drew a long breath. "He was here the day of the sailing. And Adolph Wunsch can prove it."

"What difference does that make?" Doyle said softly. "Texie was killed here."

The comtesse recoiled as if he had struck her.

"What are you saying?" She sank down on the edge of the chaise lounge. "Killed?" she repeated. "Texie dead?"

She was trembling violently and fear stared from her eyes. "Water," she demanded faintly.

Doyle poured a glassful from the carafe on the bed table, and as she sipped from it, he saw the glow of a dawning relief spread over her terrified face. She put the glass aside and spoke to him shrilly.

"If Texie was killed here, how did she get here? Truman had no means of bringing her back. Wunsch wouldn't let Truman stir off the place that whole week. So why are you accusing my son? Why don't you get after the man who brought Texie back here? Have you arrested Follins?"

"Are you telling me," Doyle said weightedly, "that Follins brought Texie here from the ship? Do you actually know that?"

"My guess is as good as knowing," she said darkly. "Follins drove us to the dock. He had the car right there. And there was something between those two."

Texie and Follins.

Doyle was remembering what Dr. Blake had said about them. He was remembering also Helen Voss' vehement protests when he had introduced Follins' name into his questions. With a quick, abstracted nod toward the comtesse, Doyle hurried off.

But hurry availed him nothing. For he could question neither Follins nor Miss Doty.

Miss Doty had the afternoon off, and Wunsch had given permission for Follins to drive her into town. They would not be back until late that night or early the next morning.

The next day was Tuesday. That fateful Tuesday which was to double the horror and mystery of the case of Texie Wunsch.

Coming from the breakfast table, Doyle saw Follins parked on the Seaview driveway in the Wunsch station wagon.

"Mr. Wunsch said you were looking for me," the chauffeur announced, with something in his tone and bearing which suggested that he was braced for an ordeal.

Doyle slid into the leather cushioned front seat and said genially, "That's right. We're taking a ride together," Doyle grinned.

"Where to?"

Doyle said, still grinning, "to wherever you drove Texie."

"Drove Miss Texie?" Follins swallowed. "When do you mean?"

Doyle spoke casually. "When you brought her back from the Philippe."

Follins' hands were whitely knuckled on the steering wheel and his profile was set and bleak.

Doyle spoke softly. "Why didn't you tell me that was the skeleton of Texie Wunsch?"

"I don't know anything about any skeleton," Follins muttered.

Doyle's tone stiffened. "Don't lie. If you've got any wits, you know I've got something on you. I want to know why you drove Texie Wunsch home again when she was supposed to be on her way to Europe?"

There was a moment's tense pause before Follins confessed, "I only did what she told me to do."

"Don't stop there," Doyle commanded. "What did she tell you? When? Why? Give it to me just as it happened."

Follins teeth were clenched so that the muscles showed knotted above his jaw. When he spoke his lips moved stiffly, releasing the words unwillingly.

"She spoke to me one day when I was driving her alone. About a week before the sailing. She said she was going on the Philippe, at 10, on the morning of June 13. She said after I drove her to the dock, I should go to Central park and wait. In the parking space on the lake at 72d street. So I did like she said. And about noon she came walking along and got in the car."

"So then what?"

"So then she told me to drive her to the old brewery."

"Is that where we're going now?"

Follins answered sullenly, "If you say so."

Doyle nodded grimly.

They passed by the entrance gates to the Wunsch estate. A mile beyond, Follins swung the car off the highway to a grass grown dirt road. They bumped along, intermittingly sighting the golf course. The road changed from bad to impassable, and Follins brought the car to a stop.

"It's not much of a walk," he said glumly.

Doyle followed the chauffeur up a wooded knoll. From the top they could see the clearing around an old vine covered building. It was a rectangular structure of generous dimensions, its brick walls a mellow rose color, its windows grimy but unbroken. They went down the hill.

Doyle turned to Follins. "Now where did she go?"

"I left her by the door." Follins said.

Doyle went in the direction of the chauffeur's thumb jerk. There was an unlocked door on that side of the building. Doyle pushed it open and sniffed the musty odor of disuse. He spoke to the chauffeur.

"I suppose you left the car same place as today?"

"Yes."

"And then you walked down here with her?"

Follins said defensively, "Just to carry her bag."

"What bag?"

The chauffeur's uneasiness increased. "Like an overnight bag it was."

"Wasn't she going to spend the night at home?"

"How do I know?" Follins said, suddenly irritable. "It wasn't my place to be askin' questions."

Doyle thrust his face close to the chauffeur. "You damn fool. It's common gossip you didn't keep your place with Texie Wunsch."

Follins drew back, flushing darkly. "You got no right talking to me like that," he protested.

Doyle looked him over contemptuously. "What did you do after you brought her this far?"

For the first time Follins spoke glibly. "I drove the car back to the garage and reported to Mr. Wunsch."

"Did you report that his daughter was home again?"

"She made me promise not to tell any one."

"High minded guy, aren't you?" Doyle said tauntingly. "So where did you put her bag when you got it this far?"

"Where she told me. Just inside this door."

Doyle opened the door and took a quick look inside. "I don't see it," he said challengingly. "That bag contained two thousand dollars and some valuable jewelry," Doyle commented. "It's never been found. And you're the last person known to have handled it."

Follins held his tongue stubbornly. But his face was dark with anger and his eyes were veiled.

"It was only a matter of time before the trail would lead to you." Doyle measured the chauffeur with eyes that were hard and scornful. "I don't know what pretext you used to get Texie Wunsch to come here," he charged. "But it won't be hard to convince a jury that you took her back in the woods, killed her, and made off with her money and jewels."

Follins' fury and fright flared into violent eruption.

"That's a lie," he shouted. "Damn you! You know it is. I'm not going to let you frame me. I'm not taking the rap for Truman Briault. I brought Texie back here so she could meet him. If you know so much you must know that."

Needy Mother Asks Sally for Studio Couch

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.].

If any reader has a studio couch which is no longer needed, we would be glad to place it with one of the numerous needy families who have come to us for assistance.

The following letter from Mrs. H. is typical of several appeals we have had recently, and explains the problems which face a needy family living in crowded, inadequate quarters.

"Dear Miss Brown: My two sons, aged 13 and 9, are at present taking turns sleeping on the davenport, the only bed we have for them. Since it will not hold them both, they alternate on the floor. We need a day-bed and pad or a folding cot and bedding. Can you help us? We have no bedroom for a regular bed, so anything similar to the above-mentioned will be so very much appreciated.

"We have been on relief for the last month and a half, and have no way of filling this need. . . .

We have a similar request from the widowed mother of two children, living on a meager income. Her tiny flat includes a living room, bedroom and kitchen. A studio couch or folding cot would provide a sleeping place for her 13 year old son.

Busy Prenuptial Days Await Mary Fitch Randall.

The next few days will be busy ones for Miss Mary Fitch Randall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Randall of Winnetka, whose marriage to J. Gordon Gilkey Jr. is to take place on Sept. 11. Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds will entertain for the bride-to-be on Wednesday, and Miss Jane Parker will have a luncheon and paper shower on Friday.

Mrs. John Ritchie and her daughter, Miss Mary, have planned a linen shower for Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Randall will give the bridal dinner at home on the eve of the ceremony. Mrs. Rollin D. Wood will give a luncheon for the bridal party on the day of the wedding.

The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock in Christ church in Winnetka and will be followed by a reception at the Randall home.

Miss Miranda Randall will be her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Philip Cleaver White will be the matron of honor. Miss Mary Wood, Miss Ann Wemple, and the bridegroom's sisters, Miss Edith and Miss Margaret Gilkey, will be bridesmaids.

Eastern Young Men to Serve as Ushers.

Nathaniel Horton Batchelder Jr. of Osterville, Mass., will serve as best man for Mr. Gilkey, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Gilkey of Springfield, Mass. Ushering will be Clark S. Richards Jr. of Springfield; Hervey L. Smith Jr. of Smith's Ferry, Mass.; Joseph Mattison Jr. of Yonkers, N. Y.; Lemuel B. Hunter, and Mr. White.

Among the out of town guests who will be here the day before the wedding are the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Phelps of Marquette, Mich.; Mrs. George Howe of Cambridge, Mass., the bridegroom's grandmother; George Howe of Springfield, and the Walter W. Websters, the bride's aunt and uncle, who will come from Worcester, Mass., with their daughter, Miss Margaret, and their son, Richard Webster, and their son and daughter-in-law, the junior Walter Websters.

Mr. Gilkey and his bride will live in New York. He is attending Union Theological seminary and she is a student in the graduate school of Columbia university.

Hill Blackett Family Gives Gay House Party.

One of the gayest and largest of the many Labor day house parties is one the Hill Blacketts and their daughter, Miss Priscilla Blackett, are giving at Green Lake, Wis. Among their guests are the Blacketts' house guest, Francis Lakeman of Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Ryland Wolcott and her daughters, Nancy and Jean, and the former's fiancé, Scott A. McKeown of Washington, Pa., and the Burdett P. Masts.

The week-end plans of the Huntington B. Henrys and of the T. Philip Swifts were spoiled when it was learned that several cases of infantile paralysis had been discovered near the Coleman Lake club in Wisconsin. The families had planned to spend the holiday there.

The Keith Carpenter family is in Desbarats, Ont., where Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and the junior William Burrys own a cabin. Mrs. Stephen Hord, who had been visiting the Burrys at the cabin, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles, at Desbarats, over the week-end. The Adlai E. Stevensons, who also had been with the Burrys, are with Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Otis over Labor day.

Sidney D. Johnson is returning to Cincinnati tonight after spending the week-end with his parents-in-law, the Kenneth Templetons. Mrs. Johnson and their child, Frederica Elizabeth, who have been in Lake Forest since early August, will join Mr. Johnson in a few days.

Ralph C. Burrows Joins Family at Mackinac Island.

Ralph C. Burrows, who is in Mackinac Island this week-end, can see for himself how fast the remodeling of his new home is progressing. He and Mrs. Burrows bought the former Carrie Belle Smith home and Mrs. Burrows and their daughter, Georgette, have been busy with plans to have the house completely redecorated by early spring. Mrs. Burrows will remain on the island until Oct. 1, but Mr. Burrows and their daughter will return on their yacht in time for Georgette to return to school.

Clifford W. Barnes and his daughter, Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, are closing their summer home at Northeast Harbor, Me., early this week. Before returning to Chicago Miss Barnes will go to New York in connection with her work as a member of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. Mr. Barnes will come directly here, however, to start plans for the opening of the 34th season of the Chicago Sunday Evening club, of which he is president and founder.

Members of the board of directors of the Woman's Symphony orchestra are making plans to go to Toledo, O., on Sept. 29 for the first of the orchestra's autumn series of coast to coast broadcasts. The concert will be heard at 4 o'clock, Chicago time. The orchestra will play in the peristyle of the Toledo Museum of Art. Further Sunday afternoon concerts will be held in the Civic theater at 4 o'clock, Chicago time.

Barbara Trump to Wed Easterner Next Saturday.

Added to the many weddings planned for next Saturday is that of Miss Barbara Trump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse D. Trump of Winnetka, and John G. Nesbitt of Boston, Mass. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church in Evanston with a reception following at the Orrington hotel.

Mrs. Paul V. Trenkmann will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Carol Hughson, Miss Virginia Noyes, and Miss Susan Ingalls of Lakewood, O., will be bridesmaids. Ross Ingersoll of Northwestern university will be best man. Robert Trump and Mr. Trenkmann will usher. After a wedding trip to Ontario and Quebec Mr. Nesbitt and his bride will be at home in Grove City, Pa.

Miss Patricia Warfield and Robert William Wasem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Wasem of Fort Dodge, Ia., are to be married on Sept. 28. The ceremony will be performed at 8:30 o'clock in the Bond chapel on the University of Chicago campus and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Graves Warfield.

Indispensable Fall Costume

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SUIT.

There's one costume for fall that is indeniably indispensable, and that is the suit. For busy women particularly, the tailored suit is almost a uniform, and it may be dressed up with sweaters and both dressy and tailored blouses. The suit today is a classic model with simple paneled skirt that has an inverted front plait. The jacket has rever collarline and twin pockets. The sleeves are the casual, comfortable sort.

You may make both pieces of one material and color, or use contrast. The latter idea is by far the preferable, because a plaid jacket, for example, might be worn with other skirts in the wardrobe, and a dark, plain skirt keeps good company with other jackets and especially with sweaters.

Style No. 3465 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 1⅞ yards of 54 inch material, with 1⅝ yards of 39 inch lining, for separate jacket; 1½ yards of 54 inch fabric for separate skirt; 2⅛ yards of 54 inch material for jacket and skirt of one material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Quinces are an excellent jam and jelly fruit, for they are well supplied with pectin and acid. When used alone their fruit flavor leaves something to be desired in the opinion of most jellymakers, which is why quinces usually are combined with apples or other fruits for really delicious canned spreads.

Quinces are an ancient fruit and haven't been transformed by cultivation as much as apples, pears, peaches and most of our other fruits have been changed. The Romans used to think that quinces could ward off evil powers. If we could only believe that now, we'd all be making quince jelly!

Quinces require long cooking to become tender. If you are using them for jelly, cut them in small pieces, add enough water to float the fruit, and cook until tender. Drain thru a jelly bag and collect the juice for jelly.

APPLE AND QUINCE JELLY.

Combine equal parts juice drained from cooked quinces and juice from apples. [Cook the apples in the same way, leaving in cores and peelings, as they contain a great proportion of the pectin. Drain thru a jelly bag.] Bring combined juices to the boiling point and add two-thirds cup sugar for each cup of juice. Boil until drops of the syrup hang suspended a moment on the edge of a spoon, before dropping back into the kettle. Pour at once into clean, hot jars, and seal with paraffin.

APPLE AND QUINCE JAM.

Wash quinces and remove blossom ends. Cut into small pieces and place in a pan with enough water to cover the bottom. Cook until soft. Add an equal quantity of diced, tart apples, and two-thirds as much sugar as combined fruit. Boil rapidly until thick and clear, stirring to prevent burning. Seal at once with paraffin.

Ginger and Quince Jam.

4 pounds quinces
8 cups [4 pounds] sugar
¼ pound chopped crystallized ginger
2 lemons, juice and grated rind.

Wash, pare and core the quinces. Chop fine and add sugar, ginger and lemon. Cook until thick, stirring to keep jam from scorching. Seal at once.

QUINCE AND APPLE PRESERVES.

Peel, core and slice equal quantities of apples and quinces. Cook sliced quinces in four times as much water, until tender, and cook apple slices in a very small quantity of water. Remove fruit from juice and combine the cooking waters. Measure and add three-fourths cup of sugar for every cup of juice. Boil for five minutes and add the fruit. Cook until the syrup is thick and fruit is clear. Fill clean, hot jars and seal.

Quince Preserves.

5 pounds quinces
1 lemon
4 pounds [8 cups] sugar
3 cups water

Peel, core and quarter the quinces. Cover peelings and cores with water, add quartered lemon and boil, covered, for half an hour. This extracts pectin. Strain out peels, cores and lemon. Boil sugar with the three cups water for 10 minutes and add liquid from quince peelings, and the quartered quinces. Cook until quinces are tender. Fill jars with quinces and add boiling syrup. Seal at once. Crystallized ginger may be added if desired.

Squares for an Afghan

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a combination of squares for a crocheted afghan which is hard to beat. It is a variation of the log cabin design and plain blocks worked in the popular stitch. Variety is afforded in making an afghan of this type because, when one tires of making the multicolored squares, the plain ones may be substituted. Knitting worsted is an ideal material for this coverlet.

For instructions in crocheting the afghan, No. 301, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th Avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

A declarer can consider himself fortunate when a play is available which offers full protection to the contract itself and, at the same time, provides opportunity for extra tricks. The South player in today's hand, taken from a match-point duplicate game, made his slam contract, but still came out with an indifferent score on the board because he had "booted" the easy overtrick.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	4 diamonds	Pass	4 no trump
Pass	6 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Pass

North recognized his partner's four diamond bid as a pure shut-out, but nevertheless, with four top tricks and a "fitting" queen of diamonds, was properly slam-minded. He therefore made the most aggressive safe bid at his command, namely, four no trump. South knew that North would not have made this bid opposite an obvious preëmpt except with great top trick strength, hence did not hesitate to jump to a slam. The bidding was good.

West opened the spade queen. After winning in dummy declarer immediately led the diamond queen thru East. A holding of 10 trumps, missing the king, calls for a finesse, hence declarer was correct in not depending on the king to drop, but his technique in this particular finesse was faulty, as we shall soon see. When the singleton diamond king covered the queen, declarer lost an invaluable entry to dummy. Now, since he was void of spades and hearts, he could neither establish dummy's spade suit nor get any other play on the hand that could produce the extra trick.

Conceding that a trump finesse was in order, declarer need not have wasted dummy's trump queen on this process. An equally sound finesse would have been the deuce of trumps to the A-J. There always was the chance that the diamond king would pop up from the East hand and, in that case, declarer could preserve the diamond queen as an entry. Note how this would have changed the entire course of play.

On the low diamond lead from dummy declarer would smother East's king, then return to the diamond queen. Common sense play then would be to cash the heart and spade aces, discarding clubs, then to ruff a spade. Now every trump should be run off and West finally would feel inexorable pressure on his spade jack and club king. Declarer's last three cards would be a trump and the Q-7 of clubs. West would be holding on to the spade jack and the K-10 of clubs. Dummy, at this point, would be reduced to the eight of spades and the A-8 of clubs. The last trump now would sound West's doom. If he let go the spade, dummy would discard a club and declarer would take his 12th apd 13th tricks with the club ace and the spade eight. If West discarded the club 10 dummy's spade would be thrown away and declarer, by leading the club seven to the ace, would drop West's king and promote his own queen to winning rank.

All Business, No Play Perils a Man's Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Altho men so often are accused of loving business more than they love their wives, there comes a time when their wives mean more to them than their business. They realize that in slaving to make a living they have not planned their home lives as efficiently as they have their office lives, and thus their home lives totter on the verge of bankruptcy, or else go into bankruptcy completely.

In support of this we offer you today the case of a heartbroken husband whose wife, left alone too much, has found another love, and wants to leave him. We don't think this situation is right at all. We feel sympathetic toward the hard working husband, and blame the wife for not insisting that her man devote more of his time to her, and also blame her for not being the loyal helpmate to her husband that she should have been.

We feel that there must have been many times when she could have encouraged her husband to bring home his business associates for dinner. She would not only have been helping him, but she would have seen more of her husband and thus not have been subject to those lonely spells which, no doubt, prompted her to seek companionship elsewhere. Our unhappy correspondent writes:

"Altho my wife is beautiful, how a man could be such a cad as to undermine and usurp another man's marital contentment is too much for me. To give up my wife without a good fight to hold her would be yielding to failure, and giving up everything I ever cherished."

We advise the man NOT to give up his wife. He should first "have it out" with her, and insist that they start over again, and build a new castle of dreams over the ruins of the old one.

Daily Bathing One Sure Way to Guard Chic

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The faintest suggestion of perspiration odor is sufficient to destroy all other efforts toward personal daintiness and charm. And now that the season for heavier dresses is close upon us, it is more important than ever that we take every precaution for absolute cleanliness. Bathe every day. If necessary, bathe twice a day.

Along with this you must be careful to change underclothes. Dresses should be aired between wearings to offset the possibility of any slight odor remaining in the dress. There are excellent preparations to check perspiration, also preparations to take the unpleasant odor out of perspiration, but never should these take the place of the bath.

Excessive perspiration may be a local condition due to overactivity in the sweat glands of the underarms, hands, or feet. Again, it may be due to low vitality or nervousness. Witch hazel or any mild astringent applied locally will reduce this unpleasantness, but baths are all-important.

A hot bath is most cleansing, especially so when a bath brush is employed. The hot water opens the pores and stimulates the flow of perspiration. The hot bath should be followed by a cold sponge or shower to close the pores and to counteract the relaxing effect of the hot water.

A salt bath always is refreshing, and any one who is suffering from nervousness will derive benefit as well as pleasure from this type of bath. These salt baths need not be confined to summer when at the seashore. You may buy sea salt and throw a handful or so into the tub. It is refreshing after a tiresome day. Ordinary table salt, dampened before use, may be rubbed onto the body before a bath or shower with excellent results.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Summer's end, this is.

And now the wise woman's fancy turns to thoughts of silhouette improvement. Is it just the circles we travel in, or is there really more talk [and action too] about exercising to slimmer lines than there's ever been before?

Seems that every woman we know is exercise minded. We don't hear a peep about trick diets—and that's a good thing. But more and more women are exercising to the radio in the morning, and are proud as Punch of the flat tummies they've achieved by twisting and turning and kicking rhythmically.

More women are going to studios or salons for exercise courses, too. We were fascinated to hear the other day that the girls in one of the largest office buildings had been campaigning for a physical culture establishment to be opened within its walls. They want to duck down on their lunch hours or after work for a half hour or so of silhouette-molding exercise. We hope they get it.

Women are swapping exercise formulas as they used to swap recipes. And we notice that more and more they turn to the stretching exercises as against the old physical jerks.

For the hips, the torso line, the flat diaphragm and general limberness they seem to favor the simple exercise, done flat on the back, arms out, of alternately stretching one leg over the other as far as possible. It's a daisy, in case you've a mind to do some fall remodeling at home.

REDS BEAT CUBS TWICE; SOX LOSE TO INDIANS

10 NAMED FOR WASHINGTON PARK HANDICAP TODAY

KAYAK II. ENTRY MADE FAVORITE IN $25,000 RACE

Viscounty, Shot Put Also Well Liked.

Probable Field

TEN horses have been named in the overnight entries for the $25,000 Washington Park handicap, which will bring the meeting to a close today. The field in order of post position follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Probable odds.
Memory Book	103	No boy	30-1
‡Manie O'Hara	105	No boy	12-1
Shot Put	112	W. Garner	5-1
Burning Star	109	J. Richard	20-1
†War Plumage	110	N. Wall	6-1
†Yale O'Nine	112	A. Craig	6-1
‡Montsin	106	B. Thompson	12-1
*Kayak II.	130	J. Adams	7-5
*Advocator	116	No boy	7-5
Viscounty	118	N. Parise	8-5

*C. S. Howard entry. †J. C. Brady and French Lick stable entry. ‡Friedberg and Axton entry.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Charles S. Howard, whose stable has sent out the winners of Washington Park's American Derby and Futurity, will try for a third rich prize today when Kayak II. and Advocator go to the post in the $25,000 Washington Park handicap, which heads the final program of the meeting.

A victory in this mile and a quarter event will give Howard supremacy in all major divisions for the 31 days of racing at the Homewood course. His Mioland scored in the American Derby, which carried a net value of $44,900 for the winner, after which his Porter's Cap led the way home in the Futurity, earning a net purse of $30,780. If all 10 go to the post today, the race will gross $34,400 with a net prize of $26,800 to the winner.

Howard Stable's Advance.

The Howard organization, whose horses are trained by Tom Smith, will be right at home today when competing in the handicap division. Previous to the Washington Park meeting, Howard had occupied no position of prominence as an owner of good juveniles or 3 year olds. Accordingly, the victories of Mioland and Porter's Cap marked an important stride forward in the fortunes of his stable. In the handicap division, however, he has had conspicuous success. Kayak II. won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap for him in 1939 and Seabiscuit and Kayak II. took first and second money for him in that event this season.

Whereas Porter's Cap was a 13 to 1 shot and Mioland a 6 to 1 proposition, the Howard entry of Kayak II. and Advocator will be the favorite today, probably at about 7 to 5. In addition to Kayak II.'s prestige, the betters' liking for the entry will be strengthened by the performance of Advocator in winning the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington.

Viscounty Develops.

The Valdina farm's Viscounty has developed well since Chicago race fans saw him run as a 3 year old last season. He has won both of his starts during the present meeting, his last effort being particularly impressive. This occurred in a gallop of a mile and an eighth last Monday. Running on a particularly difficult track, under a snug hold all the way, he beat three of the horses which will go against him today. These are Shot Put, Yale o' Nine, and War Plumage. This performance has earned him the position of second choice in the betting.

Shot Put, which is owned by Mrs. Marie Evans, has increased his prestige considerably since Washington Park's series of distance races began. He won the two mile and a quarter and the two mile and three-quarter events in handy fashion. Yale o' Nine, which races for Tom Taggart's French Lick Springs stable, is a much better horse this season than he ever was before. He reached excellent form during the Arlington Park meeting and has shown so much talent that he will have quite a few backers today.

Adams to Ride Kayak II.

J. C. Brady's War Plumage will run as an entry with Yale o' Nine, both being saddled by Trainer Howard Wells. The Shandon farm's Burning Star, Paul Kelley's Memory Book, and the Friedberg and Axton entry of Montsin and Manie O'Hara will complete the field.

Johnny Adams, who returned to the races Saturday after being out for 10 days with injuries incurred in a fall, will be aboard Kayak II. Nick Wall will come out from the east to handle War Plumage.

Rain Again Postpones National Girls' Tourney

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP).—For the seventh straight day, rain today postponed the start of the national girls' tennis tournament but second seeded Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Patricia Canning of Alameda, insist they will remain here until the course dry.

Little House That Was Not There.

My childhood home, long years gone by,
Is but a mem-o-ry.
Fields now erase
All worldly trace
Of home—as used to be.

In retrospect I watched the stars
From where had been the stair—
In fancy's raid
Again I strayed
Down paths that were not there.

The garden gate; the cellar door
All came so vividly;
The flax—home grown—
The old grindstone
Beneath the old oak tree.

I even saw my mother there
As she looked so long ago,
Unbent by years—
Unaged by tears—
By grief she came to know.

The sunken hole where once the well
Gave forth its cooling treat;
The shady vale—
The old cow trail—
With its dust from tiny feet!

Ah! Would that I could live anew
Those golden days of yore
And fish and swim—
Enjoy each whim—
A barefoot boy once more!

Alas! The fleeting wings of time
File with eternal care.
A toast to you
I drink! Adieu!
O, house that was not there!

American Style.

When we go in for politics
We seem to lose our poise,
In picking candidates we're prone
To endless talk and noise.
No doubt it is important who
Our higher ups shall be,
But there are many folks, indeed,
That mean much more to me.

For instance, there's the cook who can
Concoct a luscious pie,
A toothsome treat to talk about—
We rate her very high;
Likewise the skilled mechanic who
Is gifted with the knack
Of locating the trouble when
Your car is out of whack.

The pitcher for the home town team
With the tying run on third,
And bedlam loose on every side
Must be a steady bird.
And so I rather think if each
In his own place and station,
Performs some job exceedingly well,
We'll be a mighty nation.

REDS' PENNANT CHARGE JOLTS CUBS, 6-5, 2-1

Bill Lee Routed in Opener; French Loses 2d.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 1.—Gabby Hartnett's Cub coterie of rich and personable young sportsmen lost two more games to the Reds today by a margin of one run, even as they lost yesterday by the narrowest of margins. The Cubs dropped the first game, 6 to 5, because of another sour job of pitching by unhappy Bill Lee. They were sunk in the second game, 2 to 1, despite five-hit pitching by Larry French.

Each game was played in one minute short of two hours and in each the Cubs were able to knock out the starting Red pitcher, Jim Turner in the first game and Whitey Moore in the second. This knocking out business, however, served only to bring in Joe Beggs in each instance. Joe also finished and won yesterday's game.

Bryant Wastes Fine Relief Job.

In the first game the Cubs wasted a four run eighth inning rally and three and one-third innings of hitless relief pitching by Clay Bryant, who replaced Lee. Lee was the starting pitcher and the first five innings were along the Lee 1940 pattern. The big blowup today was in the fifth inning, in which the Reds made four runs after two were out.

The defeat was the 15th for Lee, who has ducked another half dozen or so decisions this season after being knocked out. It was Bill's fourth walloping at the hands of the Reds.

McCormicks Are Tough.

French was in fine form, but a walk at the start bloomed into a run on a single by Frank McCormick and the other one resulted from a triple by Bill Werber and a single by Mike McCormick in the sixth inning.

The Cubs averted a shutout on Stan Hack's homer in the seventh. Whitey Moore walked eight Cubs, who loaded the bases to no avail in the sixth and eighth innings.

It was the 15th time the Reds have whipped the Cubs in 20 tries this year. It gave the Cubs an unfinished losing streak of five games and plunged them four games under the .500 mark.

FIRST GAME

Scoring in the first game got under way when Werber walked with two out in the second. Mike McCormick then beat out a bunt to Lee, Werber racing from first to third, when the

Three Indians—After the Massacre

[Associated Press Photo.]

These three Indians had leading roles in the ambushing of the White Sox yesterday, 7 to 4, in Comiskey Park. Lou Boudreau (left) drove in two runs in the ninth. Roy Weatherly (center) doubled to score the winning run in the same inning. And last, but hardly least in the White Sox estimation the last few days, is Ben Chapman, who had a triple and two doubles yesterday.

Snead and Nelson Enter Final of National P. G. A. Tourney

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hershey, Pa., Sept. 1.—Sam Snead and Byron Nelson, two unsuccessful ex-finalists, will have another chance at the National Professional Golf championship tomorrow, when they meet in the 36 hole title battle at the Hershey Country club. Snead and Nelson, both of whom held the 18 hole advantages when the semi-finals originally scheduled for yesterday, were prolonged by a cloudburst, retained those margins this afternoon, the first good day the tournament has enjoyed since it started last Monday.

Snead, runner-up for the 1938 championship, had a far easier time of it than Nelson. Sam finished a 5 and 4 victor over another ex-runner-up, Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Boston. Nelson, in the meantime, was forced to the 36th green to win a 1 up thriller over Ralph Guldahl, one time National and Western Open title holder from Chicago. Nelson had come out of yesterday's first half with a 1 up margin, while Snead had held a 3 up advantage over McSpaden.

Bunyan Crushes Snead.

Two years ago at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., the club where he is now stationed, Snead absorbed the most convincing defeat in P. G. A. history when he lost the final to Paul Runyan by an 8 and 7 count. Nelson, whose only major match play triumph was his victory in the $12,500 Belmont Open of 1937, reached the final last year at Pomonok and went 37 holes before surrendering to Henry Picard.

Nelson is six under par for the 173 holes he has played, while Snead is six below standard figures for his last 68 holes.

The cards for the second 18 of the semi-finals follow:

Par—Out	445	435	443—36
Par—In	545	534	443—37—73
Snead—Out	435	435	443—35
McSpaden—Out	455	435	443—38
Snead leads, 4 up.
Snead—In	544	43
McSpaden—In	544	53
Snead wins, 5 and 4.
Nelson—Out	345	435	443—35
Guldahl—Out	355	534	443—36
Nelson leads, 2 up.
Nelson—In	534	543	543—36—71
Guldahl—In	444	534	443—35—71
Nelson wins, 1 up.

Only Two Holes Won.

Only two holes were won during the Snead-McSpaden match, and Sam took both of those at the second and the thirteenth. On the former, McSpaden put his second in the creek, winding up with a six, two over par. He conceded a long birdie putt to Snead. From there to the 522 yard twelfth they matched par. On the twelfth each scored birdies, McSpaden planting his third two feet from the cup and Snead holing a five footer. On the next hole, McSpaden's second wandered to the rough at the left, and his next shot laid Snead a partial stymie. But the latter, who was on in three, made a 10 foot putt around it for a winning birdie that sent him 5 up. It was the first P. G. A. match in which McSpaden ever had been defeated more than 1 up.

Guldahl figured he had the match squared when he holed a 40 foot putt for a birdie on the first hole this afternoon, but Nelson answered that by sinking a 5 footer for a half. Guldahl was 2 down after the second where both were bunkered, Nelson dropping a 15 footer to win while Guldahl was missing one from ten feet. The Chicagoan went 3 down by missing the fourth green, but retrieved that with a 12 foot birdie putt on the sixth. Again, he cut into Nelson's advantage with a five footer on the tenth, and the gallery began to wonder if the big boy were not on the way to another of his typical finishes.

Nelson Gets 2 Straight Birdies.

But Nelson, a tough man himself, fired two straight birdies, one on the eleventh to win and the second at the twelfth for a half. On each, Nelson was within a yard of the cup. Guldahl got his at the twelfth with a five footer. Nelson then bunkered his tee shot to the 189 yard fourteenth, but regained that with a seven footer for a birdie on No. 15, and so was 2 up with three to go.

Then Nelson committed the error which nearly cost him the match and left him only 1 up on the 17th tee. He shanked his iron to the 16tn in true duffer fashion, and wound up with a 5 to Guldahl's par 4. It looked even on the 17th green, where Guldahl had only a four and a half foot putt for a birdie, but couldn't get it down. Nelson was on the lower right corner of the 18th, while Guldahl was about 14 feet above the cup. His ball was mud-crusted, however, and he couldn't drop it. Nelson chipped up for a safe half.

DIZZY DEAN GETS BASE HIT SHOWER FOR A FAREWELL

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 1 (AP).—The Oklahoma City Indians blasted Dizzy Dean off the mound in his final appearance of the year in the Texas league today and defeated Tulsa, 10 to 1.

Dean, who has been called back to the Chicago Cubs for inspection after soaking his ailing arm in Texas league sunshine for three months, was a badly beaten pitcher as he headed for the clubhouse after giving up 10 hits and five runs in three and one-third innings. Dean will report to the Cubs Saturday.

Oklahoma City got to Dean in a hurry, pushing across two runs in the first. The Indians scored three runs on five hits with only one man out in the fourth inning and Dizzy gave way to Clare Bertram, also property of the Cubs.

Dean was a busy, tho not very successful pitcher, during his three month stay with Tulsa. He appeared in 21 games, but pitched only seven complete ones. He worked 142 innings, struck out 49, and issued only 19 walks. He was credited with seven victories and nine defeats.

SPRINGER BEATS GRAW IN COUNTY GOLF FINAL, 2-1

Marshall Springer of Evergreen won the 22d renewal of the Cook County Amateur golf tournament yesterday at Columbus park by defeating John Graw, 2 and 1, in their 36 hole match.

The 17 year old youth from the south side club played consistently and kept within seven strokes of par for the 35 hole journey, while Graw went 10 strokes over. The cards:

Morning Round.
Springer—Out	535	424	444—35
Graw—Out	446	434	444—37
Springer 2 up.
Springer—In	434	435	345—35

Springer wins, 2 and 1.

LYONS BLOWS 4-1 LEAD; TAKES 7 TO 4 TRIMMING

Chicagoans Rout Milnar.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who just can't control charitable tendencies whenever they see a Cleveland uniform, made another contribution to the Indians' pennant cause yesterday. Unable to hold a three run lead, they succumbed, 7 to 4, giving the league leaders a sweep of the three game series. It was Cleveland's 13th decision in 19 tussles with Jimmy Dykes' Dudes, who for the time being have shut off their oratory about a first division berth.

The loss was another black mark on the 1940 record of the 39 year old Ted Lyons, who at times lacked skill and at other times suffered from a lack of luck. The Indians got two of their first three runs on a liner that got away and an infield hit. They tied the score in the eighth on a wild pitch and another infield hit. But what they got in the ninth was deserved. They belted home three runs after Lyons had defied them by issuing a pass with no one out.

Sox Bog Down.

The Sox started off at a giddy pace. They dented Al Milnar for a run in the second, tying the score, and in the third they fixed up an early departure for the gangling left hander. Mike Kreevich, Joe Kuhel, and Taft Wright exploded real wallops and thus accumulated the three run lead that Lyons couldn't hold. After this pleasing exhibition the Sox produced only one hit off Joe Dobson and Bob Feller, the latter being called in the ninth just to make certain nothing would happen. Except for a pass, nothing did happen.

The Indians made their first assault on Lyons in the second inning, two hits giving them a one run lead. Comrade Trosky led off with a single to right and was forced at second by Heath, who would have been doubled if Appling, after taking the throw from Webb, had not tripped as he stepped on the base. Keltner flied to Solters. Then Mack doubled to left, scoring Heath.

Appling and Tresh took care of a little pressing business in the home half, getting the Sox into a tie. Appling doubled to left with one out and went to third on a wild pitch. He refused to go home on Wright's short fly to Heath, but Tresh drove him in by singling over short.

Indians Creep Up.

There was one out in the third before the Sox got together on the three run festival which purged Milnar. Webb walked and moved to third when Kreevich dropped a double close to the line in right. Kuhel then doubled, a real line smash against the right center field scoreboard, scoring Webb and Kreevich. Solters popped up to Pytlak in front of the plate. Appling walked. Wright singled to score Kuhel and Milnar surrendered. Dobson, his successor, induced Tresh to roll to Trosky for the third out.

If Kreevich had been able to complete a spectacular catch in the fourth, Lyons might have dodged two runs. With one out Trosky lined to dead center, but Kreevich was well over toward the opposite side and, altho he had his hands on the drive, he couldn't hold it. Trosky got two bases on the hit and scored on Heath's triple to left center. Lyons fanned Keltner and walked Mack, but Pytlak

REDSKINS AND PACKER ELEVENS TO CLASH TODAY

Pros to Play Exhibition in Milwaukee.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1.—Those Milwaukee football fans who were unable to attend the All-Star game in Chicago last Thursday and then were deprived of a chance of hearing all the broadcast due to the interruption caused by Henry Wallace's speech accepting the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination, will get an opportunity to see the Green Bay Packers tomorrow afternoon.

The world champions, flushed with their 45 to 28 victory over the collegians, will meet the Washington Redskins in a National league exhibition in State Fair park. Coach Curley Lambeau brought the Packers down from Green Bay tonight.

En Route from Spokane, Wash.

Washington is in Milwaukee en route east from its Spokane, Wash., training camp after a series of exhibition games along the west coast. It will have the advantage of having had more work than the Packers. Green Bay also will be at a disadvantage offensively. It will be without 25 per cent of its attack.

Green Bay did not work on plays which involve handing the ball forward behind the line of scrimmage, since such tactics are outlawed by the college pass rule. There has been no time since Thursday's conquest of the All-Stars to put in that portion of the offense, hence Green Bay must get along with the same formations it used in Chicago. There are 84,567 football fans who, as eye witnesses, are willing to testify the Packers will need little else all season.

Two Unable to Play.

Frank Balazs, the full back who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the last few minutes of the All-Star game, and George Svendsen are the only Packers unable to participate tomorrow. Balazs' shoulder still is in a cast. Svendsen, who suffered an injured knee in the last scrimmage for the All-Star game, is too important a man in Packer plans to be sent forth in an exhibition partially incapacitated.

Washington's attack will be built around Sammy Baugh's passing ability. The Redskins have lost the services of Andy Farkas, star back, who suffered a ruptured semi-lunar cartilege in his right knee in an intrasquad game. Washington, which just missed landing in the championship playoff last year again is a title contender. With increased reserve strength and rookies of last year moved up into the veteran class, the Redskins appear stronger than ever.

The game will start at 2 o'clock.

RAIN STOPS PRO GIANTS

Pearl River, N. Y., Sept. 1 [Special].—The New York football Giants feel that the weather is conspiring against them in their preparations for the eastern All-Star game, which is to be held in the Polo Grounds Wednesday night. Heavy rain forced the Giants to cancel morning drill and also to forego a trip to New York where the Giants had hoped to work under the new lighting system, which will be used for football the first time in the All-Star test.

Granny Lannsdell, who arrived by plane after the Chicago All-Star game, took part in the passing and kicking drill and acquitted himself well with the wet ball. This carried some measure of encouragement since now the Giants have at least four backs who can pass and kick as well as run the ball.

SUTHERLAND'S DODGERS WIN IN EXHIBITION, 20-0

Stratford, Conn., Sept. 1 (AP).—Jock Sutherland made his debut as coach of a professional football team today as his Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league whipped the Stratford Rams, 20 to 0.

A circus catch by Roten Shetley, freshman back from Furman university, brought the first score. He took a 20 yard pass from Sam Francis in the second period. Center Joe Ratica intercepted a pass in the fourth period and ran 34 yards for a touchdown.

BANKS McFADDEN SIGNS.

Clemson, S. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Banks McFadden, former Clemson football star, said today he had signed a one year contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He left tonight to join the Dodgers in Princeton, N. J. Coach Frank Howard said Randy Hinson, former Clemson star, would take McFadden's place as assistant varsity coach.

National Tennis Rained Out Third Consecutive Day

Forest Hill, N. Y., Sept. 1 [Special].—The worst weather to bedevil the start of the national tennis tournament washed out the opening round of play for the third successive day today. The referee was prepared to get the tournament under way, regardless of the damage that might be done to the turf, when rain intervened again, and shortly before noon another postponement was ordered. Weather permitting, the same schedule arranged for the last three days will be carried out tomorrow.

Indiana Youth, 17, Hurls His Sixth No-Hit Game

Jasper, Ind., Sept. 1 (AP).—Roman Pfeffer, 17 years old, senior in Jasper High school, pitched his sixth no-hit baseball game today as the Jasper Reds blanked the Evansville Cooks, 4 to 0. Pfeffer, who also has 11 one-hit games to his credit, struck out 10 batters and issued no walks.

YANKEE, BREEZE WIN ON 2D LEG OF YACHT RACE

Fleet Leaves Michigan City This Morning.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 1 [Special].—Yankee, Ed Schnabel's 39 foot racing sloop, and Breeze, Sumner W. D. Scott's 40 foot cruising ketch, were winners on the second leg of the annual triangular race sailed down Lake Michigan today from St. Joseph, Mich., to this Indiana port. Sixty-four yachts sailed against a strong northwest wind that whipped the lake into rough whitecapped seas.

This leg of the three day, three state race was sponsored by the Chicago Yacht club, and the distance was 30 nautical miles. Southern Cross, Robert P. Benedict's 55 foot cruising yawl from the Jackson Park Yacht club was first to finish. Its elapsed time of 3 hours, 54 minutes and 42 seconds, an average of approximately 9 miles per hour, was the best of the entire fleet. The yawl placed third in its class, however on corrected time. Trident, P. H. Danley's Chicago Yacht club yawl, was second to finish.

Owner Sails Yankee.

The Yankee, won in the universal, or racing division, with an elapsed time of 4:23:30 and a corrected time of 3:25:37. The yacht was sailed by its owner-skipper, Ed Schnabel. His aids were Fred H. Barker, light canvasman; Howard Schilling, main sheet man; Clarence Hammell and John Vernon, backstay men. The best speed logged by the sloop with its 1,150 square foot parachute Spinnaker pulling all the way, was 7½ miles per hour.

Yankee is one of the narrowest yachts in the race, less than seven feet wide. Last year on this same course it set a speed record in the triangular race.

Breeze won the cruising division honors for the Columbia Yacht club. It was sailed by its owner, Sumner W. D. Scott, with his wife, Alice Hill, Chicago radio actress, and a crew of four. A few seconds after finishing off the Michigan City pier head, Breeze's main boom snapped off.

Race to Chicago Today.

The spar was repaired tonight with a jury rig, so that he may race tomorrow back to Chicago. The entire fleet is scheduled to start at 10 a. m. tomorrow on the last leg of the race to Jackson Park harbor. Revenge, 59 foot cutter owned by Blair Walliser and Ken Grimm, will defend the Commodore Noble trophy for sailing the Michigan City-Chicago run in the fastest time. Summaries of class winners:

Ed Carfagnini Wins Olympic Bicycle Title

Ed Carfagnini, Chicago bicycle factory worker, scored a grand slam last night by winning the Olympic track bike racing championship in Humboldt park. He won the national road title Saturday. His point total of 10 won beat Bob Stauffacher, San Mateo plumber, last year's national champion, by one point.

Carfagnini, by winning the final event of the program, the two mile, in which Stauffacher failed to finish in the first four, decided the championship. Stauffacher was leading up until the two miler. Marvin Thompson, young Barrett A. C. rider of Chicago, who failed to gain a point in last night's races, wound up in third place.

The Olympic program will be continued today with a 62½ mile road race from North avenue and Harlem avenue, to St. Charles, Ill., and return.

Carfagnini placed second in the half mile and third in the mile in addition to winning the two mile. He will see action in the road race today and in the C. Y. O. track event in Humboldt park, Wednesday night, when the C. Y. O. sponsors a team race and other races in cooperation with the Barrett Athletic club.

Joe DeBacco of Newark, N. J., brother of the professional six day star, won th ehalf mile in 1:02.5 minutes. After getting off to a bad start, he moved up steadily thruout the four lap event, beating out Carfagnini and Buster Logan of Newark.

Harold Hughes of Buffalo, N. Y., captured the mile Olympic title, beating Stauffacher and Carfagnini, who closed fast for third place. Hughes covered the mile in 2 minutes 21.3 seconds. Summaries:

OLYMPIC MILE—Won by Harold Hughes, Buffalo, N. Y.; Bob Stauffacher, San Mateo, Cal., second; Ed Carfagnini, Chicago, third. Time—2:21.3.

OLYMPIC TWO MILE—Won by Ed Carfagnini, Chicago; Bob Cass, Chicago, second; Buster Logan, Newark, N. J., third. Time—5:18.5.

OLYMPIC ONE-HALF MILE—Won by Joe De Bacco, Newark, N. J.; Ed Carfagnini, Chicago, second; Buster Logan, Newark, N. J., third; Bob Stauffacher, San Mateo, Cal., fourth. Time—1:02.5.

Special Out-of-town two mile—Won by Aldo Castignini, New York; Martin Kenny, San Jose, Cal., second; George Bustard, New York, third. Time—5:29.

MERCURY WINS WOMEN'S RACE IN SNIPE CLASS

Mercury, skippered by Shirley Stewart, won the 3 mile Snipe class race for women off Montrose harbor yesterday in 44:20. The race was part of the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club's weekly program. Elaine Erickson at the helm of Saga was second, 10 seconds behind Mercury, while Margaret Koch's Squall came in third in 45:10.

Ross and Peterman's Saga won the Snipe class race for men in 29:42, with Schmidt and Lawver second in Dry Sue a minute later. John Mohr Jr., guided Mercury home in third place in 30:56.

The Lightning class boats, sailing a 6 mile course, were led home by Warren Hatch's Folly in 1:07:18, with Todd II. piloted by Myron Steinberg, only 12 seconds behind in second place.

Windy City Playoffs Will Continue Tonight

BEES VANQUISH PHILLIES TWICE, 2 TO 1, 10 TO 0

Salvo Yields 6 Hits in 2d Game Shutout.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 1 (AP).—The hustling Boston Bees scored a double triumph, 2 to 1 and 10 to 0, over the Philadelphia Phillies today to sweep the three game series and run their victory string to five straight. Jim Tobin limited the cellar dwellers to six hits in the opener while Manuel Salvo gave up the same number in the second game to score his fifth shutout of the season. A five run first inning against Ike Pearson and Walter Beck ended the Phillies' hopes of a split in the second game. Fans of his native Brighton gave Hugh Mulcahy, who pitched the opener for the Phils, a purse and other gifts. Scores:

PIRATES BLANK CARDINALS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP).—After doling out a 10 to 0 shutout in the first game today, the Pittsburgh Pirates battled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5 to 5 tie in 11 innings of the second game which the Pirates played under protest because of a changed decision by Umpire George Magerkurth. Fiery Frankie Frisch was chased from the second game by Magerkurth after protesting the decision calling Jim Brown out, then safe at first in the seventh inning. The game was called because of the Sunday time limit. Ken Heintzelman turned in his best performance of the season in the opener, holding the Cardinals to four hits and getting four of the Pirates' hits. The Pirates scored eight runs in the fourth inning, sending 13 men to the plate and being aided by two errors by the Cardinals. Scores:

CHITWOOD WINS 30 MILE RACE ON SYRACUSE TRACK

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP).—Joie Chitwood of Tulsa, Okla., won the 30 mile feature in the national automobile program today.

Chitwood, with a time of 39.96 on the one mile dirt track was less than one second from the all-time track mark of 39 made by Rex Mays here in 1938. The Oklahoma Indian then took the first 10 mile sprint.

Albert Putnam of Los Angeles, Cal., was reported in a critical condition tonight as a result of injuries suffered in a trial lap when his car hit a rail. Putnam was thrown clear, but suffered a severe head injury, broken right arm and shock. He remained unconscious tonight. Qualifying times included:

Joie Chitwood, Tulsa, Okla.	39.96
Everit Saylor, Dayton, O.	40.11
Frank McGurk, Los Angeles, Cal.	41.22
Steve Truchon, Chicago, Ill.	41.76
Buddy Rusch, Indianapolis, O.	41.85
Bud Houghton, Toledo, O.	50.97

YANKEES DEFEAT SENATORS TWICE, 3 TO 2 AND 3 TO 0

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The New York Yankees nudged within one game of second place in the American league today by sweeping a double header from the Washington Senators, 3 to 2 and 3 to 0, on the sterling pitching of Red Ruffing and Rookie Ernie Bonham. It was the seventh straight victory and the 13th in 14 games for the world champions, who cut the margin of the first place Cleveland Indians to 4½ games.

Ruffing beat Dutch Leonard in a pitching duel in the opener with the help of a two-run homer by Red Rolfe in the first inning and the deciding run that Charley Keller scored on a wild pitch in the third. It was Ruffing's 13th triumph.

Bonham yielded only four hits in the second game and let but two men get to second. One of them, Jack Sanford, rookie first baseman, would have scored except that Umpire John Quinn ruled he failed to touch home plate. He reached first on an error, went to third on a single, and raced Right Fielder Tommy Henrich's throw home after a fly. The Senators protested the decision futilely. Scores:

Reds Win Pair from Cubs to Sweep Series

latter base was unprotected by Hack or Mattick. Leiber ran to the 383 foot marker in left center to pull down Frank McCormick's drive, Werber scoring. Lombardi and Ripple got Mike McCormick home with a pair of singles before Goodman lined to Mattick.

In their half of the fifth, the Cubs seemed on the way for two runs and a tie when Collins opened with a single and scored on Mattick's double. Then the rally stopped. Lee fanned, Hack tapped to Frey and Herman filed to Mike McCormick.

Then came the home fifth and Lee's customary exit. With one out, Mike McCormick singled to left, but Gleeson ran to the scoreboard for Frank McCormick's drive and the second out. Lombardi was hit by a pitched ball and Ripple walked, loading the bases. Goodman singled to right, scoring Mike McCormick and Lombardi, Ripple reaching third. Goodman and Ripple executed a double steal, Ripple scoring, after which Frey singled to right, scoring Goodman. Bryant replaced Lee and Frey stole second. Myers walked, but Turner filed to Leiber.

Cub Rally Falls Short.

The Cubs made four runs in the eighth and had the tying run on third and the potential winner on second when the inning ended. Bryant started things with a single to left and went to third on Hack's single to right. Herman singled to left, Bryant scoring. Bonura doubled to left center, scoring Hack and Herman and that was enough for Turner. Beggs went in and walked Leiber, but then struck out Nicholson. Gleeson flied to Ripple, but Dallessandro, batting for Collins, smacked the first pitch for a single to right, Bonura scoring and Leiber reaching third. Dallessandro reached second when Goodman juggled the ball. The rally ended when Werber grabbed Mattick's bouncer and threw him out.

Cavarretta batted for Bryant at the start of the ninth and bounced to Frank McCormick. Hack singled to center for his third hit of the game. Hack and Herman put on one of their fancy hit and run specials [which haven't worked for months] and Herman popped to Frey as Hack raced to second. Stan was still on second when Frey ended the game by tossing to Frank McCormick, doubling Hack.

SECOND GAME

Hack and Herman fought off Herman's passion for trying to "hit behind the runner" at the start of the second game and it wasn't their fault that the Cubs didn't get off to a lead. Hack started the contest by walking and Herman was requested to bat straight away. He singled to left, putting Hack on third. Bonura then lined to Myers and Herman was doubled off first. Leiber filed to Mike McCormick.

The Red offensive in the first inning also started with a walk—a pass to Werber. Bill moved over on Mike McCormick's sacrifice and scored on Frank McCormick's single.

The Cubs loaded the bases in the sixth on a couple of walks and a single by Leiber, but the inning ended when Mike McCormick sprinted to the scoreboard in left center to pull down Collins' drive.

In their end of the sixth the Reds stepped out for their second run. After Moore had struck out, Werber tripled to right center and scored on Mike McCormick's single.

The Cubs' fourth hit was Hack's homer with two out in the seventh. The drive, Stan's third of the season, carried well into the right field bleachers.

Cubs Fail with Three on.

Leiber and Nicholson walked with one out in the eighth. Gleeson ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then popped to Frank McCormick. Dallessandro batted for Collins for the third time in the series and for the third time got on base, in this instance on a pass which loaded the bases. Cavarretta was announced as the pinch batter for Mattick, whereupon Moore was replaced by Beggs, reliever in all three games of the series. Cavarretta duplicated his pinch performance in the first game. He bounced out to Frank McCormick.

Russell batted for French at the start of the ninth and grounded out to Myers. Myers made a fine play toward second to get Hack's grounder and throw him out. Herman singled to right for the fifth Cub hit, then Craft went to the center field wall for Bonura's fly.

MEXICO OPENS CONGRESS UNDER HEAVY GUARD

Rival Legislature Formed by Almazan's Men.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1 (AP).—Thousands of police, soldiers, military cadets, organized workers and peasants guarded the legislative chambers today as President Lazaro Cardenas delivered his annual message to the new congress to which two rival groups claim election.

The congressional slate of Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, administration candidate who has been declared president-elect by the government party, held possession of the chambers, altho congressional candidates under the banner of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, who is now in the United States, contend they were elected in the voting on July 7 and that Almazan is the new president.

President's Route Guarded.

Old timers in the capital said they had never seen anything like the elaborate precautions taken to avoid disorders and possible bloodshed as Cardenas rode the seven blocks from the presidential palace and as he reviewed the six years of his administration. All troops in the capital area and in some outlying districts had been ordered to remain in barracks in readiness for any disorders.

The Almazan forces, meeting secretly in a small Mexico City arena, organized what they called "Mexico's only legal legislature." They chose José Castro Estrada, from Cardenas' home state of Michoacan, as president of the chamber, and voted to meet again Monday. Within the next few days they are expected to proclaim the election of Almazan as president.

The official radio announced that 200,000 cheering workers and peasants lined the streets from the presidential palace to the chamber of deputies.

Vote Blow at Reds.

Shortly before Cardenas' arrival, both houses of the congress adopted a resolution of Deputy Ramon Camarina of Vera Cruz calling on PRM [Mexican workers federation], administration political party, to "terminate all official relations with the communist party."

President Cardenas criticized the claims of Almazan's followers, observing that some had wished to make him umpire without thinking that "the law empowers the legislative bodies exclusively with sole powers to decide the legitimacy of its own membership and of passing on elections for the presidency." He continued:

"Some elements, arrogating to themselves functions of municipal and state legislative authorities and of the congressional installation committee, tried to attribute to themselves, by their own actions, triumphs in the elections, forgetting that popular sovereignty is exercised thru means indicated by constitutional norms."

United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels and seven embassy attachés, as well as diplomats of other nations, attended the ceremonies.

YOUNG HUNTER SLAIN BY FRIEND THRU ACCIDENT

The season's first hunting accident on the north shore cost the life yesterday of Arthur Beinlich, 15 years old, of 671 Dundee road, Northbrook. Beinlich, son of the superintendent of the Glencoe water department, was shot accidentally by a companion, Leonard Helke, 17, son of the chief of the Glencoe police department.

Arthur Beinlich.

Two youths, accompanied by their fathers, George J. Beinlich and William Helke, were hunting doves in the Northbrook marshes. Young Helke told Lieut. Fred Haeger of the county highway police that he and young Beinlich were about 50 feet ahead of their fathers, who were trying to scare some doves into the air. The two youths were kneeling. Then, young Helke said, as he got to his feet he stumbled and his 12 gauge shotgun was discharged and struck the Beinlich youth in the back.

Edward Ward and William White of the highway police went to the scene to investigate. An inquest will be held in Northbrook tomorrow.

KUMMER—Arthur P. Kummer of Moline,

NATION'S STEEL MILLS RUNNING NEAR CAPACITY

Output Rate Highest of Year at 91½%.

With many of the nation's steel mills operating at 100 per cent of rated capacity and some as high as 109 per cent, the national average rose last week to 91½ per cent, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. This is the highest level of the year.

The industry's rate moved up 1 point during the week. Chicago operations were the largest of any of the producing districts, advancing 1 point to 99 per cent of capacity, the magazine said. Pittsburgh area mills expanded their average rate 3½ points to 86½ per cent.

As backlogs of orders continue to accumulate on producers' books, there has been no correction in the delays in shipments of some types of steel, the publication asserted.

Inventory Increase Noted.

Delays in delivery have particularly affected plates, structural steel, and special analysis steel for which demand probably will continue to expand, the magazine said, adding:

"Some increase in inventory is evident but probably not out of line with current consumption and possibility of further delivery delay. In a considerable area a canvass indicates 75 to 90 days' supply of steel and 60 days' requirements in pig iron. Foundries are increasing production and pig iron and coke shipments are heavier.

"Scrap presents an interesting situation, supply being light and melters holding back but prices rising gradually in absence of demand."

No Labor Training Miracles.

The United States defense labor training program, now two months old, "is proceeding fairly satisfactorily, but has not produced nor is expected to produce any miracles in equipping this nation with an adequate supply of fully skilled man power," the magazine said.

The publication estimated that as of Aug. 31, 90,000 trainees were enrolled in training courses in public vocational schools, with 20,000 placed in jobs. This represents a gain of 10,000 trainees and 17,000 placed since July 31.

"Best estimates of the number of additional skilled workers needed by the end of this year range from 750,000 to more than 1,250,000," the magazine said.

'Tremendous' Gains Claimed in Defense Job

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—The national defense commission today reported "tremendous activity" on the industrial preparedness front and said that plane production should increase by 50 per cent by the end of this year.

William S. Knudsen.

What a 50 per cent increase in production would mean was gauged by President Roosevelt's statement to reporters last week that actual deliveries of military aircraft were now averaging about 800 a month. Mr. Roosevelt said deliveries would reach an annual rate of 10,000 before the close of August and an annual rate of 13,000 to 14,000 by next Jan. 1.

Knudsen Reports Progress.

The commission said that William S. Knudsen, its production chief, had reported after a two weeks' flying inspection of major aircraft facilities that "the aircraft manufacturers are showing progress."

"New plants are under construction and employment in industry rising rapidly," the commission report continued. "There is tremendous activity. Plane production should increase by 50 per cent by the end of 1940. Right now work is under way to coördinate the demands of the army and navy to avoid confusion and speed up production."

Raw Materials Accumulated.

Reviewing developments of the last week, the report said large increases were made in reserve supplies of raw materials vital to defense.

"Arrangements were made to increase the stock pile of rubber by 180,000 tons, bringing the reserves arranged for in this commodity up to 416,000 tons," the commission said. "Over three-quarters of the stock pile of manganese has already been arranged for. Various other strategic materials are flowing into the country every day, insuring the nation against shortages in case of emergency."

New Coach-Sleeper Used in Daily Santa Fe Service

A new type of car designated a "coach-sleeper" will be operated on the Santa Fe Ranger daily for a six week experimental period, starting Sept. 9 from Chicago and Sept. 10 from Kansas City. Each car contains 10 rooms with accommodations for 45 passengers.

July Exports of Iron, Steel Set New High

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 [Special].—Iron and steel exports, exclusive of scrap, totaled 707,809 gross tons valued at $39,511,996 during July, a new high, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce reported today. It was the third marked increase in as many months.

June exports amounted to 617,678 tons valued at $38,794,157. In July a year ago exports were 163,598 tons valued at $12,141,748.

Compared with steel ingot production, July exports represented 14.2 per cent of the domestic output. In June the proportion was 12.5 per cent, and in July, 1939, only 5.1 per cent.

During the first seven months of 1940 3,478,423 tons of iron and steel valued at $237,482,208 were exported, more than three times as much in quantity and nearly three times as much in value as was shipped to foreign markets in the comparable period of 1939.

Continued large purchases of ingots, blooms, and other products again made the United Kingdom the leading export market in July with a total of 376,066 tons of iron and steel. Canada was second with purchases of 69,969 tons.

During July, the department said, automobile exports declined to $15,425,218, or 17.1 per cent below the June total of $18,624,763. The July figure was the lowest since September, 1939.

500 FIFTH AVE.

Please give me information about the status of the 6½ per cent first mortgage leasehold bonds due 1949 of 500 Fifth Avenue, Inc.—G. T.

Answer: Interest due June 1 this year on the first mortgage leasehold 6½ per cent bonds of 1949 of 500 Fifth Avenue, Inc., was defaulted. A protective committee of bondholders was formed to take action against the corporation. The committee reported it had received authorizations from holders of from about 60 per cent of the $4,000,000 in outstanding bonds to act in their behalf.

The bonds are secured by a first mortgage on a 58 story store and office building located in the Fifth avenue shopping district at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and 42d street, New York City. The building stands on leased ground. Efforts to reduce the ground rent and to modify the trust indenture of the bonds are being made by the protective committee.

Under agreements made by the corporation with holders of $3,800,000 of the bonds, interest payable from June 1, 1934 thru Dec. 1, 1941, was reduced to 4 per cent. Fixed charges on the bonds have not been covered by company earnings since 1930.

What is the property of the Bear Mountain Hudson River Bridge company?—V. M.

Answer: The Bear Mountain Hudson River Bridge company owns and operates a suspension type toll bridge across the Hudson river between Anthony's Nose and Fort Clinton, N. Y. The bridge will be sold Sept. 25 to the New York State Bridge Authority for $2,275,000.

TRADE SPRINTS TO MEET WAR'S VAST DEMANDS

Industries Set New Production Peaks.

New York, Sept. 1—(AP).—Entering the second year of the European war, America's prolific machine-age industry is reaching for new production records under the stimulus of multi-billion dollar arms spending.

Shipbuilding, aircraft, tool and engine manufacturing, electric power, and certain newer industries, like synthetic textiles, have emerged from the first war year at or near peak performances.

Steel, backbone of booming war industry, has made a running start toward a new output record for the final half of the year.

United States and British war orders and defense plan contracts have piled up one of the largest backlogs of unfilled business in the history of American industry.

Normal Period for Advance

In normal peacetime activity industry after Labor day feels the stimulus of the farm harvest, movement of crops into export channels, and the upswing in retail trade as vacation crowds return to cities and the farmer spends his harvest cash.

From around $200,000,000 monthly now, the rate of arms outlay by the United States may climb to more than $500,000,000 next spring, some analysts calculate.

The climb in business of concerns feeling the impact of arms spending has made the busiest summer since 1929 for industry generally.

After a relatively quiet summer, certain markets representing the lighter lines of production—like cotton goods—showed signs last week of starting on another sprint. Textile demand, usually slow before Labor day, burst into activity, giving Worth street the largest run of orders since early June.

Markets Catch Optimism.

Wall street markets, becalmed most of the summer in the smallest trading in 22 years, finally caught some of the climbing spirit industry has exhibited for months. Stocks and bonds advanced with a sprightlier step just before the Labor day recess.

The financial district seemed to think England had a better chance of holding out against air assaults on her vital industrial and military defenses.

Moreover, many traders tried to anticipate expected post-Labor day business gains and the possibility these may outweigh proposed boosts in corporate taxes.

Reports Group Insurance Has Set New Peak

Group insurance has reached levels never before attained, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, announced yesterday.

Thomas I. Parkinson.

"Group life insurance in force in all companies now exceeds $15,100,000,000, and this protection provides, on the average, a year's wages for his family in the event of the death of any one of the 10 million insured workers," Parkinson said. "A total of 25,000 employing companies coöperate with their employés to provide group life protection by sharing the cost."

Gains 45 Per Cent.

For his company alone, Parkinson reported the number of group applications underwritten for employers providing such protection for the first time, or supplementing existing plans, had increased thus far in 1940 about 45 per cent over the level of a year earlier.

"It is appropriate," he said, "that Labor day—the American employés' day—finds our nation reaching new heights in the provision of insured employé security thru the coöperation of employers and employés.

Regarded Reliable Barometer.

"Group insurance has often been called a reliable barometer of industrial conditions in that expansion of pay rolls and increased employment is immediately reflected in corresponding increases in group insurance volume. Since group life insurance covers companies employing fifty or more individuals in all varieties of industry, the ups and downs in the aggregate give an accurate picture of employment conditions in private industry and indicate substantial advances in the rehiring of workers."

De Boisanger Appointed Bank of France Governor

VICHY, France, Sept. 1.—Yves Breart de Boisanger today was appointed governor of the Bank of France, replacing Pierre Fournier, who will become honorary governor. The new governor, 43 years old, for many years has been a leading official in the finance ministry. De Boisanger was Georges Bonnet's chief aid when the latter became finance minister after leaving the Washington embassy. He later was appointed first vice governor of the Bank of France.

Cooper-Bessemer Buys New Tools and Equipment

Mount Vernon, O., Sept. 1 [Special].—B. B. Williams, president of the Cooper-Bessemer corporation, today announced the purchase of additional machine tools and equipment for company plants here and at Grove City, Pa. The expansion, he said, was the result of recent orders for Diesel and gas engines from the United States navy, the Maritime commission, and commercial customers manufacturing products essential to national defense.

EVENTS ABROAD HELP TO BOOST PRICES OF GRAIN

Wheat Gains 4 Cents During Week.

Political developments in Europe last week were construed by traders as favorable to a higher range of grain prices. This view, combined with investment buying and mill purchases, lifted wheat futures about 4 cents a bushel from a week earlier.

The upturn came in the face of a large movement of spring wheat in the American northwest, which is said to be taxing the capacity of elevators at Minneapolis and Duluth.

Most of the grain shipped by farmers to terminal markets is being placed in elevators for government loans, it is reported.

Price Below Loan Basis.

At the close of the week May wheat in principal markets was selling at 4 to 10 cents a bushel below the government loan basis.

September corn is an enigma to the grain trade. Prices held within a range of about 1 cent a bushel last week despite purchases of about 1,400,000 bushels of cash grain for deferred shipment from the country. The new crop months, however, were somewhat more active and advanced readily on buying induced by reports that the government loan on the 1940 crop may be about 61 cents a bushel when stored in farmers' cribs. The government lent 57 cents on the 1938 and 1939 crops.

Chicago statisticians will issue estimates on the domestic corn crop on Sept. 4. Brokers believe that the returns will show a moderate decrease from the 2,248,000,000 bushels forecast by the department of agriculture on Aug. 1. The 10 year average crop was 2,299,000,000 bushels.

FLEMING REPORTS $2,616,617 PAID UNDER WAGE LAW

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1 [Special].—American workers have received $2,616,617 in restitution payments for back wages and overtime under the wage-hour law, Col. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, announced today. This was the result, it was said, of a general speedup in operations and wage-hour law enforcement, largely because of simplified financial procedure.

Total restitution collected up to Jan. 30, 1940, amounted to $555,147. In the six months thru July the total was $2,061,470.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By HOMER CROISZ

Toad Stirs Interest.

Sept. 1, 1940.

A BIG toad that lives quietly in a flower bed near one of the homes on the Du Page county farm has become the object of much interest to the farm families who have watched it catch insects with its sticky tongue. The toad has been there since about the middle of June and was the only toad seen on the place during the hot, dry weather. Others have been observed occasionally since the rains.

Toads never are so numerous in this region as in many other parts of the United States, but their calls may be heard around ponds each spring during the mating season. The eggs are laid in shallow ponds and pools where they hatch into small, black tadpoles. These are transformed into toads by midsummer, the young toads hopping up the banks and into the grass by the thousands. Snakes, birds, and frogs eat many of them. The survivors migrate to higher ground and return to the water only for the mating season each year.

Hibernate in Winter.

The adult toads crawl under flat stones and logs or burrow into the ground about the time of the first frost. They may come out on sunny days until late in the fall; then they hibernate for the winter and are seen no more until they start for the ponds the following spring.

The toad is an animal of many legends. Try to prove any of them and you find that proof is scarce; try to disprove some of them and the task is equally hard. Here are some examples:

1. Toads long have been considered of great value to gardeners on the theory that they catch many insects that otherwise would eat up vegetables and flowers. Apparently there are no accurate or well founded figures in proof of this. There are examples of where observers have watched toads catch bugs and have counted the catch over a given period and figured it out that an average toad may be counted on to gobble up 10,000 insects a year. This figure might mean something if the insects were classified into harmful and harmless kinds. Most gardeners depend on sprays rather than toads to keep harmful insects under control.

2. Toads are believed by many persons to cause warts. Scientists say there is no proof that they do, that the warts on toads bear no relation to the warts on human skin. They admit that the virus that causes warts might be got from handling toads, but that it might just as easily be got from some other source without ever touching a toad. The fact that children have more warts than adults is not because children handle toads but because they play in the dirt more, the scientists explain.

Another Toad Myth.

3. There are stories of toads being trapped for many years in foundations or walls of buildings and then being released and revived. Again the scientists are skeptical and would like more definite proof than is available. They doubt if a toad could hibernate indefinitely and survive.

4. Other toad legends that exist locally in various parts of the country are that toads cause milk to sour, that they live longer than most animals, and that small ones often are rained from the clouds, following a dry spell in summer. The one about sour milk probably is in much the same class as the idea that thunder causes milk to sour. As to age, some toads have been known to live 10 to 15 years. Small toads often are thick after a summer rain—they stay out of sight when the weather is hot and dry and hop about in the open after a shower.

Various kinds of toads are found everywhere in North America, Europe, and Asia. The most common toad in the United States is the American toad, Bufo americanus.

Damage Done in England by Bombs of German Air Raiders—Scenes in London and Dover Coast Areas

[Acme Photo.]

British censor said this picture shows all that was left of a group of London homes after a German air raid on the city. The censor said most of the residents escaped death or injury by taking refuge in shelters under ground when the bombing planes came over.

The Rev. E. G. Turner inspecting damage done to his church, St. Giles, Cripplegate, one of London's oldest, and the toppled statue of John Milton, blind English poet, which stood outside the edifice. British censor said the damage was done during raid on London by German war plane on Aug. 25.

[Acme Photo.]

Burned wreckage of a German Heinkel bomber which the British censor said was brought down by antiaircraft fire on the outside of London. The flaming plane was said to have set fire to the two homes in the background, but residents escaped injury.
